Enters Walter Reed Hospital Thursday

Gall Bladder Surgery Set for Eisenhower Late This Week

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 76, will enter Walter Reed Hospital this week for surgery to remove his gall bladder, Eisenhower's office announced today.

The five-star general will enter the hospital Thursday. The exact day or time of the operation was not given.

Eisenhower's office issued this statement:

"The doctors have informed

Gen. Eisenhower that he must have his gall bladder removed soon.

"He plans to enter Walter Reed General Hospital Thursday, Dec. 8, and plans to leave for Palm Desert, Calif., right after the turn of the year."

Physical Exam

Eisenhower underwent surgery and also suffered a heart attack while he was president, and in the fall of 1965 he suffered a heart attack while vacationing in Augusta, Ga. He was hospitalized for several weeks then, first at an Army base in Georgia and later at Walter Reed.

Eisenhower checked in at Walter Reed for an overnight physical examination about 10 days ago. It is assumed that he received the advice of doctors for the gall bladder removal at that time.

Eisenhower's military aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Schulz, said his office would be busy today canceling appointments beyond Thursday.

No Sign of Discomfort

Eisenhower expects to keep appointments Tuesday evening and Wednesday in New York City for a football Hall of Fame dinner and a luncheon for a business group.

Eisenhower has been at his office on the Gettysburg College campus regularly each day since the last Walter Reed checkup.

Gen. Schulz said that if Eisenhower was suffering any physical discomfort during this period he had given no outward sign of it.

Eisenhower reported to his office at 8:25 a.m. today and expected to put in a full day of writing, looking over manuscripts, and answering mail.

'The Fight Goes On'

Rhodesia Rejects Proposals

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith's Cabinet rejected tonight Britain's shipboard agreement on the 13-month-old independence crisis.

Smith told a crowd waiting outside his offices at 8 p.m.: "The fight goes on."

Secretary of State Headed for Conference

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrived in Japan today on his way to a NATO meeting in Paris.

Smith and his Cabinet met for more than four hours this morning without deciding to accept or reject the "working document" which the two prime ministers worked out during a 48-hour meeting on a Royal Navy cruiser in the Mediterranean.

Approved by Cabinet

Wilson Sunday night had ruled out any changes or delay in the document, which his Cabinet approved shortly after his return from the Mediterranean conference.

Smith outlined the proposals to the Rhodesian Cabinet shortly after he returned to Salisbury Sunday night.

Unless the way is clear soon to an end to the Rhodesian rebellion, Britain is pledged to call in the United Nations for compulsory, worldwide economic sanctions against the breakaway colony. That could produce heavy damage to Britain's shaky economy, as well as to Rhodesia's, because British relations with South Africa would be affected.

Details of the proposals were not officially announced. But Wilson told newsmen they were entirely consistent with six British conditions to insure un-

Debate Begins On Merits of Draft in U. S.

Chicago University Group to Study Possible Alternatives

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Chicago draft conference, warned to deal only with facts, takes a hard look today at advantages and disadvantages of the present Selective Service system.

Hershey Favors Draft for Women

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The nation's draft director says he favors drafting women for the U.S. armed forces, but adds there are no current plans to do so.

"Whenever we need women, I think we ought to draft them," said Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey in a copyright interview published Sunday in the University of Michigan student newspaper, the Michigan Daily.

Speeding on a Foggy Highway

The Life He Saves...

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's Texas driving habits are back in the news again.

The White House, using figures from an official log, said Johnson "drove at a moderate speed" on his way to church along a fog-bound highway Sunday.

But a newsman and two photographers driving separate cars said they couldn't keep up with the President despite traveling 80 to 85 miles an hour, and faster in some spurts.

Johnson's accelerator foot stirred stories of high-speed driving in March 1964 but Secret Service cars screened newsmen enough to keep them from clocking the President.

Johnson drove his white Continental from the LBJ Ranch to church at Fredericksburg Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Johnson and Bess

Abell, White House social secretary.

Within hours of reports from the three men who couldn't keep up with Johnson, the White House issued its speeding denial.

The fog limited visibility to about 100 yards and was heavy enough to necessitate some use of lights and windshield wipers, the newsmen said.

The front car hit 100 miles an hour several times but could get in sight only of the Secret Service car trailing Johnson and did not see the President's car. The second car, moving at speeds up to 90 never caught the first. The third car's driver said he never could catch up with the second car, and finally slowed down.

The speed limit on open Texas highways is 70. U.S. 290 in the area is a two-lane, gravel-shouldered road through ranch and farm country.

Nearing Breaking Point

Special to The Post-Crescent

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — State and local taxes are nearing the breaking point, creating a serious dilemma for cities having to meet increased public needs but finding themselves with a shrinking ability to do so.

Fiscal headaches — combined with the problem of getting people to accept community change — were given special attention by government experts and psychologists here today at the Congress of American Cities.

The more than 3,500 delegates from 50 states heard from Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, Detroit; Ronald H. Bailey, Menlo Park, Calif.; U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and Gordon L. Lippitt, Washington, D. C., president of Leadership Resources, Inc. Their subjects were the heavy financial burden of the Viet Nam war, proposed cutbacks in Great Society programs and federal assistance for public works programs.

Cavanagh set the tone, opening that "great and ambitious federal programs aimed at curing the problems of the cities are short of money." Viet Nam spending also came in for criticism.

'Only Skeletons'

"Some programs are crumbling, others are only skeletons," he declared. "The rhetoric and money still are miles away." Cavanagh expressed concern for the war on poverty, charging it was "being driven over a cliff" by various forces.

"One of these forces is the Viet Nam war," he said. "Clearly it is getting the lion's share of the national budget." He said that while Congress formally declared war on poverty, the U.S. — without such a declaration — has become deeply involved in the war in southeast Asia.

"Our readiness to jump into wars when they are outside the three-mile limit seems much greater than our readiness to jump into wars within our

One Enemy MiG Reported Shot Down in Air Battle; Railroad Yard Left in Ruin

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jets flew through a sky full of challenging Communist MIGs Sunday to bomb targets near Hanoi, and pilots reported shooting down one of the Red jets and probably a second.

Retaliating for the heaviest U.S. air losses of the war two days earlier, the American fliers also claimed widespread destruction to one of North Viet Nam's major railroad marshaling yards six miles northeast of Hanoi.

While the air war swirled around the North Vietnamese capital, fresh fighting was reported on the edge of South Viet Nam's capital at the Tan Son Nhut Airport.

American guards led by sentry dogs reported killing 12 more Viet Cong in flushing out remnants of an enemy suicide force which penetrated the big air base Sunday.

30 Viet Cong Killed

In the last two days, U.S. spokesmen reported, 30 Viet Cong were killed inside the defensive perimeter of Saigon's air base. Three Americans were killed and five wounded in the first Viet Cong attack. U.S. casualties in later action were reported night. One U.S. jet fighter and a Vietnamese transport were damaged.

Off the coast of North Viet Nam, the U.S. destroyer Ingersoll fought a gun duel with North Vietnamese shore batteries this morning, U.S. headquarters reported.

A spokesman said the shore batteries opened fire on the Ingersoll while she patrolled six miles off the southern coast of North Viet Nam. The Ingersoll replied with her five-inch guns.

A U.S. spokesman said the destroyer suffered slight damage but no casualties. He had no assessment of damage to the shore guns. The engagement took place 11 miles northeast of Dong Hoi, the spokesman said.

Ground Action Slight

The stepped-up air war around Hanoi dominated the war picture as only small, scattered ground actions again were reported.

U.S. headquarters said American pilots clashed with MIGs and the advanced model delta-wing MIG21s in four encounters. In addition, there were "numerous sightings" of the Soviet-designed jets by U.S. fliers, a spokesman said.

The one MIG shot down and the one "probable" were both the older MIG17s and were credited to Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs.

5 U. S. Planes

The kills were scored two days after the United States lost eight planes and 13 fliers in the worst single-day's toll of men and planes in nearly two years.

High Court to View 'Bugging'

Tribunal Accepts Case on Legalized N. Y. Wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court said today it will examine a New York law permitting electronic eavesdropping under court order.

The court said in a brief order it will decide if the legislation is constitutional. It will do so in giving a hearing to Ralph Berger, a Chicago public relations man convicted of conspiring to bribe Martin C. Epstein, then chairman of the New York State Liquor Authority.

Berger was convicted on two counts, one involving an alleged bribe in connection with a Playboys Club liquor license application in New York City, the other involving an asserted bribe in connection with a liquor license for a place called the Tenement Club, in the same city.

Berger was convicted after a four-week trial and on Dec. 17, 1964 he was sentenced to one year's imprisonment. The conviction was affirmed by New York appellate courts.

Affirmed on Appeals

Berger's appeal to the Supreme Court questioned, among other things, if the New York code of criminal procedure

Freezing Rain, Snow

Treachery Lurks On Roads, Walks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sleet and freezing rain painted much of Wisconsin with ice Sunday making streets and sidewalks glisten with treachery.

Icy pavement was blamed for at least one fatal traffic accident. There were countless other mishaps, and there were few pedestrians who were able to keep firm footing.

An Evanston, Ill., woman died Sunday when thrown from a car that spun out of control on a highway near Kenosha.

Hospitals in Milwaukee reported treating more than 115 persons for falls suffered on sidewalks and streets in a 12-hour period. There were numerous bone fractures from the falls, and Milwaukee police said they took about 80 persons to hospitals in a five-hour period.

Milwaukee police also reported about 200 car accidents.

All major Wisconsin roads had scattered slippery stretches today following Sunday's snow and sleet, the State Highway Department reported.

Lesser traveled roads, the summary added, have more slippery conditions, particularly in areas of slow moving traffic.

The department said driving lanes on the interstate system are mostly clear but do have some widely scattered slippery spots. The passing lanes have conditions ranging from frequent slippery spots to generally. The same condition exists on ramps.

The department said it expected there would be a substantial improvement by midday.

Mayor Buckley Sends a Gingko Bilboa Tree

Appleton to Share in North Las Vegas Growth

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NORTH LAS VEGAS, Nev. — A bit of Appleton, Wis. grows here.

It's a Gingko Bilboa tree, planted here in the Garden of Cities enhancing the surroundings of this community's new civic and cultural center.

Appleton Mayor George Buckley sent his regrets that he could not attend the annual Congress of American Cities but on behalf of Appleton made the goodwill gesture of shipping the tree here.

The planting ceremony took place Sunday afternoon at the dedication of the multi-million dollar civic center in this city of 36,000, which picks up across the street from where the Las Vegas corporate limits end.

ley and mayors of other cities across the country.

A landscape plan had been completed and a $130,000 sprinkler system installed for the Garden of Cities, Taylor said, and urged U. S. cities to join in the beautification project.

Buckley was invited to bring or send a small shrub or tree. In turn, North Las Vegas would dedicate forever, a plot of the city's earth, marked by a plaque to identify it.

"We will carefully nurture and tend to whatever you send or bring as a lasting exchange of good will between us," Taylor said.

Buckley contacted Appleton Forester Roger Rindt last week and the latter said he had "just the thing" — a 14-foot high, two-inch diameter Gingko Bilboa, grown in Appleton at the Alicia Park nursery from whipstock.

"The leaf of the tree is shaped like a Japanese fan," Rindt explained. "It is a highly desirable tree for that part of the country and has a long life span."

Rindt said some Gingko Bilboas grow as tall as 60 feet, although they are slow growers. The tree shipped here took about four years to grow and is a hearty tree, he added.

But getting it here turned out to be the big problem.

Rindt and Buckley had intended to ship it by Railway Express and went to the bus terminal in Appleton to have the tree weighed in and sent on its way.

However, the official certification from a state entomologist was needed to show the tree was disease-free. Outagamie County Agent Russ Luckow was contacted and said a state official from Madison would pass through Appleton the next day and could inspect the tree then.

The tree was given a clean bill of health and was shipped

Packers Beat 49ers, Clinch Tie for Title

maxed an 83-yard, 16-play drive by sneaking into the end zone.

When Don Chandler's extra point kick was blocked, John Brodie's 65-yard touchdown aerial with Dave Parks for a 13-7 score made this, indeed, a hairy situation — especially with the Colts' victory on the scoreboard.

But Starr didn't wait long. On the first play, he pitched a perfect strike to Dale for a 48-yard gain to the 49er 22. Three plays later, Pitts banged into the end zone for a 2-yard TD and San Francisco was dead.

The defense packed its heroics in the first and fourth quarters. Ron Kostelnik and Tom Brown recovered fumbles in the first quarter to kill off the 49ers' active offense, and Bob Jeter and Dave Robinson intercepted Brodie passes in the fourth quarter.

The 49ers won the first half, statistically, but the Bays had the edge in points, 7-0. The visitors had 15 first downs to the Pack's four and a 206-to-138 edge in yards in the first half. Tommy Davis lined up for three field goals in the second quarter. He was short from 45 yards on the first, Jeter blocked the second from 37, and holder George Mira faked a pass (for a 1-yard gain) from the third for the 34.

Reverse The Figures
The Packers reversed the figures in the second half, grabbing a 15-4 edge in first downs and a 173-115 edge in yards.

For the day, the 400-yard 49ers were simmered down to 321 yards against the Pack's 311. Green Bay had a 20-17 edge in first downs and 66-64 in total plays.

Starr, who hit 13 of 24 for 236 yards and one TD for the murky afternoon, completed three to Dale for 142 yards. Fullback Jim Taylor had his best afternoon of the season to date, with 84 yards in 18 carries.

It was an explosive match filled with 11 penalties, seven on the 49ers for 66 yards. The tough defenses produced 13 punts, eight by Chandler, who averaged 41.9, including a 51-yarder. Starr was caught four times attempting to pass, Brodie once.

The Packers got into a hole on the opening kickoff.

Despite the low score, it was an explosive and brutal match — with 11 penalties, seven on the 49ers for 66 yards. The tough defenses produced 13 punts, eight by Chandler, who averaged 41.9, including a 51-yarder into the wind. Starr was caught four times attempting to pass, Brodie once. Each quarterback fumbled under the heavy rushes.

The Packers got into a hole on the opening kickoff when Davis' short kickoff bounced around before Donny Anderson could get started. He was nailed on the eight.

Crashes For 9
The odds Green Bay would score on the first series were staggering, but that they did. Taylor crashed for nine yards, taking the Bays out of the hole, and then Starr pulled his TD magic with only 1:16 gone.

The dogfight set in. With Willard and Crow running and Brodie pitching short passes, the 49ers made four first downs to the Packer 18. But on a third-and-7 play Lionel Aldridge hit Brodie hard and Kostelnik recovered the fumble.

The 49ers exploded again — this time on a 35-yard pass from Brodie to Parks, but Parks fumbled and Brown recovered on the Packer 33.

The 49ers made three more bids before the half. A roughing penalty gave the 49ers position for a field goal try from the 45, but Davis' kick was short.

Crow ran 15 yards and Brodie passed 11 yards to Crow to set up the 49ers' second drive, which ended triumphantly for the Pack when Jeter blocked Davis' field goal try from the 37.

Swat Punt Dead
Doug Hart and Gale Gillingham did a fine job of swatting Chandler's punt dead on the 1-yard line, thus putting the 49ers in a deep hole midway in the second quarter. But the 49ers got off the hook with three straight rushes by Willard and finally a 22-yard run by Davis off a punt.

The Packers finally forced a punt but so did the 49ers and the visitors made one last try on a 16-yard pass from Brodie to Crow. With 20 seconds left, Mira, holding for a Davis field goal on the 33, leaped up and looked for a receiver but nobody was open and he ran for a yard.

The third quarter was a punting match between Davis and Chandler, as it appeared the 7-0 score might hold up. Then, without notice, the Packers went on their 83-yard TD drive.

The move started on the Packer 17 and Taylor rushed for seven yards on the last two plays of the third quarter. The big moves were Starr passes to Taylor for eight, Dale for 11,

The 49ers' Dave Parks (81) fumbles when hit by the Packers' Bob Jeter in Sunday's National Football League at County Stadium. The play started on a pass completion from John Brodie, but the 49ers lost the ball on the fumble. (Post-Crescent News Service Photo)

Pitts for 11 and Fleming for 17 to the 49er 12.

From that point, Pitts carried five straight times, reaching the 1-yard line — from where Starr sneaked over.

After Jeter intercepted and Chandler punted, Brodie threw to Parks to the left and deep. Before making a juggling catch he shoved Jeter off stride and then ran to the 65-yard TD. It was rather obvious offensive interference, but no penalty was called. This made it 13-7.

Anderson got a good return — to the 30, and then Starr went to work. Getting good protection, he threw a strike down the middle to Dale who got behind Alexander and Kimbrough for a 48-yard gain to the 49er 22. Taylor ripped off 10 and the 49ers drew a penalty when Miller clubbed Taylor after he was down, putting the ball on the six. Pitts ripped for four and then two for the TD, with 2:55 left.

The 49ers stormed back with a first down to midfield but Robinson circled to the middle and intercepted a Brodie pass to end it.

Field Narrowed to Nine Sunday

Still No Verdict on New UW Grid Coach

By JAMES R. POLK

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin, importing the architect of top - ranked Notre Dame's dominant defenses for a private interview, quizzed five more candidates for its football coaching post Sunday night, but made no immediate choice.

With the field narrowed to nine finalists, law Prof. Frank Remington, chairman of the university's Athletic Board, said, "We still hope to have a decision this week."

The board brought Notre Dame assistant John Ray, Miami of Ohio head coach Glenn (Bo) Schembechler, and Colorado State University Coach Mike Lude to the interviewing session by special invitation.

Also questioned were assistant coaches Coleman (Buck) McPhail of Illinois and Don White of Washington.

Maybe Tuesday

Remington set the next session for Tuesday night and said, "We hope to get pretty close to a decision."

He confirmed the board planned to make its selection from among the five latest candidates and four persons interviewed last week.

The four are Bob Odell of Pennsylvania, Frank Navarro of Williams College, and Wisconsin assistants John Coatta and Mike McGee.

Ray, 40, former head coach at John Carroll and top lieutenant to Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian the past three seasons, loomed as a front - runner for the job.

The post was vacated last month when Milt Bruhn, Wisconsin coach for 11 years, resigned at the end of his third straight losing season.

Invitations Sent

Remington confirmed that Ray, Schembechler and Lude all had been invited for the interviews although they had not applied for the post previously.

Ray also has been mentioned for the vacant North Carolina job while Schembechler has figured in speculation at Vanderbilt.

All of them indicated interest," Remington said. "We didn't ask them to commit themselves on a decision."

The board met for nearly eight hours and spent the last two in closed-door debate over the coaching choice.

"We took some very preliminary kinds of straw attitudes, but nothing that could be called a ballot," Remington reported when he emerged after midnight. "We agreed that everybody we've interviewed is still being considered."

Ray, a former Notre Dame center, had a 29-6 slate in five seasons at John Carroll and his record - smashing 1962 team ranked as the nation's best defensive club in NCAA small college standings. He is credited with building the annual Irish Gibraltars on defense each autumn since leaving Carroll.

No Comment

The Notre Dame assistant, attired in a forest green sports coat, bit off newsmen's questions in the lobby of the Madison Club where the board met. Schembechler also brushed off inquiries.

Schembechler had a 9-1 record this fall and has been widely mentioned to follow Parseghian, Red Blaik, Ohio State's Woody Hayes and Indiana's John Point on the long roll call of Miami coaches who graduated to greater fame.

Schembechler, an assistant under Hayes for five years at Ohio State, stands 27-10-3 for his four seasons as Redskins coach. He had indicated previously he would remain at Miami next year.

Lude, 44, longtime assistant at Delaware, rebounded with a 7-3 record this fall but stands on 19-32 for five seasons as head coach at Colorado State University.

McPhail, 36, a record-busting former fullback for Oklahoma, has been an assistant under Pete Elliott at California and Illinois for 10 seasons. White, 38, has been offensive line coach at Washington for seven years. "If you're wondering if I'm interested in having the job, you'd better believe it," McPhail said. Ray and Schembechler are linked with Odell and Coatta as the leading contenders in private speculation.

Congressmen To Investigate Red Auto Plans

Russia Seeks U. S. Machine Tools for Proposed Venture

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Among the scores of carefree congressional junkets between now and Jan. 1, one leaves Tuesday to probe the Iron Curtain on a deadly serious mission that could have a profound impact on East-West trade prospects.

Novak

On the basis of what these congressmen see and feel may hinge the fate of President Johnson's proposal to permit for the first time the import of U.S. machine tools to the Soviet Union. And, in domestic politics, this congressional journey could be a start toward thawing a generation of Republican opposition to East-West trade.

Four members of the House Banking Committee — Democrats Lud Ashley of Ohio and Thomas Rees of California and Republicans James Harvey of Michigan and Chester Mize of Kansas — will spend some two weeks in four Communist countries: Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and the Soviet Union itself.

Probe Auto Plant

But the real unannounced goal of the trip is to probe Soviet plans for a billion dollar auto plant that is supposed to produce an awesome 600,000 Italian Fiat a year. Not only would that create overnight a consumer automotive industry in Russia but would break the cold war prohibition against importing U.S. machine tools to Russia. President Johnson on Oct. 7 announced approval of an export-import bank loan for Fiat to purchase American tools for its Russian plant.

That's where Congress comes in. If the liberal 89th Congress of 1966 was hostile to trading with Communists, it naturally follows that the considerably more conservative 90th Congress next year may kill the Fiat loan — unless counterpressures develop on Capitol Hill.

The four-man congressional mission may begin such counterpressure if it likes what it sees and hears in Russia about the Fiat deal. When they return to Washington, Ashley's subcommittee will open hearings that could become a sounding board in favor of liberalized East-West trade.

Particularly interesting is the presence on the mission of Michigan's Harvey, a pragmatic Republican who often challenges party orthodoxy (such as his vote for rent supplements in the last Congress). Like many moderate Republicans, Harvey questions the wisdom of the party's longtime stand against East-West trade and is going to Russia with an open mind.

The secret role played by New York's Liberal Party in electing Republican Nelson Rockefeller to a third term as governor was far greater than the state's defeated Democrats realize to this day.

It was obvious to all that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., the Liberal candidate for governor, took many votes that otherwise would have gone to Democrat Frank O'Connor. But late in the campaign, Liberal strategists were panicked by polls that showed Roosevelt also cutting into elements of the New York City Jewish vote that never would go for O'Connor but might end up in Rockefeller's corner.

An O'Connor win would be the worst of all possible worlds for the Liberals. It would show that a Democrat could win in New York without Liberal support — thereby ending the over-sized influence of the small party in the state. Consequently, a decision was taken by Liberal leaders to shift votes from their candidate, Roosevelt, to Rockefeller by neglecting the Jewish vote in the final, critical weeks of the campaign.

Liberal insiders even went so far as to discreetly pass this word to the Rockefeller camp, suggesting it would be wise for Republicans to concentrate on the Jewish vote in the closing weeks. The strategy worked, accounting for a big switch to Rockefeller from Roosevelt that won the election.

FLORIDA FOR ROMNEY?

A private testimonial dinner recently for Republican Gov.-Elect Claude Kirk revealed that this deep south state's convention delegation may not be so irrevocably committed to Richard Nixon as is generally thought.

At the head table at the Kirk dinner was Leonard Hall, the former Republican national chairman from Oyster Bay, N.Y. In the audience were some of Hall's key political operatives. Indeed, though it was not publicized, Hall played a major behind-the-scenes' role in Kirk's vigorous campaign and imported political technician Bob Lee from Denver, Colorado, as Kirk's campaign manager.

What makes this of national interest is the fact that Hall strongly supports Michigan Gov. George Romney's bid for the Republican presidential nomination. It is considered at least possible that he could help swing Kirk, heretofore a strong Nixon man, into the Romney corner.

Team on Way To Antarctic

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — An eight-man American mountaineering team that will attempt to climb the virgin peaks of the highest mountain in Antarctica arrived in Auckland from Los Angeles today.

The team, led by lawyer Nicholas Clinch, 36, plans to fly by a U.S. Navy plane from Christchurch to McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, later this week. Another Navy plane will fly them 1,300 miles to within 20 miles of the 16,800-foot Vinson Massif, which has never been climbed.

The expedition, financed by the National Geographic Society, is traveling to Antarctica primarily to undertake geological programs and the assault on Vinson Massif is incidental to the main work, Clinch said.

A second group of mountaineers is organizing in Buenos Aires, Argentina, for a flight to Antarctica and also hopes to climb Vinson Massif. That party is headed by Woodrow Wilson Sayre, grandson of the late president.

Firemen Climb 28 Stories for False Alarm

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — City firemen made a 28-story climb Sunday to find they had responded to a false alarm.

Firemen sped to the 39-story Xerox Corp. building, now under construction in downtown Rochester, after receiving a call that flames had been spotted on the 28th floor.

The building's electricity was turned off and the elevators were inoperative, so they began hauling hoses and other fire-fighting equipment up the staircase in four-degree-above-zero weather.

They eventually found the source of the flames — a controlled kerosene fire being used to dry concrete.

Woman Minister Installed At Church in Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The Rev. Mrs. Arthur J. Snow will be installed as minister of Christ Congregational Church, United Church of Christ, by the Northeast Association of the Wisconsin Conference of the United Church of Christ at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Those conducting the installation will be the Rev. Paul Olm, Appleton, minister of the Northeast Association; the Rev. Edward Dahl, minister of First Church, Appleton; the Rev. Neil Nordstrom, minister of Plymouth Congregational Church, Oshkosh; and the Rev. Charles Bagby, minister of Union Congregational Church, Green Bay, and chairman of the Committee on Ministerial Standing, who is moderator of the Association.

Local clergymen and congregations have been invited. The Deacons will serve as hosts and the Deaconesses have charge of the coffee hour following the service.

State Considers Land Purchase Along Wolf River

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The State Conservation Commission says it is considering acquiring 1,200 acres of land along the Wolf River in Langlade County.

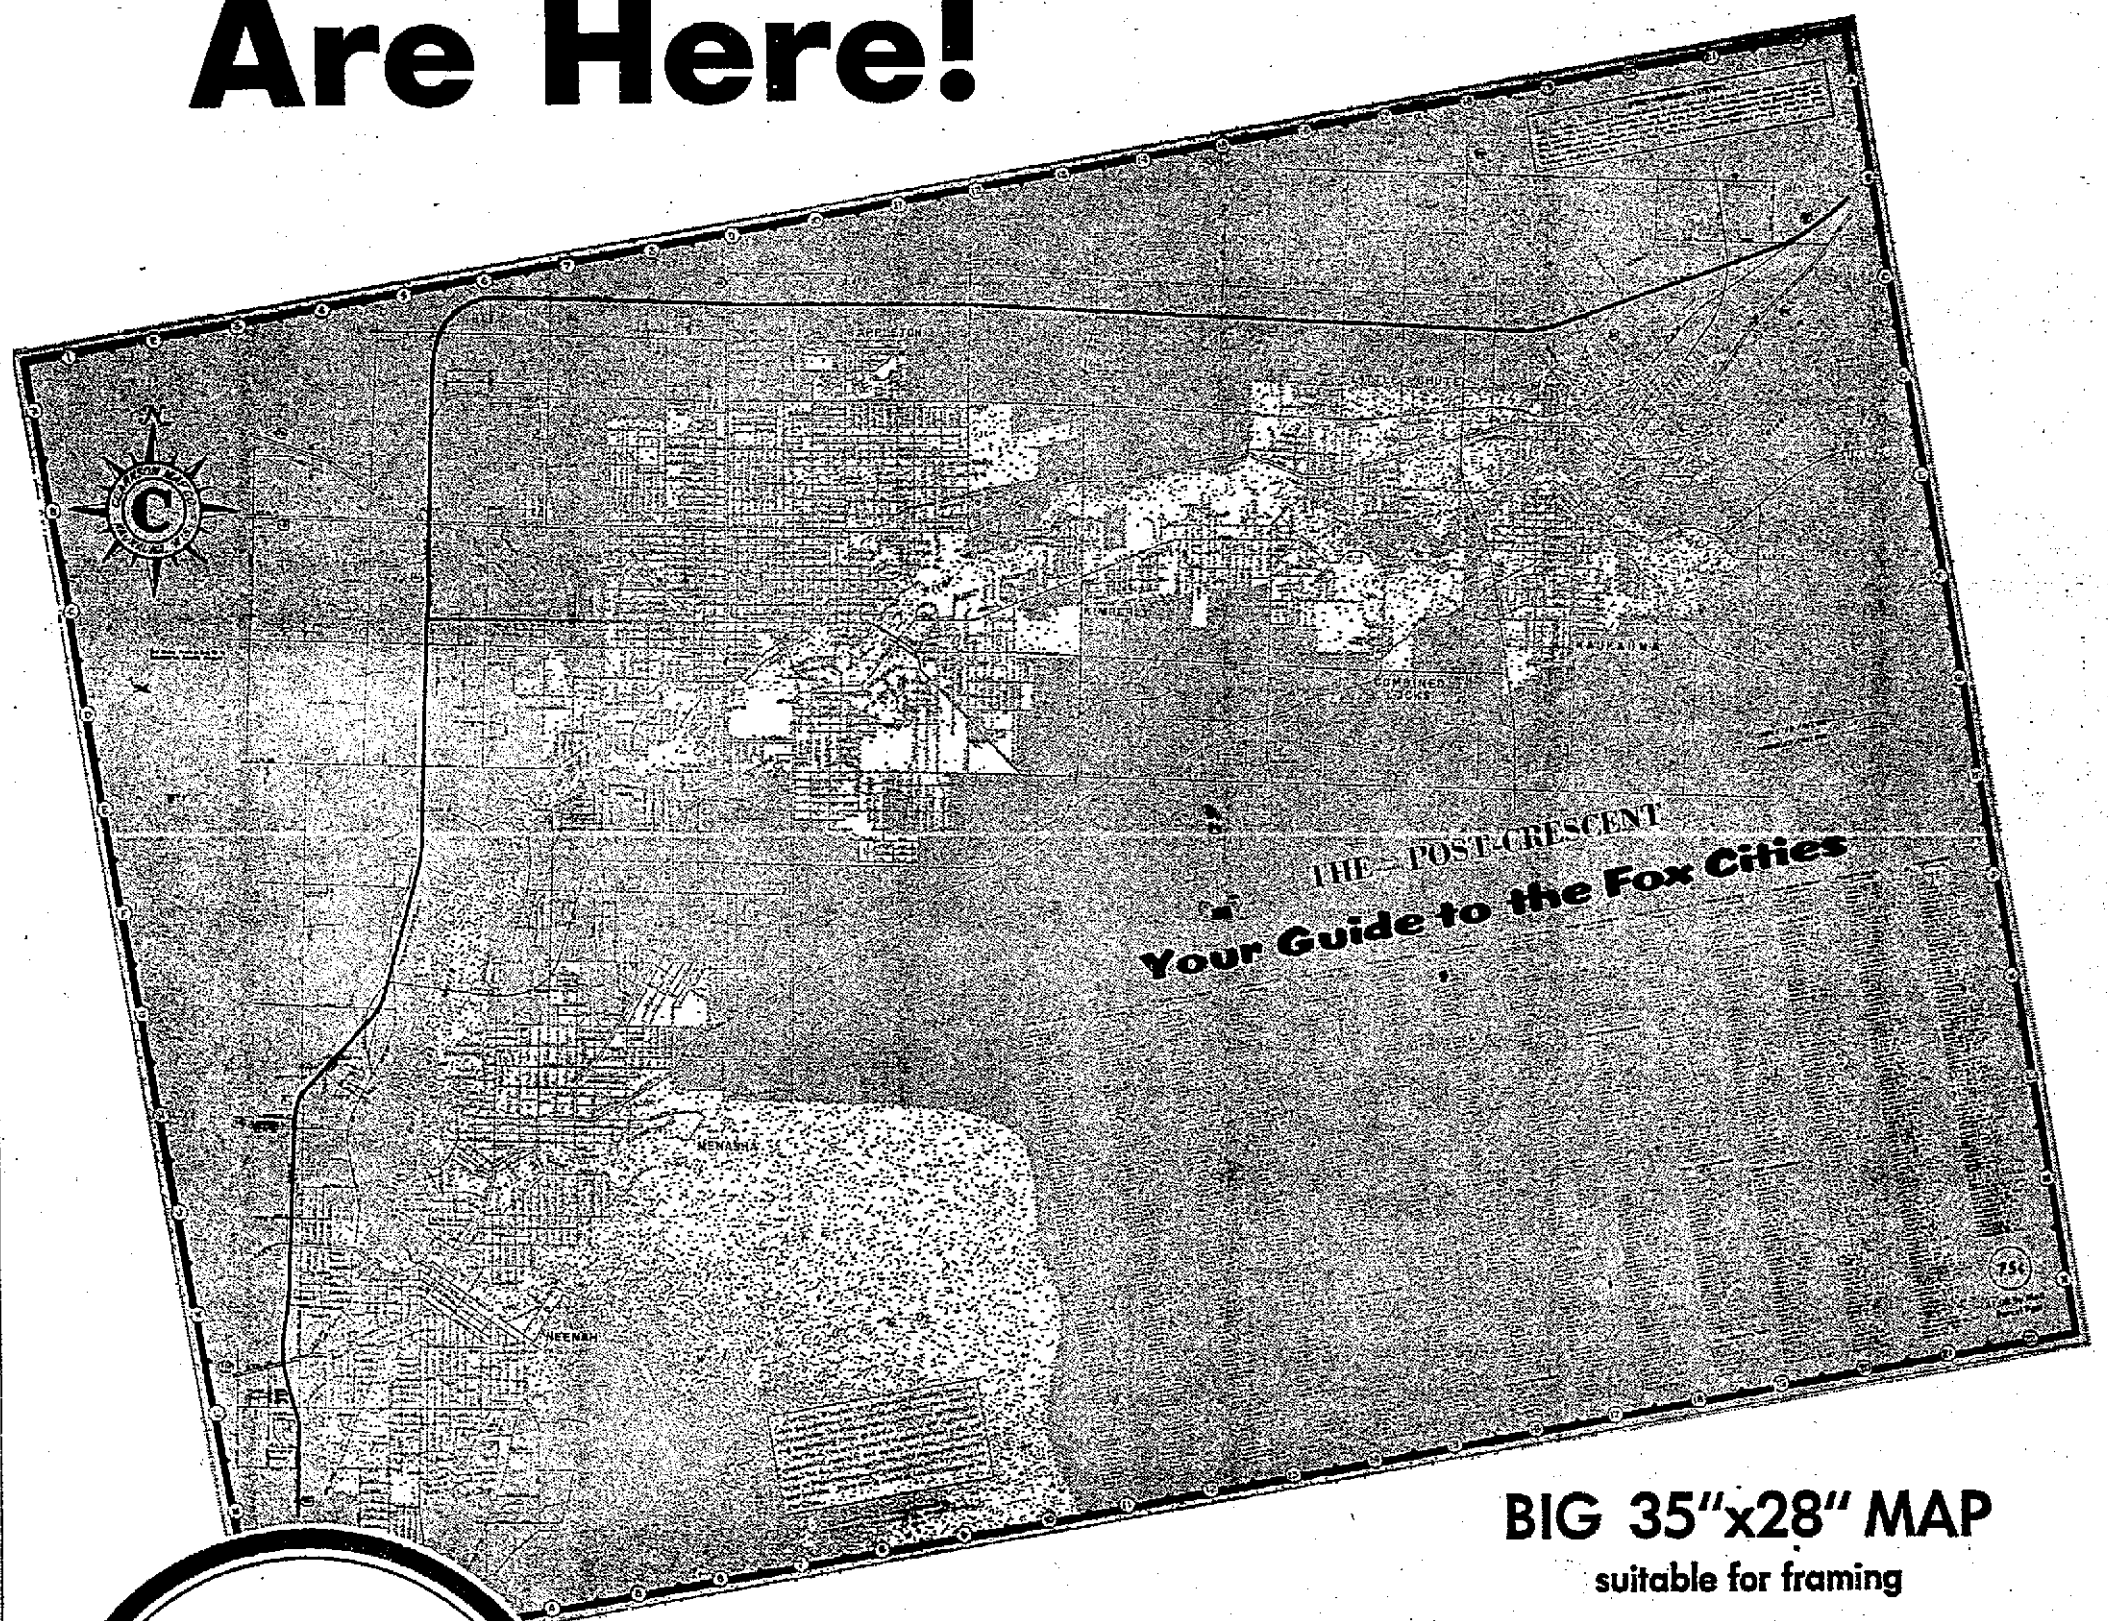

The acquisition, to be discussed at a commission meeting Friday, would involve tracts for eight miles along the river.

Walter E. Scott, assistant to the director of the State Conservation Department, said Sunday during a meeting sponsored by the Sierra Club that the state hopes eventually to acquire land for 34 miles along the stream.

The government, he said, is being asked to pay half the cost of the project on a matching-fund basis. He estimated the project would cost more than a million dollars.

State's Prosperity Shown In Apportionment of Tax

Shares Represent an Aggregate
Of 133,000,000, Up $14,000,000

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The general prosperity of the Wisconsin economy has brought welcome increases in state income tax shares to the treasuries of Appleton and most of the other municipalities, the state department of taxation showed today.

The city of Appleton total of state income tax apportionments, representing individual and corporate taxpayers, rose this year to $1,681,153 from $1,578,413 in 1965. The Appleton total represented the shares paid on account of residents and businesses in both the Outagamie and Calumet county sections of the city.

Final Payments

The department during the weekend distributed checks for the final tax share payments of the year, representing an aggregate to municipalities for 1966 of $133,000,000, an increase of more than $14,000,000 over the previous year.

The share paid to Outagamie County during the year reached $586,326, against the previous year payment of $581,872.

The city of Kaukauna received $390,313, against $361,720. New London was credited with $212,036, for payments of its residents and business in Outagamie and Waupaca counties, instead of the $122,379 of the previous year. Seymour received $43,674 against $37,422.

Shares Paid

Shares credited and paid to Outagamie County villages and towns for the two years were reported as follows:

Villages — Bear Creek $8,727 in 1965 to $10,638 for 1966; Black Creek $10,296 and $15,649; Combined Locks $31,523 and $35,230; Hortonville $26,941 and $31,801; Kimberly $144,464 and $174,624; Little Chute $68,848 and $76,436; Shiocton $10,948 and $13,555;

Towns — Black Creek $17,445 in 1965 to $8,509 for 1966; Bovina $5,149 and $5,859; Buchanan $20,850 and $22,959; Center $12,419 and $14,641; Cicero $9,536 and $11,279; Dale $10,467 and $13,352; Deer Creek $4,801 and $5,885; Ellington $11,858 and $14,045; Freedom $29,511 and $32,111; Grand Chute $130,701 and $136,829; Greenville $20,078 and $24,474; Hortonville $10,308 and $17,324; Kaukauna $7,931 and $12,439; Liberty $3,537 and $4,003; Maine $4,187 and $4,972; Maple Creek $8,976 and $5,901; Oneida $13,995 and $16,979; Osborn $4,195 and $5,224; Seymour $8,901 and $10,282; Vandenberg $13,569 and $17,523.

Winnepago Increase

Winnepago county received $723,690 this year, a substantial increase over the $659,856 paid to it a year earlier, and other principal payments were distributed as follows:

Cities — Menasha $475,419 in 1965, up to $494,379 for 1966; Neenah $799,218 and $842,919; Omro $31,182 and $37,516, and Oshkosh $1,280,642 and $1,415,204; Village of Winneconne $21,495 and $25,390;

Urbanized Towns — Algoma $40,222 and $46,439; Black Wolf

UW Enrollment Sixth in Nation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The University of Wisconsin's fall enrollment figure is the sixth largest among the nation's universities, a private survey reported today.

Dr. Garland G. Parker of the University of Cincinnati said the UW reported 52,816 fulltime and parttime students while the Wisconsin State University system's enrollment was 44,044.

Parker's annual survey of the nation's collegiate enrollment showed California state colleges leading the nation with 193,118 students.

The California college enrollment was followed by that of the State University of New York, the City University of New York, the University of California and the University of Minnesota.

Top Accountant Retires From Power Firm

George H. Tomlinson
Serves Utility for More Than 38 Years

The chief accountant at Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. (WMPCO) George H. Tomlinson, 45 S. Meadows Drive, retired Thursday after more than 38 years of service with the utility.

Tomlinson started with WMPCO as a work order clerk in the property and plant department March 12, 1928 and was promoted to supervisory clerk in 1934. In 1937 he was transferred to the general accounting department to manage the payroll, which had grown more complex with the addition of social security taxes and unemployment compensation.

George H. Tomlinson

In 1939 Tomlinson was named an accountant. Assigned to the secretarial and treasury department in May, 1943, he was appointed department supervisor before the end of the year. On May 1, 1954, he became chief accountant.

Tomlinson is a member of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce and active in the Wisconsin Utilities Association. He is on the executive committee of the organization's accounting section and during 1956-57, served as chairman of the general accounting committee.

Tomlinson also has been an active participant during the past seven years in the accounting branches of the Edison Electric Institute and the American Gas Association.

He attended the University of Wisconsin after graduating from Sparta High School, where he was senior class president.

12-Year-Old Robbed of $4 by 2 Youths While Riding Bike Down Alley

A 12-year-old Appleton boy told police he was robbed of $4 about 3:15 p.m. Saturday by two youths who stopped his bicycle as he rode down an alley just south of W. College Avenue. He told police one boy held his arms while the other went through his pockets. They reportedly took the money from his wallet, then threw the wallet on the ground and fled.

Police were told both youths wore purple jackets and both were about five feet, six inches tall. One boy had dark hair and the other was blond, the Appleton youth told police.

“The Mercedes-Benz 230S is over-engineered,” say the critics. A welcome excess, say the facts.

Up front in the 230S is an exotic, single overhead camshaft Six. Underneath, one of the most sophisticated suspension designs outside the racing world. And the 230S doesn't really need its 9.9-inch front disc brakes. Sheer engineering extravagance—or something better? Read on, then decide for yourself.

Some critics claim that the Mercedes-Benz 230S uses unique technical features when something more mundane would do. That it's “over-engineered.”

The Publisher of Car and Driver magazine recently summed up the case for the 230S:

“It has more than enough brakes for its potential speed. It has the capacity to go around a corner much, much faster than anybody's ever going to go. It rides very well. The seats are designed to sustain loads and provide comfort over a longer period of time than anyone is ever going to sit in them. It's a 100 percent kind of automobile.”

To those who view a car as a machine and not an image builder, this “over-engineering” makes eminent good sense. And makes the 230S well worth its $4988 price. Some reasons for that price — and some answers to the charge of “over-engineering”:

“Everybody in America is going fast today, but how many of us can stop?”

—David E. Davis, Jr.

The 230S can stop—and stop and stop and stop. Two strong reasons: a 9.9-inch disc brake on each front wheel.

Designed for 150-mph racing cars, disc brakes banish the threat of fade in repeated hard use. The threat of brake “lock-up” is vastly reduced. Water and dust have little effect.

Extra benefits at no extra cost: A power assist that takes the work out of braking, and dual circuit brake lines that remove the possibility of total brake failure.

“It will go down a nasty little one-lane country road just as well as it goes down the New York Thruway”

—Automotive Editor

It has to. Mercedes-Benz cars are sold in 156 countries where nasty little one-lane country roads are often the only roads. A spongy “boulevard” ride won't do in Afghanistan or Iceland. Mercedes-Benz engineers had to come up with something better.

Their solution, borrowed from racing experience: a fully independent, rear swing axle suspension.

You can slam the 230S over a railway crossing and it won't still be bouncing half a mile down the road. You can travel corkscrew mountain passes and enjoy the ride. If so inclined, you could smoothly sweep around a racing circuit—without as much as pumping up the tires beforehand.

Another reason for the roadability in every 230S: standard equipment in every 230S includes heavy-duty shock absorbers, heavy-duty coil springs, front anti-sway bar, hydropneumatic load leveler at the rear axle, and 4-ply, super-premium grade tires. There's no extra charge for a 4-speed floor shift, either.

No gasping or guzzling

Those big V-8's can cruise at 90 mph—at 8 miles per gallon or so. Tiny engines sip fuel, but at 65 mph they're gasping for breath.

The 230S gives you the best of both: its 6-cylinder, single overhead camshaft engine could run at a restful 90 mph for hours, yet doesn't guzzle gas in normal driving.

This design was originally intended for the brutal stresses of racing. The engine is built up to near racing tolerances—as fine as .019 of a millimeter for bearings.

And it's built on a snail's-pace assembly line, where sample engine blocks are snatched away at random, chopped in half, and every dimension scientifically measured.

“They don't build them like they used to”

—modern American lament

Mercedes-Benz presents radiator medallions to owners who have clocked 62,500, 125,000, and over 312,000 miles. The demand is steady.

A contributing factor: the 230S body is a rigid steel shell, welded at 10,000 points. This “unit” method of construction makes obsolete the separate frame and body type, with its nuts and bolts and rattles.

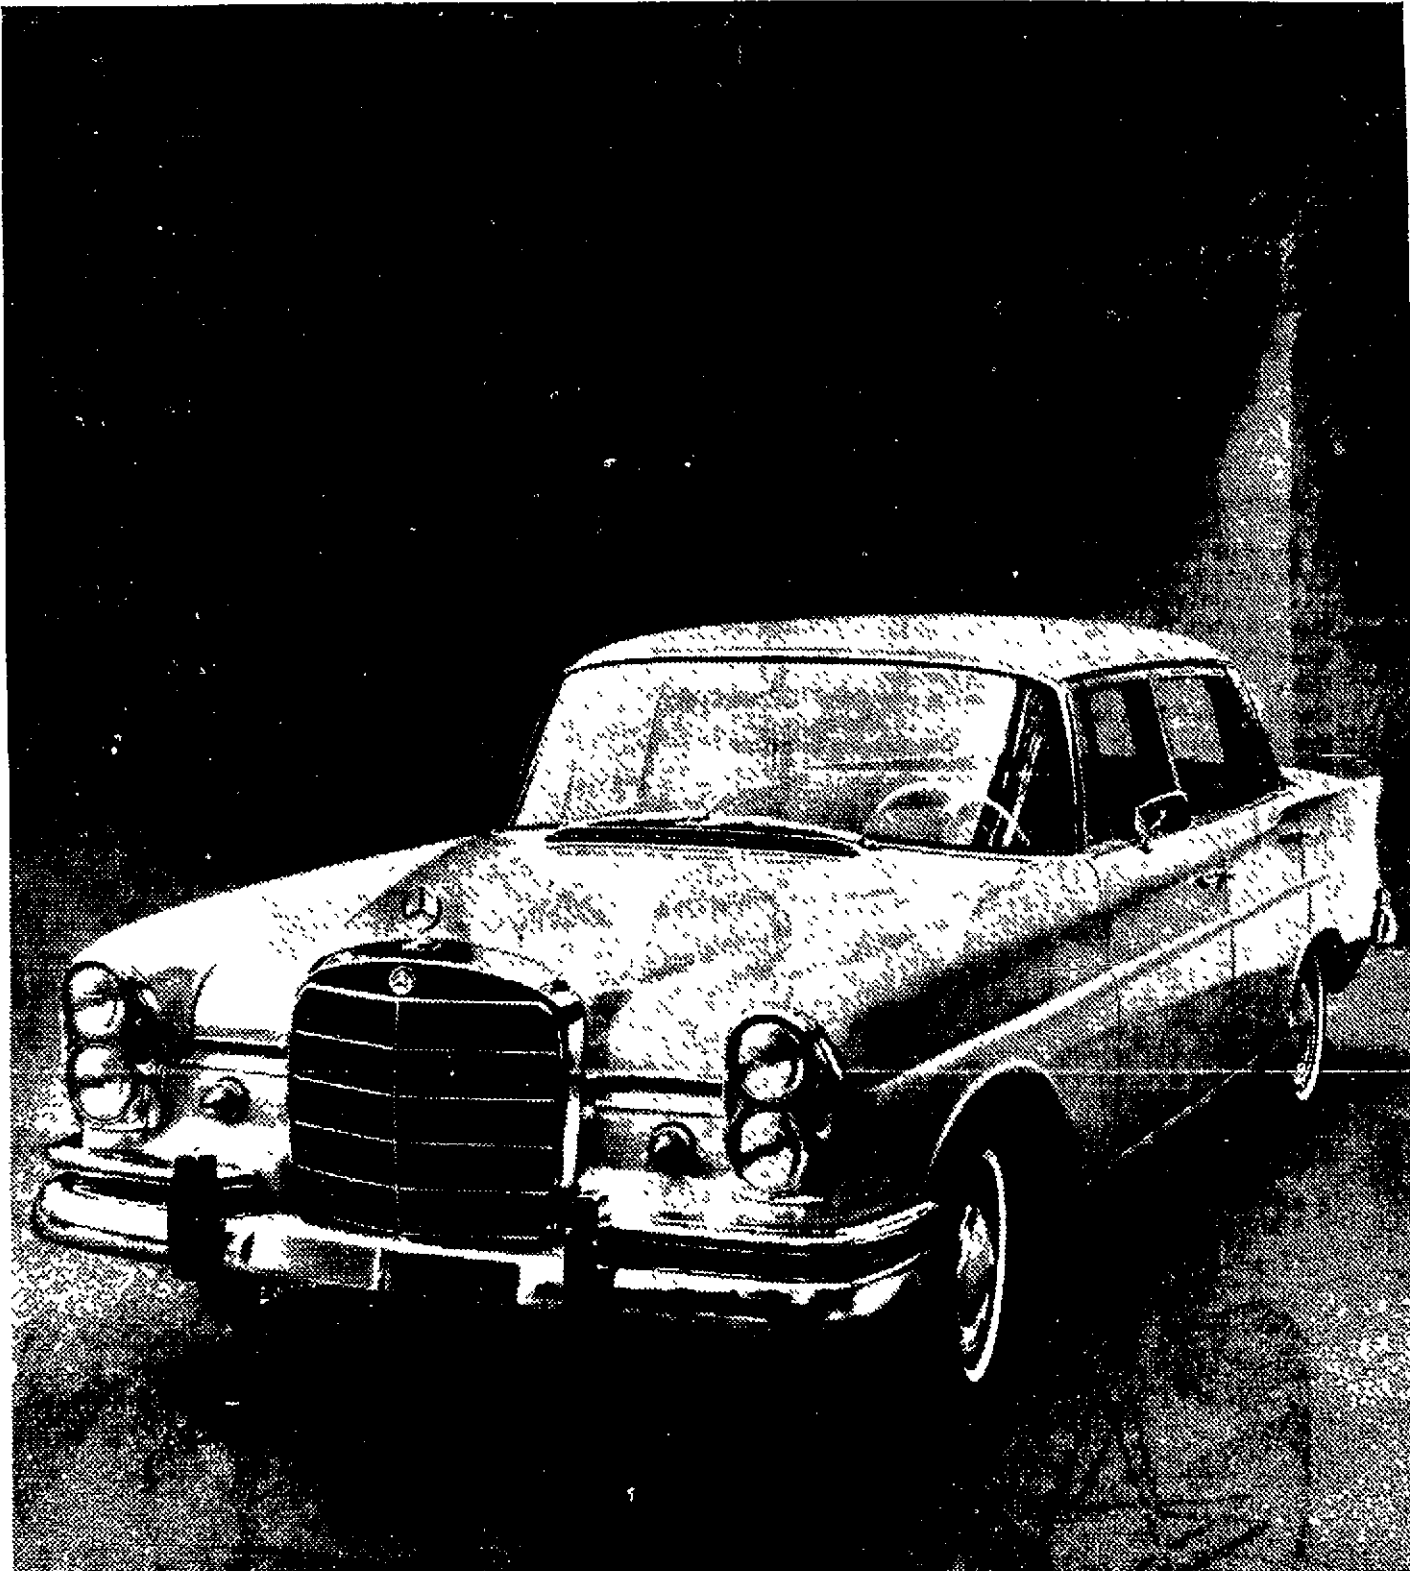

Sheet metal on many body panels measures a millimeter thick (pound your fist on the 230S roof; you don't feel a wobble, you hear a “thunk!”).

The 230S ranks as one of the world's sturdier 4-wheeled machines, because Mercedes-Benz ranks as one of the world's stubbornest car builders.

The company has never stopped building them like they used to.

“A car is not a rolling boudoir, a rocket ship or an oak-paneled library —so it shouldn't look like one!”

—industrial designer

The Mercedes-Benz 230S poses the question—is there such a thing as too much car for the money? Clip coupon for answers.

Engineered for safety

The 230S imparts a feeling of reassurance; it puts the driver and his passengers at their ease. It is engineered to help you avoid trouble, and it is engineered for maximum protection if trouble should occur.

Front and rear body sections are designed to yield on violent impact, to absorb shock before it can hit the passenger area. Some amazing tests have shown that in roll-over crashes at 65 mph, the roof stayed intact. Inside, you will not find one careless or shabby touch. The rearview mirror is spring mounted to snap off if struck, for example. The steering wheel hub looks like a doughnut; it is padded, not pointed.

The 230S seats five in considerable comfort. It does not lure you with stereo tape players or 443 color combinations. It doesn't have to:

“When you jump into it and close the door and start it up, the way the switches work, the way the door handles work, the way the seat feels when you get into it, the way the ratchet on the seat recliner feels when you change the seat adjustment—all of those things add up to an overwhelming feeling of luxury.”—

David E. Davis, Jr.

First Woman Clerk Gets Special Delivery Job Start

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Linda Gardner had about a half hour to get to work to become the first woman railway mail clerk.

The Post Office Department needed a railway mail clerk in a hurry and Miss Gardner, 20, was called.

"I had about a half-hour notice from the time I said I'd go," she related.

At 8 a.m. Nov. 25, she boarded a mail car at Union Station for a six-hour run to St. Louis.

Postal officials said Thursday that was the first time since railroad mail runs began in 1862 that a woman had been assigned as a clerk aboard one of the cars.

Women had volunteered before but had never quite made it. The officials said the cars are not equipped for women.

"When I told my mother," Miss Gardner said, "she said I was crazy. She's worked for the Post Office for nine years and knew what I would be getting into."

Hired as a career substitute, Miss Gardner is available to take the place of any regular employee during vacations or illness. However, she normally is assigned to the main Post Office.

She remained in St. Louis Friday night and made the return run Saturday afternoon.

How did she like the work? "All I can say is it was a unique experience. But I wouldn't volunteer again. It's a hard job. You have to learn to hold your balance while the car is rocking and hit those little pigeon holes. I was lucky that the mail was light."

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM FOR CHRISTMAS

Los Angeles:—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight or your waistline is larger than 32 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga.

Toy Sale 'Most Successful'

All during the year toys, somewhat the worse for wear, arrive at the Golden Age Clubhouse. They are collected by clubs, gathered by parents and requested by Golden Agers. No one would have recognized them last weekend when the Club held its annual 'Like New' Toy Sale.

Each doll, game, bicycle and mechanical toy was a marvel of workability. Once again, the Golden Agers and members of Welcome Wagon Civic League and Newcomers had succeeded in making a merrier Christmas for hundreds of children.

The sale, termed a "huge success," took place Friday and Saturday. It was a joint effort of all Welcome Wagon groups, with proceeds going toward the Golden Age clubhouse mortgage.

Little boys find gears a fascinating game and, while his mother browsed the other departments, David Holewinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holewinski, Menasha, fitted the colorful teeth together. At right, Mrs. Jake Mathews looks over the ladder of a shiny fire truck.

There were toys for children of every age at the Golden Age Clubhouse for the Friday and Saturday sale of 'like new' toys. Above, Mrs. Jerome Koeppé shows some of the doll clothing to Mrs. Frank Warmbrunn. (Post-Crescent Photos)

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Whittle and Work

There's a plus for your looks in many household tasks. You chalk up one every time you find a quicker, less fatiguing way to perform a chore and then manage to combine it with a beauty treatment.

A good example is bed-making: First spread and tuck in sheets and blankets at the foot of the bed. Then work up the right side, smoothing and tucking in covers from foot to head. Repeat on left side. Throughout squat down to arrange the corners and, bending from the hips, reach to smooth top surfaces. By this method you save precious minutes and thirty steps. And get a real figure-trimming workout!

For more of the same, learn to use both hands simultaneously. Hold cloths, for instance, in each hand when you polish tables; move hands in unison and stretch arms to the maximum. During all work periods, pull in your abdomen and keep your back in a straight line. Thus you "whittle" while you work.

Hair and skin treatments, unexpected ones, also dovetail with housework. Cream your face before steamy jobs, and steam acts as a toner. Or apply tonic to your scalp and let it go into action when you do.

In this busy season, beauty is too often sacrificed to duty. Don't let it happen to you. You can see now that it doesn't have to.

If housework saps your energies, looks and nerves, send for my booklet, Beauty of Housework. It explains how to keep home and self sparkling with time to spare. Also included are an effort-saving work plan, shortcuts in housekeeping, and advice on how to give yourself a beauty treatment while engaged in your duties. For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent; enclosing 20 cents in coin and a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Swinging Set

The Music-Makers

BY SYLVIE REICE

We usually put an opera or symphony on the record player at our house during dinner time. It's background music, but sometimes we talk about it. And I find out interesting attitudes in the young toward music that way, for my table usually has a few teen-age dinner guests (my son's or daughter's.)

"What makes one recording better than the other?" is something they often ask. And when I answer the conductor, of a symphony conductor's for he must be flexible enough for any contingency of dramatic action that occurs on stage. A singer may take longer to run up a stairway than she should, for instance. Once Brigit Nilson missed three curtain cues and I had to keep the music going without the audience realizing it. Also the conductor has a special 'hearing' ability; one wrong note by a flute is not lost on him."

Mr. Rudel stressed that the opera conductor has to know how a singer breathes and "play along." He has to handle temperaments diplomatically. "If they won't listen, I say, 'It's for your good, you know — not mine.' That usually gets them," says Rudel. He has to read new works constantly which are submitted to him, audition singers "some 500 to 600 a year"; he must keep up with related fields. "You know — to be a whole person," he says.

Study, Live Opera

How do you get to be an opera conductor? "You live opera — from childhood on. Study piano, of course. Hang around the opera, get a job as an assistant." (That's how Rudel started; now he has six assistants.) One summer he conducted musicals in summer stock. "It's in summer stock you learn economy of performance, after all, a show has to go on in one week."

Julius Rudel, who is practically synonymous with New York City opera, is proud of the many young artists his company has discovered and of his wide-ranging repertoire. Although he puts on standard operas, Rudel produces more contemporary and unusual works than the famed Metropolitan Opera in New York. And frequently, his conducting is lauded more than the singers or production. "Do you wish to conduct symphonies? Is it very different?" I asked.

Exciting Moment

Mr. Rudel looked pensive, then shrugged. "Who knows? But I already do conduct symphony. (He's scheduled to conduct the Chicago Symphony in early January.)

Actually many, perhaps most, of the famous conductors started with opera. Once you've handled singers, production, and orchestra — just handling the musicians and interpretation would seem to be easier!

In any case the next time you watch someone conduct, you might think of these words of Julius Rudel: "When you lift your baton — that's the most exciting moment — you know you are completely in control of the orchestra, that just a flick of your wrist has vast meaning. It's not power you feel, but elation, like sitting at the controls of a very delicately balanced machine. . ."

TEEN-TALIZERS:

In Denmark, 16-year-old Dorrit Hoejelsen borrowed money from her father, opened a Teen Shop in Copenhagen and brought Carnaby Street to Copenhagen. Dorrit designs some of the clothes herself. Her biggest sellers are cowboy pants and belts from America, mini skirts and London dresses.

To keep warm in San Mateo, Calif., girls wear big, white furry coats, and boys wear Shenandoah coats.

In Nashville, Tenn., old loafers are cut out into scandals and called "stompers."

they're amazed. "The conductor! But what does he do? I mean — couldn't the orchestra really play without him?" one boy asked me. The boy in question is interested in films. "Could a picture be made without a director?" I asked in return. "In fact," I emphasized, "in opera, the conductor practically runs the show."

Seeks Real Story

Sometime later at my office I asked a panel of teenage girls whether they knew what an opera conductor does. I got the same confused replies, so I decided to interview a conductor and get the real story from him. Julius Rudel, is not only famous as conductor but is also director of the New York City Opera. After a hit season in Lincoln Center, he went on to tour the country and winds up this week in Providence, R.I. Rudel has three children of his own, two teen-aged girls. "We will start at the beginning," he said. "For actually the conductor's work begins long before public performance. . ."

"In a rehearsal room, he sits at the piano and accompanies each singer at a private session; there he explains what he wants, coaches, corrects. Next step, he gets a few singers together, so they get used to singing with each other, and works with them, still at the piano. Meanwhile, the ballet-master is doing the same with his group, the chorus-master with his, and the scenic designer is working on sets. Now the singers are brought on stage so they learn to move about it. Maybe the next day, the chorus joins them. Finally, they will get around to a performance with the whole orchestra."

Must Play Along

"All along, the conductor is guiding, stressing his interpretation, the mood he wants, the pace he wants. His job is actually more difficult than that

Mao's Wife Emerges as Powerful Political Figure

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP) — Mrs. Mao Tse-tung is being given such a big political buildup that it suggests she is destined for bigger things after Mao dies.
The New China News Agency reported today that Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, gave her first major political address on Nov. 28 to 20,000 art and literary workers in Peking. Though Premier Chou En-lai and cultural purge chief Chen Po-ta, also spoke, it was plain that she was the center of attention.
Cultural Revolution
Her speech revealed that she has been involved in the politics of the cultural revolution only a few years, and that she had encountered setbacks and rebuffs from those engaged in the theater. The No. 1 Peking Opera Company — one of those which fought back — and several other top music and ballet groups have been taken over by the army, presumably at her insistence.
Chiang Ching was named cultural adviser to the army. She now has a foot in the army and the other in the party central committee. She is first deputy chairman of the party's national

Sheinwold Direct Defense By Expert

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Some defensive signals tell your partner whether or not to continue with the suit he has led. Another kind of signal, not so well known, tells him exactly which suit to switch to. Neglecting the second type of signal may be very costly.
West opened the king of clubs, and East signalled with the deuce. This was the normal discouraging signal, indicating that East had no reason to urge a club continuation.
West expected to get his two high clubs and a trump trick, so that he could defeat the contract if his partner had a red ace. The trouble was that West also had to guess which red ace his partner had.

While waiting for inspiration, West led the ace of clubs. East followed suit, and West knew no more than he had known before.
Guesses Wrong
It happened to be West's unlucky day: he led a diamond instead of a heart. South won with the ace of diamonds, led out three top trumps and then discarded his losing heart on a high diamond.
It should not have been necessary for West to guess. A fine defender would play the ten of clubs from the East hand at the second trick. This would not encourage a club continuation, since East's deuce at the first trick had already denied interest in clubs.
East's second club should show whether he wanted a switch to the higher or the lower of the two side suits (hearts and diamonds in this case). East should play his highest club to ask for a heart, or his lowest club to ask for a diamond.
Partnerships who don't use this signal will sometimes make the right guess. Those who use the signal don't have to guess at all. Take your choice.

Georgia Governorship Battle Goes Before Supreme Court

Constitutionality of Legislative Choice Provision Considered

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fight over selection of Georgia's next governor goes before the Supreme Court today in a classic test of the right of states to run their own elections.

The battle is three-sided, its overtones broadly significant. Specifically at issue is the constitutionality of a 142-year-old section of the Georgia Constitution.

It provides that when no candidate for governor gets a majority of the popular vote in an election the state Legislature is to choose between the two candidates who got the most votes.

Such was the case when Georgians balloted for governor Nov. 8, the Republican candidate, Edward H. Callaway, got 451,032 votes and the Democratic candidate, Lester G. Maddox, 448,588.

Passing up the two segregationists, 57,832 Georgians cast write-in votes for former Gov. Ellis G. Arnall, a moderate.

Lacked Majority

As a result, Callaway had a plurality but not the required majority of the total vote.

Under the Georgia Constitution this would have thrown the election into the State Legislature, which convenes Jan. 9.

With the Democrats in overwhelming control, Maddox's election would be likely.

However, on Nov. 17, a three-judge federal court in Atlanta ruled the Georgia provision unconstitutional. It said if the Legislature were allowed to choose between Callaway and Maddox "the candidate receiving the lesser number of votes (on Nov. 8) may be elected."

The court did not say who could make the choice.

Now the Supreme Court, in reviewing the lower court's ruling, is faced with a three-sided tangle.

3 Choices

Simply put, it is this: Georgia officials want the high court to permit the Legislature to pick the governor. They ask reversal of the lower court's ruling.

Twelve voters considered Callaway backers want the Supreme Court to direct the lower court to order a runoff election, "on the earliest practicable date," between Callaway and Maddox.

The American Civil Liberties Union, which also is involved in the case, contends a new election should be held, open to all candidates.

There is no way of knowing when the Supreme Court will announce its decision. But by speeding up its consideration of the case it has set the stage for a ruling before the new legislature convenes.

On a broader scale, the dispute gives the court an opportunity to say whether states, in instances like Georgia's, can provide an indirect means of electing state officials.

In other words, when voters fail in an election to make a decisive choice may an indirect substitute, such as the state legislature, make the final choice for them?

Murder Rate Rising Rapidly In Milwaukee

FBI Studies Show Increase Greater Than in Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Milwaukee's murder rate during the first nine months of 1966 increased faster than the national rate, the FBI said today.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in a report released by the Department of Justice that statistics submitted by local law enforcement agencies show violent crimes increased 11 per cent nationally between Jan. 1 and Oct. 1 compared to the same period in 1965.

Milwaukee reported 25 incidents of murder and non-negligent manslaughter during the first nine months of 1966 compared to 18 for the same period a year earlier.

Madison, Wis., reported three murder-manslaughter incidents compared to two during the same period in 1965.

Hoover said the nationwide increase in the murder rate was 8 per cent, and 11 per cent each for robbery, aggravated assault and forcible rape. Burglary was up 7 per cent, car theft 10 per cent and larceny 12 per cent.

Other statistics for Milwaukee and Madison, with the 1966 figures listed ahead of the 1965 figures, were:

Robbery—Milwaukee 142, 150; Madison 19. Forcible rape—Milwaukee 29, 21; Madison 10. Aggravated assault—Milwaukee 331, 342; Madison 13, 13. Burglary—Milwaukee 2,062, 1,747; Madison 418, 391.

Larceny of $50 or more—Milwaukee 3,292, 2,818; Madison 610, 491; Car theft—Milwaukee 2,685, 2,165; Madison 396, 203.

Son of Actress Develops Case of Spinal Meningitis

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Zoltan Hargitay, 6, the lion-mauled son of actress Jayne Mansfield, has developed a case of spinal meningitis, doctors reported early today.

Zoltan, under treatment at Conejo Valley Community Hospital for serious wounds inflicted by an attacking lion a week ago, had been reported recovering after two operations.

He was reported in satisfactory condition early today after doctors diagnosed the attack of meningitis. The new illness was noticed Sunday night.

Zoltan was attacked by the lion on Nov. 26 at an animal compound where his mother was posing for publicity pictures.

School Board Accepts Union, Chicago Faculty Ends Strike at Colleges

CHICAGO (AP) — Striking teachers voted unanimously Sunday night to return to work at the city's eight junior colleges after the school board promised to recognize their union.

Some 300 members of Local 1600, American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), approved the proposed settlement by acclamation on news that the board would recognize the union as a collective bargaining agent for teachers.

The settlement followed day-long negotiations in the strike, which began Nov. 30. The strike took place despite a temporary ners are to be guests at the irjunction issued by Judge Daniel Covelli of Circuit Court.

2 Supermarket Chains to Drop Games in Response to Protests

NEW YORK (AP) — After protests from picketing housewives, two supermarket chains have decided to drop promotional games. Some others indicate they may follow suit when their current promotions end, an Associated Press survey showed.

In Kansas City, games may be on the way out altogether. Three supermarket groups there have dropped games in which customers win prizes.

Safeway Stores Inc., the nation's second-largest food store operation, announced this week it would get out of the game business in January — although its Bonus Bingo was credited for half of the chain's 1966 sales increase.

"They've run their course," said Robert A. Magowan, Safeway chairman. "We don't think they have raised prices, but if the housewife thinks that, we won't fight her."

Cash Rebate

Purity Stores Inc., an 84-store chain in northern California, dropped its sweepstakes games earlier, and offered a choice of Blue Chip stamps or a cash rebate of slightly more than 15 cents on $10.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., which operates the nation's largest chain, said in New York last week it was neither adding nor dropping promotional games now.

"But that doesn't mean tomorrow or next week we won't change," an A&P spokesman said.

Then in Kansas City, A&P joined Kroger Co. and Milgram Stores, a Kansas City chain, in dropping games.

Currently A&P doesn't have any games in its eastern division, from northern New Jersey to New England, but does in its other four divisions.

Stamps and Games

Kroger Co. in Cincinnati, Ohio, the third largest chain, issues trading stamps and runs an assortment of games.

The games such as Bonus Bingo and televised horse races came under fire this fall from housewives protesting that they added to food prices.

Safeway probably would have continued Bonus Bingo or started a new game if it hadn't been for the housewives' protests, Magowan said.

One firm, Strategic Merchandising Corp. of New York, has sold Bonus Bingo and other games to 4,800 supermarkets — including Safeway, A&P and National Tea. It estimates the games paid nearly $3 million in cash to 1.9 million winners in the year ended Sept. 30 — before the boycotts began.

Customers Choice

In Portland, Ore., a spokesman for Fred Meyer Inc., which has Let's Go to the Races, said a decision on the game's future was being left to customers.

"If the customers don't want them, we will be happy to pass the savings along," a spokesman said.

In Chicago, Jewel Tea Co. reports more people appear to be interested in its "miracle price" policy started Sept. 12.

"We have had a happy response from homemakers in reducing prices. The average family of four persons saves from $3 to $7 a week on supermarket purchases," Jewel said.

"Jewel is using the lower price program instead of a chance on something or trading stamps," a spokesman said.

Physician Goes on Trial For Murder

FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — Dr. Carl Coppolino, charged in Florida with the murder of his wife, went on trial today for the strangling of a retired Army officer, once the couple's neighbor.

The state said it would ask the death penalty for Coppolino, advancing as a motive an alleged affair between the anesthesiologist and the wife of the victim, Lt. Col. William E. Farber.

The first day's session in Monmouth County Superior Court before Judge Elvin R. Summell was expected to center on jury selection.

Coppolino, 34, is also under indictment for first-degree murder in Sarasota, Fla., for the slaying of his physician wife, Carmela.

An investigation of her death, supposedly by heart attack, was triggered when Farber's wife talked to the FBI. Her conversation also led to the exhumation of her husband's body and a determination that he died from strangulation — not a "coronary thrombosis" as listed in the death certificate signed by Carmela Coppolino.

Leaflets Appeal to Boycott of Students

California Chancellor Advises Priority be Given to Studies

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Chancellor Roger W. Heyns pleaded by leaflet today with striking Berkeley students at the University of California as some students and teachers planned to continue a classroom boycott.

"Reflect upon your real reason for being at Cal, and give first priorities to your studies," Heyns said — as final exams approached — in leaflets distributed at campus entrances by university employees.

The student strike committee's decision to resume the boycott following the weekend came Sunday after Heyns flatly refused to negotiate the dispute in the presence of nonstudents in either an active or advisory capacity.

Mario Savio

Heyns apparently was referring to Mario Savio, a non-student strike leader who also led, as a student, the massive free speech movement demonstrations at the campus in 1964 which resulted in 700 arrests.

The dispute that began last Wednesday over an on-campus Navy recruiting table led to a sit-in, a fight and the arrest of 10 persons, including six non-students.

In reply to Heyns' brief, sharply worded message Sunday, the strike leaders said: "The

Easy Precautions Reduce Christmas Tree Fire Risk

During the holidays your home is more susceptible to fire than at any other time of the year. All fire-causing components are present... greens and your Christmas tree trappings for fodder and to ignite them, heat from the tree lights and candles. So for a safe and happy holiday, follow these simple precautions:

1) Saw the Christmas tree trunk off at an angle at least one-inch above the original cut end; then use a stand that provides for a water well. Keep well filled to above the cut line.

2) Station the tree and greens well away from any heat-producing devices such as radiator, fireplace or television, or from where smokers are apt to sit.

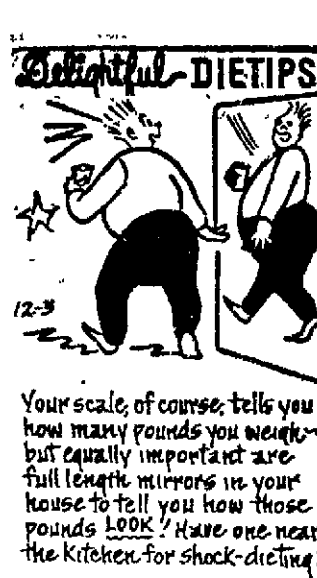

Before Decorating tree, give it a fire-retarding treatment. Dissolve ½ pound alum (available in drugstores) and ½ pound kitchen shelf baking soda in a gallon of water. Fill a flit gun or other squirt-type contraption with the solution and spray it on the tree. Decorative greens should likewise be treated, but they can be dunked in the solution. Extra bonus — a decorative snow-like coating. Remember, however, this treatment is merely a fire retardant. Fire can still break out although it will be a slow smolder instead of a fast blaze, so don't be lulled into a false sense of security.

4) Before installing lights, inspect them carefully and dispose of any with faulty sockets or frayed wiring. Then inspect lights periodically to see if needles around them have turned brown. If so, move them.

5) Use only foil or flameproof or fireproof material to cover the Christmas tree stand. If you want to use an old sheet, flameproof it first by dipping it in a solution of 9 ounces of pure borax, 4 ounces of boric acid powder and a gallon of water. Wring by hand, hang to dry and iron if you wish.

6) Use only glass, metal or fireproof trimmings on the tree.

Royal Payment Given With Divorce Plans

The New York Daily News said in a Paris dispatch today that Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton left her seventh husband $4 million in checks when she walked out on him last month and announced her plans for a divorce.

The News' story by Bernard Valery quoted reliable sources as saying the remembrance came in the form of two checks, $3 million for her husband, Lactian Prince Raymond Doan Vinh, 49, and $1 million for his brother, Ronald.

Miss Hutton, 54, walked out on the prince Nov. 13 at a luxury hotel on the outskirts of the south Moroccan city of Taroudan, the News said, and later announced plans to divorce him. The couple was married April 8, 1964, in Mexico.

Boy's Mother Worries About Postal Job's Fringe Benefits

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 18-year-old son wants to be a postman during the Christmas rush so he can make some extra money. He says his friends who worked as postmen last year had a blast. The "blast" part has me worried.

Some time ago I heard a news story about West German postmen. It seems they are having trouble holding young, unmarried fellows on the job over there because the housewives keep pulling the boys into their homes.

One postman quit because a woman on his route kept hollering for him to bring the mail upstairs to her bedroom. Another young man quit because a woman insisted on meeting him at the door wearing only the bottom of a bikini.

Two other women on his route did their housework in the nude. Because of the column you write, Ann, you get in on strange happenings that most people never hear about. Do the postmen in the U.S. have these problems? — Naive Or Stupid

Dear N or S: I don't know about postmen, but meter-readers have had their troubles.

Let the boy take the job if he wants it. He's bound to run into all types of women sooner or later and perhaps if he runs into them sooner it will save him some trouble later.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Fourteen years ago I married a widower with two sons. I couldn't rove these boys more if they were my own flesh and blood.

Last month our older son was married to a wonderful girl.

There were several parties before the wedding and the boys' maternal grandmother

Landers attended every party, which was of course proper.

Every time I turned around I heard grandmother telling someone that I was not the groom's REAL mother — that her daughter was the REAL mother — that I came into the family after the REAL training had been done.

At the wedding reception, grandmother was in the receiving line. Her voice could be heard above everyone's. She kept shouting, "This is not the groom's mother, you know. She is a stepmother. My daughter was the REAL mother."

If I have to go through another ordeal like this one when our second son marries, I'll have a nervous breakdown. Please tell me what you think of her incredible behavior. — Tension In Tulsa

DEAR TULSA: Grandmother's lack of tact is inexcusable, and I would not attempt to defend her. You can understand, however, that the poor woman was deeply grieved because her own daughter did not live to see the boy marry. Since this thought was weighing heavily on her mind and on her heart, she couldn't keep from expressing it and I hope you will forgive her.

Are you at war with your parents? Do they have too much to say in your life? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Supervision Curbs Yuletide Accidents

Signals for the holiday season are visible from coast to coast, and among them is one storm signal with a special warning for mothers: the price of a happy holiday season for the entire family is constant vigilance.

More persons sustained fatal injuries due to accidents last December than in any other month of the year.

The holiday season might be aptly described as the season of the great upset. Routines and schedules for regular living are disrupted. This places an extra burden on the homemaker.

Reduce Accidents
The Council on Family Health suggests some ways in which mothers can reduce the chances of accidents in the home, despite the hectic activity and the jolly distractions of the holiday season.

Maintain prompt mealtimes, advises the Council. Small children are more likely to eat non-food objects when they are hungry and tired.

Keep a vigilant eye on youngsters. When they seem tired, divert them with calmer activities. Put them in a safe play space. Even if you are certain the child is safe, check frequently.

Supervise Talks
According to one group of researchers, half the children involved in accidents in the home were completely unsupervised around the time of their accident.

When adult members of the family are engrossed in gift wrapping, gift making, or the creation of decorations for the home and the Christmas tree, little children can be made part of the group. They can be assigned safe little tasks, performed under the watchful eyes of adults.

Left to their own devices and unsupervised, small children may discover their own projects, such as lighting matches, playing with electrical equipment, or trying to investigate what's bubbling on top of the kitchen stove.

Check Symptoms
Older children on school vacation during the holidays need some extra supervision, too. If the weather is wet, make sure they change to dry clothes immediately upon arriving home. Be alert to the flushed skin, the dry hacking cough and the sniffles that may indicate the onset of illness. Some school age children try to hide these symptoms from their parents so that they will not be confined to home and bed while their friends are having holiday parties.

If your children are taking part in school, church, club or community programs which require costumes, make sure the costumes are made of flameproof material. Fluffy, fluffy or flowing costumes are a hazard. The most frequent victims of clothing fires are children, particularly little girls.

In the home, see that portable heaters have guards and are never placed near curtains or towel racks. If there is a fireplace, be sure the screen is firmly in place at all times. It may not be as gala or romantic as an open fire, but it is much safer for the entire family.

Don't Block Traffic
Vigilance during the holiday season includes a thorough check of toys for small children, says the Council on Family Health. Check them for loose construction, sharp edges, or small parts that might be pulled off and put in the mouth.

As for the joyful Christmas never permit the tree to be placed in the line of traffic in the home, nor where it blocks an exit.

A happy holiday season for the entire family can be a safe season.

New Bedding Has Low Cost, Light Weight

Thermal weave construction, already proven so successful in bedspreads and blankets, has been introduced in acrylic fiber electric blankets which combine low cost and light weight with electric comfort control.

Just remember that the only cleaning method endorsed by manufacturers is to wash all electric bedding in warm soap and water — either by hand or machine.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

ARE WORKING-CLASS PEOPLE LESS STRICT WITH THEIR CHILDREN? YES ☐ NO ☐

No. A number of studies of child-training practices in different social classes indicate that in eight out of nine indexes, the work-class groups were more strict with their children than were the middle-class parents. Only in sexual permissiveness are working-class people more lax. Even in matters like table manners and neatness, they make stricter demands upon their children than do members of the middle-class. Of one thing we are sure; there is no one way in which Americans bring up their children.

Who has most prestige in America?

The physician — The nuclear physicist —

The physician according to a University of Chicago study of vocations, the nuclear physicist has risen rapidly in the eyes of the people in the 18 years from 18th place to third place. But he still ranks behind the physician. Other scientists rank about as they always have.

Practical Gifts Begin in Kitchen

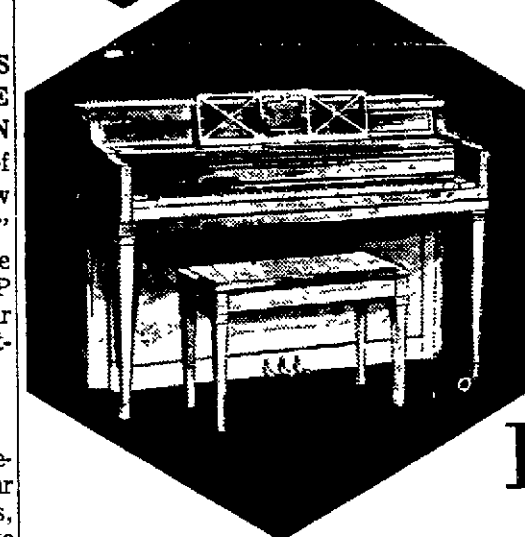

Here is a selection of practical utensils that will be just right for Christmas gift-giving. Grandma or Aunt Bessie will love the 3-cup tea kettle. The sprightly motif on the ceramicware utensil will perk up her afternoon tea-time.

A college bound youngster will really get a lot of use from the new 3-cup percolator. The ceramicware percolator will not trap odors or coffee oils and is easy to clean.

No Scouring
Mother will find hundreds of uses for the 5-way cooker. It serves as a double boiler, a casserole or a saucepan. On cold winter mornings the 5-way cooker is just the thing to prepare hot cereal. Foods will wash out easily with just a little soaking in warm sudsy water.

Everyone in the family will find uses for the ceramicware skillet with a non-stick lining. The decorated skillet will even make a charming decorator piece when hung on display in the kitchen. A cheerful motif is permanently fired on the bottom to add cheer to your kitchen. Because the skillet is lined, no scouring is needed even if foods happen to stick.

Thrush Mouth Caused By Yeast-Like Fungus

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son had thrush mouth at the age of five weeks. The doctor gave me a prescription for him, but he still has this trouble. His mouth is just white inside. What causes it and is there a cure? Can it return? Is it painful for him? — Mrs. M.G.

Dr. Molner

Thrush is an infection of the mouth membrane caused by a yeast-like fungus, Candida albicans. It causes a white membrane which, if peeled away, causes bleeding.

The fungus is quite common but seems to affect principally newborn children whose nutrition is deficient, or who are not very strong.

If any question arises as to whether a case is thrush, microscopic examination of scrapings of the tissue will settle it.

You do not give me enough information to identify the medication you are using, or how you administer it. One treatment which has been found to be usually effective is swabbing twice a day with one or two percent solution of gentian violet, but I know that other treatments are used.

I hesitate to say that the ailment is "painful" to the baby, but it certainly can be irritating and it sometimes makes feeding difficult. Since nutrition is very important to a very small child, this aspect must be watched closely.

Yes, thrush can recur (and it also can be stubborn, too) and once you get it under control it is wise to watch for any sign of recurrence, and stop it promptly. The fungus can be present in the household environment, and can survive indefinitely in dust.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you give me some information about fistula and fissures? I have had two operations and there is still a drainage. — M.Y.

Both are explained in my booklet, "Hemorrhoids," so I suggest you read it. (For a copy, send 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent.)

Particularly with a fistula, healing takes time and once you

A 1959 graduate of Marquette University, McNamara received his master's degree in business administration in 1964 when he joined the K-C staff.

He also worked for the International Milling Co., Minneapolis, Minn., for three years before going on for his master's degree.

He is a member of Delta Sigma Pi, international commerce society, and the Jaycees.

understand the basic problems involved, I suspect that a discussion with your surgeon will give you a more accurate understanding of how you are progressing and what further treatment will help you.

Dear Dr. Molner: Some time ago I noticed that my palms are always very red. I am middle-aged. Is this a symptom of anything serious? — Mrs. E.M.

It may or may not be. It may result from a blood vessel disorder wherein vessels close to the surface are dilated. Liver disease can cause red palms; so can irritation from soaps, chemicals or detergents. Have the condition checked.

Dear Dr. Molner: I want to know about pills named Stilbestrol; what they are for. My doctor has prescribed them for me. — Mrs. L.B.

Stilbestrol is a chemical, not a hormone but with properties similar to one of the steroid hormones. It is used in easing a number of "female symptoms," and for various other purposes, and the only way to know why you are having it is to ask your own doctor.

Folks often get the idea that a medicine is given for a single purpose. This isn't necessarily so. Many are used for multiple purposes, and sometimes given just to ease a subsidiary symptom of some ailment.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for your copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

All In A Wisecrack
How good are you with a WISECRACK? The idea is to form as many words of four letters or more as you can from the letters in the word WISECRACK. Words that acquire four letters by the addition of "S," as in "cats" or "dogs" do not count, and no proper names. Our score on this was 46 words, but maybe you're better in manipulating a WISECRACK than we are. Try it!

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

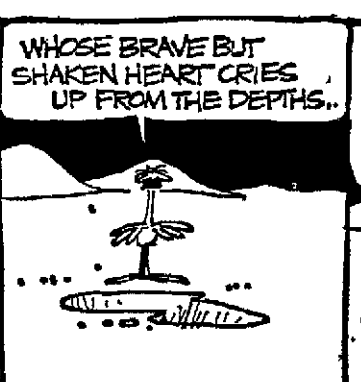

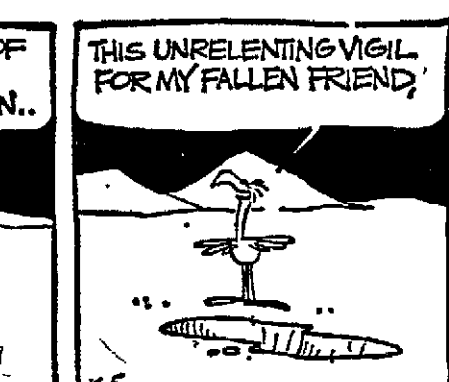

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "This is different than that." Say, "different FROM that."
Often Mispronounced: Virulent Pronounce veer-yu-lent, accent first syllable.
Often Misspelled: Bole (tree trunk). Boll (pod of a plant). Bowl (a receptacle).
Synonyms: Ignorant, illiterate, uneducated, unlearned, untaught, unlettered, unenlightened, uninformed, stupid.
Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: RECON-DITE; complex; difficult to understand. (Pronounce reck-un-dite, accent on first syllable). "Only the learned man of science is qualified to probe into the recondite functions of the mind."

Young Frenchwoman Hits Success at 22

Francoise Hardy Doesn't Smoke, Wears No Make-Up, Yet Her Fan Mail Is Fantastic

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — She looks like a gazelle in miniskirts. She doesn't wear rouge or lipstick. She doesn't SMOKE. "And I don't dance at all — except in my mind always," she said.

But at 22, Francoise Hardy, the symbol of swinging youth in France, is reported to get more

Song Hit at 17

The young singer composed her first song, "All the Boys and Girls," at 17. Since then she has met with an international acclaim as a recording star reminiscent of the quick rise of the Beatles, Elvis Presley, and Barbra Streisand.

The French government, which she says now takes 65 per cent of her earnings, considers her a national resource.

"Everything happened to me so easily," she said. "But success forces you to be too concentrated in yourself. It makes you egocentric, and I am afraid that is now my biggest fault."

Francoise is pale and tall and lovely and has green eyes, a quick wit, and long hair that falls around her shoulders in an auburn mist.

She came here for a visit, making her English-speaking debut as a star in the MGM-Cinemas film, "Grand Prix."

Fashion Setter

Miss Hardy is a style setter in dress as well as in song in Europe. She once created a sensation by strolling into the staid Savoy Hotel in London in orange trousers.

Heads craned, too, the other day when she entered the fashionable 21 Club restaurant here clad in a beige sweater, dark Italian moccasins, heavily textured white stockings, and a very abbreviated plaid skirt. She couldn't have received more startled glances if she had been a penguin in a striped sport jacket.

"The American people treat you more as an object than as a person," she remarked with quiet composure. "This is not true in Paris."

Eats Lightly

Over a vegetarian plate Francoise eats sparingly only twice a day — she told about her life.

"I want to know a lot of things — everything about everything, but I know that is impossible," she said.

"To be a singer you have to do all the time uninteresting things. When singers meet, all they want to do is talk about songs. But I suppose doctors are the same way, and talk about nothing but diseases.

"I hope that in the future I'll find something else to do, but I don't know yet what. I don't feel clever enough to be a writer, and I never wanted to be an actress."

Francoise, who accompanies herself on the guitar, also keeps a staff of live musicians on her payroll. She herself composes about half of the songs she records or sings on television.

"It is a very important part of me," she said. "When I write a song it makes me feel secure, safe."

"But I no longer care for many of my first songs. Now they seem childish — as if they were a museum of me."

"I usually write my songs in hotel rooms after midnight in the bathroom, because the acoustics are better in bathrooms. I sing as I write — oh, yes."

This is her philosophy: "I am too young yet to know if life has a meaning. But I believe it is better to regret what you have done than what you haven't done. Who doesn't risk anything, has nothing."

To her, motherhood is the finest expression of creativity. But she says that at present she has no marriage plans.

"In France, we do not marry as readily as you do here," she said.

The Monkees With Shy Peter Tork

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 5) — The Monkees lets somebody else beside Davy Jones have all the fun (and the girls) with "One Man Shy." Peter Tork, the most bashful of the quartet, takes a shine for a curvy debutante (Lisa James) only to meet strong opposition from her snooty beau (George Furth). Youngsters will get a kick out of Peter's comrades training him in the social graces and the spy music at a "coming out" dance.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 6-9) (10-11 Channel 11) — William Windom, once the mild-mannered congressman of The Farmer's Daughter, pops up on Iron Horse, with pistol in hand, ready to shoot it out to save interest (a stolen one) in a gold mine. He sure is tough.

7-7:30 (Channel 5) — The foolishness continues on 1 Dream of Jeannie. Barbara Eden is up to her usual tricks, embarrassing her master, and in general being a delightful pain-in-the-neck. This time she makes Larry Hagman sing as if he were a Metropolitan Opera star. And before he knows it, his general has entered him into an Air Force talent contest. Yeah. Yeah. Yeah.

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5) — The Roger Miller Show, always an exponent of folksy American charm, gets a little bit of the French variety when Charles Aznavour pays a visit. The Parisian singer, with the half-mast eye lids and plucky voice, sings and talks his way through "Happy Anniversary." The women in the audience all but flip when he encores with "Reste," which is all about amour, amour, amour. Back for their fifth visit is the toe-stomping Doodletown Pipers. And Miller sings "Chug-a-Lug" one more time.

8-9 (Channels 4-5) — The Road West has a complicated, but earnest drama with "Pariah," Barbara Anderson, and baby, are rescued from a Cheyenne camp and befriended by the Prides who give them a home. All seems content until Barbara's husband — an Indian brave called Red Eagle, no less — confronts her with a testy domestic situation. Papoose belongs to him, too. And he wants to take the kid back to his teepee. Donnelly Rhodes plays the angry father.

8:30-9 (Channels 2-7-12) — Those cute little brats on Family Affair continue to rule the roost. Jody (Johnnie Whitaker) is particularly spiteful — upsetting French's chess game; giving away Uncle Bill's favorite sweater and making enough noise to drown out a disquette. Viewers will probably want to smack him. And this is just what he wants he can't feel loved unless he is punished. Ugh.

9-10 (Channels 4-5) — "Hang Down Your Head and Laugh" is another Fugitive type script for Run For Your Life. Ben Gazzara, as his days grow shorter, is certainly getting softer in the head. On a bus he meets a teenager, with a far-away look in her eyes. When their transportation breaks down he rents a car and gives her a ride and a lecture about running away from home.

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — Survival is the key word to Big Valley. Every time Barbara Stanwyck is prominent in a script you know there is going to be a lot of suffering. This time she and sons (Richard Long and Lee Majors) are dumped on the sands of a hot desert after their stagecoach is held up by bandits. They have plenty to complain about since it doesn't look as if they can put up with the heat or their fellow passengers like Lamont Johnson, a boozy former scout.

Your Money's Worth

Safe Driving Will Help Reduce Auto Insurance

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Auto insurance costs now are among your family's fastest-rising living costs. Just in the past eight years, the cost of insuring your car has zoomed more than 40 per cent and this year our total auto insurance bill will amount to over $8.5 billion, an all-time record.

So far in 1966, 23 states have raised auto liability insurance the car-owner, and particularly the car-owner with a teenage driver in the family — save?

—You can benefit from the safe-driver discounts, usually 10-15 per cent, now offered by virtually all auto insurance companies, if you have an accident-free driving record for just three years.

—You are eligible for a second major discount, probably another 10 per cent, if the teenager in your family takes a recognized driver education course through his high school or college or with a qualified commercial driving school.

—Your teenage son also may be eligible for a "good student" discount of a full 25 per cent now being offered by one major auto insurance company, based on his academic record and on the assumption that he spends more time studying than hot-rodding. In some cases, discounts are available for students attending school more than 100 road miles from home.

—You can, if you are a two-car family, be sure to insure both your cars with the same company. Two-car discounts now average some 15-20 per cent for each car.

—You can elect the highest deductible available in your area on collision insurance, assuming you could afford to pay this amount yourself in the event of an accident. Normally, the deductible amount is $50 or $100 but in some states, it is as much as $250. By choosing a $250 deductible over a $50 deductible, you may save as much as 75 per cent on costs of collision insurance.

Central to any and all savings you achieve on auto insurance obviously will be how serious and safe a driver you, and your offspring, are.

rates, and in 10 other states, rate raises are pending. These increases are on top of rate raises in 45 states last year.

In terms of dollars and cents, a two-car Boston family with a teenage son pays the astounding total of $1,050 a year in auto liability ($50,000-100,000), collision and comprehensive auto insurance. In San Francisco, the auto insurance bill for a typical two-car family with a teenage son now runs $468 and elsewhere the two-car insurance bill may run from $400 to $600 a year.

What's Back Of It?

What's behind our soaring auto insurance costs? Is there any way for you to cut them? Obviously, the towering factor behind the high cost of auto insurance today is our appalling accident total. This year alone, 52,000 Americans will be killed to traffic accidents and another 4,000,000-plus will be injured. Our total economic losses in traffic accidents in 1966 will set a new record of more than $12 billion.

A second factor is the sharp rise in auto thefts from 219,000 in 1955 to more than 500,000 this year. Today the average dollar loss if your car is stolen is $1,030.

Auto repair and medical costs, key considerations in our auto insurance rates, also are climbing steadily. And padding of accident claims has become a major financial headache for the insurance industry.

How To Save

Over the long range, the new Federal auto safety standards should help reduce our overall accident costs and thus moderate auto insurance rates. More and better driver education programs surely will help keep down accident rates and insurance costs for younger drivers.

But meanwhile, how can you,

Man Fined $50 for Using State License While Not a Resident

Richard K. Smith, 25, route 1, Oneida, arrested by conservation wardens Nov. 20 in the Town of Osborn, Friday afternoon was fined $50 and costs or 24 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of hunting with a resident license while not a resident of Wisconsin.

A warden told the court that at the time of the arrest, Smith could not prove he was not an Illinois resident. The warden said he had Illinois auto licenses and a driver's license from that state.

However, the warden said he later learned that Smith had lived in Wisconsin only since September. The law requires that a person must reside in the state one year before he may legally purchase a resident hunting license.

Smith appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Police Raid Beer Party At Freedom

Hold 18 Youths, Charges Expected Today in Court

Eighteen persons, including 13 juveniles, were taken into custody following a raid by Outagamie County police on a beer party at a private home just outside Freedom on State 55, about 11:45 p.m. Sunday.

Charges are expected to be filed against some of the persons today. Five of the 18 present at the party were girls, police said.

Five adults and three juveniles were held at the county jail overnight. The remainder of the persons were released to the custody of their parents after they were questioned at the jail.

Police said a "lookout" tipped off persons inside the house when the squad cars arrived at the home. Two girls reportedly climbed out windows while several persons were found under beds and in closets. Police encountered no resistance.

Beer in Basement

Most of the persons at the house, owned by a 26-year-old man, reportedly were from the rural Kaukauna, Seymour, Freedom and Appleton areas. Two youths were from Suring and one was from Pound, Wis.

Taking part in the raid were six county traffic policemen, one sheriff's investigator, a county deputy and a state probation and parole agent.

Authorities said the youths and adults were drinking from a quarter barrel of beer found in the basement. Also confiscated were a case of 36 empty beer bottles, a six pack of beer and two empty wine bottles.

Authorities are attempting to determine if the youth from Pound and Suring are runaways.

Two Suffer Bruises In Two-Car Collision Sunday in Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Two women suffered bruises and were treated and released at Community Hospital when the car in which they were passengers was involved in an accident about 1:15 a.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Raymond Schommer, 1409 Kenneth Ave., and Mrs. Ruben Reuter, 225 Taylor St., were the passengers in the car driven by Raymond Schommer, 38, when it collided with a vehicle driven by Jerome Nettekoven, 40, route 1, Menasha, traveling south on Crooks Avenue.

Nettekoven was issued a citation for operating his car on the wrong side of the road.

Four Hospitalized After Headon Collision on BB

Four persons, including two from Black Creek, were hospitalized after a headon collision about 7:15 p.m. Sunday on Winnebago County Trunk BB, a quarter of a mile east of U. S. 41.

Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital were the occupants of one car, including the driver, Glen G. Smith, 57, and his wife, Anna, 53, both of route 1, Black Creek. Both received head and face lacerations and chest injuries.

Their grandson, David Smith, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, rural Appleton, received severe facial lacerations and had several teeth knocked out. He later was transferred to Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah,

Task Force on Recreation Eyes More Funds, Revamping

Unit to Consult With Sen. Nelson; Seeks to Double Program Size

FOX CITIES — Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The task force appointed by Gov. Warren Knowles to review the Outdoor Recreation Act Program (ORAP) decided this morning to confer with the original architect of the program, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, on ways to double the present budget of the program and restructure its organization.

The financial resources committee of ORAP is considering the budget for acquisition and development of recreational resources in the state to some $9.9 million by 1971, double the size of the present program.

Chairman Leo W. Roethe said members would be conferring with Sen. Nelson, who instigated the effort to establish ORAP during his gubernatorial career, shortly to consider new sources of revenue for the expanded program. Among the alternatives are:

—An increase of the present special one cent tax on cigarettes to two cents.
—Possible additional taxes on beer or soft drinks.
—Possible financing of the program from general tax revenues.

—Additional fees for use of the state's park facilities.
—Bonding for acquisition and development purposes.

Simultaneously with considering a beefed-up ORAP program, the task force also is drafting a bill to restructure the organizational make-up of the program. The present proposal being considered is to combine the state recreation committee, which now administers ORAP, and the Natural Resources Committee, a coordinating agency between many state agencies, into a new State Council on Outdoor Resources and Recreation.

The new council would administer the doubled program, which has also been extended in time beyond the original 10-year program initiated by Sen. Nelson. The new program is indefinite.

Council Membership

Composition of the new state council would be the governor or his representative as chairman, one senator and one assemblyman from each of the major parties, five citizen members appointed by the governor, and several state officers, including the Conservation Department director, state Highway Commission chairman, director of the Department of Resource Development, director of Public Welfare, and the chairman of the state soil and water conservation committee.

The proposed bill was originally scheduled to be one of the first to come before the Legislature but task force members felt more time is necessary for drafting and moved up public hearings a month and a half to mid-February.

The restructuring of the ORAP is felt to be motivated by Republican desires to change the direction of the program from one of primarily land acquisition to both acquisition and land development for present and near-future public uses of state lands.

Arkansas Man Admits He Purchased Beer For Youths From N-M

OSHKOSH — An Arkansas man who is staying in Neenah this morning pleaded guilty to buying beer for a 17-year-old Neenah boy and two 16-year-old Menasha girls.

Neenah police arrested Pat Bryant, 21, who is staying at 1129 Winneconne Ave., Neenah, Saturday night. Police said they found Bryant and the three young people drinking beer in a car on Plummer Court under a U.S. 41 overpass.

Police said the girls accused Bryant of buying the beer. Trial was set for Wednesday. A $500 bond was ordered.

Young Man Walks Off With $300

OSHOSH — A young man walked away from a Town of Menasha service station with about $300 he had taken from the cash register while the attendant was working outside.

Merlin Shelley, 1037 Home Ave., Town of Menasha, the attendant, told Winnebago County Sheriff's investigators that a man about 26 years old entered the 47 Shell Station located on State 47 just north of the Menasha city limits about 7 p.m., bought a few soft drinks and "hung around" Shelley he said he went went outside about 8:30 p.m. to put a pickup truck in the station garage. He said he saw the man walk away as he drove the truck into the station.

Shelley told police that he found the cash register had been opened when he reentered the office. He said about $300 in $5 and $10 bills had been taken. He gave police a description of the man.

Garage Walls, Roof Studding Scorched

The walls, studdings and roof were scorched in a garage fire at the Titus Heigl home, 912 E. Glendale Ave., at 10:48 a.m. today.

Firemen said the blaze was caused by ashes in a rubbish container. Firemen used a booster line in extinguishing the minor blaze.

At 11:50 a.m. Sunday firemen were called to handle an oven fire at the John M. Witherell home, 850 E. Lindbergh St. The fire started from grease was out when firemen arrived.

What's in a Name?

Residents Feel Eugene Is Fine for Boy, Not Street

Appleton City Plan Commission late this morning recommended denial of changing the name of Eugene Street to Brentwood Avenue. The recommendation will now go to the street and sanitation committee for further study.

Seven women, residents of Eugene Street, hoped they would eventually be residents of Brentwood Avenue, if their request was approved.

Appearing this morning during a hearing before the commission over the proposed name change, one woman said, "Eugene is a nice name for a son, but not a street."

A petition asking for the change was circulated among Eugene Street dwellers in October. The city council referred the matter to the plan commission and the street and sanitation committee in mid-October.

Backing by Residents
During the hearing, one of the residents said the group had the backing of all residents of Eugene Street. The street has 40 residents in a two-block area.

Kenneth Hooyman 1525 W. Lindbergh St., opposed the name change saying Appleton has about 120 streets named after men and women. "If the people don't like the name, will they change the names of all those streets?" Hooyman asked. Opponents to the name change cited expenses involved in updating street signs, postal office records and other legal documents.

"When we change the name of a street, it's going to cause an expenditure that most people don't realize," said Raymond

Fast Action Sought In Water Study

Resource Development Director Gears for Winnebago Project

FOND DU LAC —Freeman, for lakes and river shores and tributaries.

Holmer explained that one of the important functions of his office will be to govern the use of septic tanks in these water areas. The water resources bill, recently passed by the legislature, gives the DRD jurisdiction over existing septic tank systems and a veto power over plans involving new septic systems.

He said his office hopes to move rapidly in establishing standards for shoreline and flood plane zoning to give the counties some basis to work from. "We want to have these standards established by July 1, 1967 so we can work with local governmental agencies in getting this pollution control started," he said.

The conference, co-sponsored by state Sen. Walter Hollander and Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission, was called in an attempt to get various governmental wheels turning toward a uniform zoning code

Judge Defers Rape Case Plea

Allows Neenah Man Time to Obtain Lawyer

A 25-year-old Neenah father of four was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 late this morning on an attempted rape charge brought following investigation by Appleton detectives.

Gregory H. Hockers, 1122 County Trunk V, was given until Friday afternoon to obtain legal counsel. Judge Gustave J. Keller set bond at $3,500. Hockers is in the county jail in lieu of posting bond.

When Judge Keller informed Hockers that he had the right to counsel, the Neenah man replied, "I don't think it's really necessary."

However, the judge said the charge — a felony — is a serious one and indicated he did not want to accept a plea from the man until he first had advice of counsel. Hocker's wife was in the courtroom when he was arraigned. Hockers was taken into custody at his home Saturday afternoon after Appleton detectives obtained a warrant.

The Neenah man is charged with attempting to rape a 15-year-old Appleton girl who told police she was attacked at knife-point and was dragged between two houses at Sixth and State Streets about 9:30 p.m. Nov. 16.

Enlist Assistance

"In order to get this done we will have to enlist the assistance and cooperation of county and local governments so that we can work together in getting an action program on the road," he said.

Attending the meeting were officials from Waupaca, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Dodge, Manitowoc, Calumet, Green Lake and Outagamie counties. Also represented were county extension offices, conservation groups, federal agencies and state legislators.

Union Okays New Contract At Riverside

Members of United Mine-workers District 50 voted Sunday to accept Riverside Paper Corp.'s contract offer which includes a 4 per cent across the board wage increase ranging from 9 to 12 cents an hour, according to company officials. The union has 273 members. The vote showed 147 favoring acceptance of the contract while 105 rejected the proposal.

Federal mediators assisted in union-company negotiations for several days last week. The groups have been negotiating the new contract since Oct. 1.

Other provisions of the new contract include four weeks vacation after 15 years employment at the paper company, with a five-week vacation after 25 years.

An increase in hospitalization insurance benefits, with a maximum of $20 daily room allowance, was included in the new contract. Union members voted on the contract Sunday afternoon at a meeting at the Appleton Club.

Girl Taken to Hospital By Fire Rescue Squad

The Appleton fire department rescue squad took Deborah Boesae, 17, of 808 Lawrence St., New London, to Appleton Memorial Hospital after she became ill during a basketball game at Fox Valley Lutheran High School about 9:50 p.m. Sunday.

The girl, who had difficulty breathing was given oxygen.

Burglaries, Thefts Account for Most of Local 15 Per Cent Hike In First Nine Months of 1966

Appleton, like cities of similar size, experienced an upward trend in crime during the first nine months of 1966 compared with the same period a year ago.

The 15 per cent increase in total crimes in Appleton was accounted for primarily by more burglaries and thefts, according to information released by Lt. Robert Lathrop of the Appleton Police Department identification bureau.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation in a report today said, the U.S. crime index rose 10 per cent during the first nine months of 1966 over the corresponding period last year. As a group, according to the FBI uniform crime report, violent crimes registered an 11 per cent upward trend, with murder up 8 per cent and forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault up 11 per cent each. Although there was a 100 per cent increase in the number of murders in Appleton from January through September of this year, the figure means little since there were no murders in the city during the first nine months of 1965.

Only one rape was reported through September, representing a 50 per cent decrease from 1965.

Appleton police investigated three robberies in 1966 compared with only one last year, Lathrop said.

On the national level, law enforcement agencies in 214 cities with populations of 50,000 to 100,000 (the category including Appleton) reported overall crimes ranging from 5 to 17 per cent in violent crimes and crimes against property. There were increases in all crime categories. As a group, property crimes showed a 10 per cent increase in the nation.

Appleton lies in the North Central region which the FBI report shows has one of the largest increases in crime.

126 Burglaries

The 11 per cent increase in this area compares with an increase of 12 per cent in the southern states, 9 per cent in the northeast and 8 per cent in the western region.

The FBI report shows that the suburban area continued to record the greatest percentage change in the volume of crime, with a rise of 12 per cent. Appleton police recorded 126 burglaries in 1966, compared with 104 in 1965, Lathrop said. Thefts amounting to more than $50 increased from 55 to 76, while thefts under $50 increased more than 500 — from 726 in 1965 to 1,272 in the first nine months of 1966.

Auto thefts decreased from 56 in 1965 to 51 in the first nine months of this year. However, 756 bicycles were stolen through September of this year, compared with 411 last year.

Lathrop pointed out that the value of cash and merchandise obtained in thefts during the first nine months of 1965 was $92,190, of which stolen items valued at $73,093 were recovered by police.

The value of articles and cash taken in 1966 was $84,888, Lathrop said, of which $60,053 was recovered.

Marion Boy Found Dead

Body Discovered in Front Seat of Car In Garage Sunday

MARION — Collen Salzman, 14, son of Mrs. Lucille Sushring, was found dead at approximately 10 p.m. Sunday in the front seat of the family car parked in the garage.

An autopsy was ordered by Dr. William Mc Ginnis, Marion, deputy county coroner.

His mother told police he had left the house at 2 p.m. to shovel snow. When he failed to return by 9 p.m. she called Police Chief Jack Betow. Upon investigation they found the boy in the garage.

The body was released to the Huttermark Funeral Home. The autopsy will be performed by a Wausau pathologist.

Slippery streets and snow were factors in nearly all of the five accidents reported Sunday afternoon.

Marlene M. Van Den Eng, 3906 E. Wisconsin Ave., received a whiplash injury when her car was struck from behind at E. Wisconsin Avenue and N. Lave Street.

Driver of the second car was Arnold H. Kahler, 70, 1520 N. Superior St., whose car police said struck the woman's car which was stopped prior to making a turn. The accident occurred at 1:40 p.m. Sunday.

State JCs Told to Speak for Beliefs

Address by Suttle, Naming Top Farmer Climax for Convention

APPLETON — The Wisconsin children under the age of 6 die Jaycees and guests were challenged each week from lack of nutrition by William Suttle, U.S. tion. In parts of Brazil three of Jaycee president, to speak up six children can not expect to for what they believe because live beyond 12 months' due to any success or change depends parasitic diseases.

Suttle was keynote for the state Jaycee Outstanding Young Farmer award dinner which climaxed the mid-winter convention here Sunday night. Kenyon Giese, route 1, Loganville, won the state title from a field of 40 candidates.

"We think there is a future in dairy farming and hope to be an integral part of the community in the future in promoting the rural-urban relationship advocated by the Jaycees," Giese said in accepting the award.

National Contest

He thanked the Baraboo chapter for sponsoring him. Giese operates a 404-acre dairy farm near Baraboo. He owns a herd of 62 registered Jerseys.

He will represent the state in the national contest next year at Harrisonburg, Va.

Suttle borrowed a quote from late Supreme Court Justice Learned Hand who said, "Liberty lies in the hearts and souls of men and women. When it dies, there no court or constitution can revive it."

Not a Cloak

He challenged that thoughts were "not to serve as a cloak around the conscience to avoid a getting involved."

"Are we really active in the affairs of government?" he asked. "We don't have the right to vote or ask others to lay down their lives on the battlefield" until we find out why we opposed to such things as totalitarian Communism.

"In Latin America 100,000

"I wonder if we really believe in our fellow man?" he queried. The job is left to the dedicated who want to change, he said. "We can't be concerned with apathy of others. Do what you can to make things true."

Suttle saluted the Wisconsin Jaycees for their "enthusiasm, determination and dedication" as exhibited during his several days visiting state chapters.

Menasha Town Tax Rebate Up By $25,000

MENASHA — The Town of Menasha received its third state tax apportionment today raising the year's totals to $400,128.

The 1966 tax rebates amount to $25,543 over last year, according to Clerk Robert J. there no court or constitution can revive it."

The final payment was $82,045, some $9,476 higher than last year's $72,569.

Last year, the town received a total of $374,585.

The amount could be increased at a later date when the state tax books are audited. In past years, the town's tax rebates have been changed when it was discovered that townsmen had failed to indicate they were from the town when filling out their state income tax forms.

Menasha Rebate Windfall $94,378 Over Expectations

MENASHA — The city's total share of state income taxes for the year is $94,378 higher than expected when the budget was approved a year ago and more than $44,000 greater than City Clerk Harry Kind had estimated when he prepared revenue figures for the 1967 budget. Kind's smile this morning left no doubt how the unexpected sum would be used, considering the difficulty officials have encountered in finding ways to pare the 1967 budget, which has unofficially been translated into a tax rate increase of $5.76 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The unexpected $44,000 could reduce the levy by about 88 cents, to a net rate of $45.88, compared with a current tax rate of $42.10.

Herb Brei, Center, route 2, Neenah, chairman of the Wisconsin Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmer award program, congratulates Kenyon Giese, route 1, Loganville, who won the honor. The award presentation climaxed the state Jaycee mid-winter convention in Appleton Saturday night.

Youth to Appear in Juvenile Court on Traffic Fatality

NEENAH — The 17-year-old Neenah youth who was found negligent by a six-man coroner's jury Saturday afternoon in the traffic death of another youth last Sept. 3 will appear before Judge James G. Sarres in juvenile court this Thursday at the Neenah police station.

Judge Sarres can handle the case in the juvenile court or he can waive the proceedings to adult court where the youth could face a fine of up to $1,000 or a one-year sentence in the county jail or both if found guilty of the charge.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller conducted the inquest at the Neenah police station Saturday morning and afternoon. Some 12 witnesses, many of them youths who were in the van bus at the time of the crash, testified the driver was speeding and went through two stop signs before the van slammed into a tree near the intersection of Oak and Washington streets.

The driver, a juvenile whose name may not be published under the state juvenile code, was charged with "causing the death of another human being by a high degree of negligence in the use of a vehicle."

The charge was one of three presented to the jurors by Dist. Atty. Thomas Fink.

John Ottman, 18, son of Mrs. Albin Jury, 412 Fifth St., died at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital at 1:44 a.m. on Sept. 3, about two hours after the crash.

The youths who were injured in the accident included Jon Freund, 17, 1031 Campbell St.; Richard Lloyd, 16, 727 Chestnut St.; Steven Morse, 17, 1065 Kalfahs St.; Wayne Allen, 17, 320 Abbey Ave.; Noreen Caron, 13, 133 Lennox St.; Charles W. Smith, 16, 1034 Oak St.; Judy Schroeder, 13, route 1, Winneconne; Daniel Plette, 17, 1014 Bayview Road, and Patrick R. Dennis, 17, 1020 Bayview Road.

Neenah to Try Again to Cut '67 Tax Rate

NEENAH — Another attempt to chop down the 1967 tax rate increase to a realistic level will be made by Neenah aldermen this evening in the council chambers.

The tax rate now stands somewhere in the neighborhood of $27.30 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, which is $4.28 higher than the present rate.

The councilmen and town chairmen managed to shave off only 15 cents from the tax boost Saturday afternoon when another $43,500 was reduced from the $4.1 million school budget.

Another 50-cents or so was dropped before the school session from the capital outlays in the public works department. Four streets were eliminated from the 1967 street program and the sidewalk account was reduced to $25,000. The total amount taken from the public works outlays Saturday was $62,550.

Further Cutting

The aldermen can be expected to scrutinize all the departmental budgets, outside of the school expenditures, this evening in an attempt to find ways of further cutting the proposed 1967 outlay.

The time is growing short for the aldermen to put the final budget in proper form. Clerk-Comptroller R. V. Hauser said this morning he hoped to have the budget published Tuesday in order to call the public hearing on Dec. 16. The budget has to be published 10 days in advance of the hearing and if it is not ready for publication tomorrow, the hearing would have to be delayed until at least Dec. 19.

School Budget

No further cuts are expected in the school budget, which has been reduced by a total of $75,000 since it was first presented. The aldermen and town representatives finally arrived at a compromise cut of an additional $43,500 Saturday afternoon after "bargaining" for several hours. Larger proposed cuts, including one of 150,000, didn't get the necessary support from the aldermen and town officials.

Taxi Driver Fined For No License

NEENAH — Marty Commerford, 177 Main St., Menasha, a taxi driver, signed a stipulation of guilt for not having a chauffeur's license and paid a fine of $25 at the Neenah Police department.

Three other persons paid fines for speeding and one for making an illegal left turn. Fined $15 each were Delharte C. Eake, 22, 228 Abbey St., Menasha; John F. Dennis, 18, 1020 Bayview Road and Richard Fank, 48, 320 Merritt St., Oshkosh, paid a fine of $20 for speeding 40 miles per hour in a 25 mph zone.

Alternative Plan

Holmes to Ask Okay To Restudy Bank Costs

MENASHA — Faced with what he considers an immediate need for improved city offices and a lack of a timetable for downtown redevelopment, Mayor Kenneth Holmes will ask the common council tonight for permission to further explore costs of his office renovation plan.

The mayor said this morning he will suggest that the council allow him to get more detailed cost figures for combining the present city offices and city-owned bank building next door. He will suggest that the city study both the $170,000 project already outlined by Sauter-Seaborne Architects, Ltd., and explore the possibility of making do with a "bare necessities" project.

Less Costly

The second, less costly alternative, he explained, would be in line with recommendations made recently by the city's master planning consultant, Jerry Pollak of Victor Gruen Associates.

The planner had suggested that costs be kept to a minimum if the city chooses to undertake a renovation project, since his rough planning draft suggests construction of a municipal building complex within five years, the time within which he said he believes the redevelopment program should be finished.

The mayor discussed various alternatives which he said he has been considering for providing more office space.

Sell Later

He said he believes it would be possible, for instance, to create a structure combining the present offices and former bank which could serve now as a municipal building and could later be sold for private use as an office building. He had previously spoken of designing the offices to serve the city as long as 20 years.

Robert Paynter, of Sauter-Seaborne, confirmed the mayor's belief that the structure could be sold for private use if the city chose later to erect a new municipal building. "I think that could be done real nicely," he stated. Such a solution would provide municipal officials with new offices in the near future while returning to the city some of the cost when it was sold.

Businessmen's Group Schedules Annual Meeting

Plans are being made by the Northside Advancement Association for the group's annual meeting Jan. 18 at the Left Guard.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. A musical trio will entertain from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The meeting will mark the retirement of Edgar Quevillon and the installation of John Hennessey as president of the association.

Quevillon has appointed three past presidents of the group, Charles Riley, Willard Johnson and Hanford Baldock, to serve as a nominating committee for members of the board of directors of the association. Nominations are being received.

Girl Slashes Wrist After Reprimand

A 16-year-old Appleton girl who cut her wrist with a razor blade after she came home from a dance early Sunday morning, was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Larry's Ambulance.

Appleton police said the girl, after being reprimanded by her parents, slashed her left wrist, cutting a vein. She reportedly lost a considerable amount of blood.

Lawrence Study Series

Aymara Indians Topic Of Science Colloquium

The Aymara Indians of Peru will be the subject of a science colloquium at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, in Room 161 of Lawrence University's Youngchild Hall.

Dr. John Plummer, associate professor of anthropology, will discuss "The Terrible Aymara: Fact or Fiction." His talk is based on a recent Yale University sponsored study of the Aymara.

Dr. Plummer joined the Lawrence faculty this fall. He formerly taught at Bennett College and State University College, both in New York, and was a research associate with the Human Relations Area Files organization.

He received his bachelor of arts degree in chemistry and zoology from Dartmouth College, and master and doctor degrees in far eastern studies and anthropology from Yale and Michigan. He also studied at Tokyo Kyoiku, Japan.

His article, "Another Look at Aymara Personality," was published this year in Behavior Science Notes. He is author of a book, "Anthropology," published in 1965, and has written a number of studies on ethnic groups of mainland southeast Asia.

Dr. Plummer is a fellow of the American Anthropological Association, and a member of the Association for Asian Studies, the American Ethnological Society, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and the Central States Anthropological Society.

Neenah Man Faces Worthless Check Charges

OSHKOSH — Jerry V. Hauschel, 29, of 1002½ S. Lake St., Neenah, was sentenced to 30 days in the Winnebago County Jail this morning on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer.

Hauschel pleaded guilty to both charges. He was arrested Saturday afternoon in the Town of Neenah.

Winnebago County sheriff's officers received a call about 2:55 p.m. from Helen Willes, who also lives in the apartment building at 1002½ S. Lake St., who complained that Hauschel had slapped her and scratched her. Sheriff's officers said they warned Hauschel to stay away from the apartment.

The sheriff's department received another call from Helen Willes about 3:36 p.m. Officers returned to the apartment and said they found Hauschel at the front door. They said an officer took Hauschel by the arm and tried to lead him away when Hauschel pushed him. They said another officer grabbed Hauschel and put handcuffs on him. The officers said Hauscheld tried to break away when he was near the squad car and had to be forced into the car.

Neenah Man Gets 30 Days for Disorderliness

OSHKOSH — Earl W. Lauger, 901 Henry St., Neenah, this morning faced two worthless check charges in Winnebago County Court Branch 3.

Lauger asked the court to appoint an attorney for him, and the case was adjourned to Dec. 16.

Neenah police arrested Lauger Friday. He is charged with issuing a worthless check for $20 that was cashed at the Food Queen Market, 346 First St., Neenah, and in the amount of $54.50 cashed at Doering's Super Valu, 211 Milwaukee St., Menasha Oct. 25.

Neenah police said Lauger wrote the checks payable to

Use of Surplus Food Declines in November

NEW LONDON — Surplus food distribution by United Counties Distributors (UCD), distribution agent for nine Fox Valley county welfare boards, went into a tailspin in November after a small increase in participation and poundage the previous month.

The decline in distribution is indicative of the high employment rate being experienced across the nation. Many seasonal jobs have not ended and the workers have not become eligible for participation in the program.

The 6,074 persons participating in the program and 93,524 pounds of commodities distributed were the lowest totals recorded in 1966. September totals of 6,385 persons and 94,300 pounds were the previous lows.

Total Participation
In October, 6,428 persons received 94,896 pounds of food. Total participation for the year reached 90,179 and poundage 1,304,375.

County totals for November were Outagamie, 787 people and 10,449 pounds of commodities; Winnebago, 688 and 10,424; Waupaca, 534 and 8,138; Fond du Lac, 602 and 9,010; Portage, 665 and 9,934; Shawano, 672 and 10,898; Waushara, 280 and 4,677; Oconto, 589 and 10,294, and Marathon, 1,257 and 19,700.

Dec. 12 — Oshkosh, northside delivery, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 13 — Oshkosh, southside delivery, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.; Omro, noon to 2 p.m., and Winneconne, 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 14 — Neenah, 8:30 a.m. to noon and Menasha, 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 19 — New London, Outagamie County residents, 9 to 11 a.m.; Appleton, Pierce Park, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., and

Wm. W. Rogge who endorsed them. Police said he gave the checks to Shirley Rogge to cash, then split the proceeds.

Four Injured In Outagamie Road Crashes

Youths Reported Satisfactory After Hortonville Crash

Four persons were injured, none seriously, in weekend accidents on Outagamie County roads.

Two 18-year-old youths were taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by a Hortonville ambulance after their car left U.S. 45 near Hortonville about 2 a.m. today.

Reported in satisfactory condition this morning were Russell V. Schiebe, route 2, Black Creek, and Rollie Bessett, route 1, Hortonville. The nature of their injuries was not immediately determined.

Outagamie County police said the car, driven by Schiebe left the highway and went into a ditch, apparently while the youth was attempting to pass a car. Details of the accident were not included in the incomplete report filed by county police.

Struck Deer

Mrs. Roger R. Grode, 24, route 2, Black Creek, received cuts about the head and arms about 2:10 a.m. Saturday when a car driven by her husband, 25, struck a deer and ran into a ditch on Outagamie County Trunk PP near County Trunk S.

The woman was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance. Damage to the car was estimated at $250. The deer was killed.

David J. McMillin, 26, Fernandina Beach, Fla., received a bloody nose when his car ran into the ditch after skidding on slippery pavement on County Trunk Z, near ZZ, about 8 p.m. Friday.

The left front of his car was damaged. McMillin told county police he was rounding a curve when the car began sliding.

Cadets in Fox Cities CAP Train as Pilots

Fox Cities Civil Air Patrol Cadets are participating in a special national program designed to produce more trained pilots for military and commercial service.

Glen Dell, an Appleton cadet, scored a first last summer when he won his wings as a private pilot at a special training session for the prospective pilots at Chester, S.C. Of the 60 students enrolled in the powered aircraft course, Dell was the first to pass his pilot's test while accompanied with an examiner from the Federal Aviation Agency.

The training session was one of three in the two-year-old program which teaches students to pilot both powered aircraft and sailplanes. All of the students in the powered airplane course won their pilot wings, and 82 of the 88 students in the sailplane course were successful in passing their examination.

The summer program is a part of flight training offered by the Fox Cities Squadron. A solo flight course also is available to cadets in the local squadron, and during the past summer Robert Massey and William Lundt, both of Appleton, won their solo wings in that program. Massey has continued his training and has since won the rating of private pilot.

Pass FAA Exam

The special national summer program in which Dell was trained is offered to CAP cadets who successfully complete local programs and pass a Federal Aviation Authority written examination. The CAP pays all the costs of the student except for uniform and meal charges during the summer encampments.

Fox Cities cadets have been represented at the summer encampments since they started two years ago.

The Fox Cities CAP is open to both boys and girls from 14-18. Regular squadron meetings are at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays at Wilson School in Appleton and at the Oshkosh YMCA Thursday evenings. Persons 18 or older are eligible for membership in the senior flight program.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Prof. Koffka to Speak On Engels at Lawrence

German socialist Friedrich Engels will be the subject of a Freshman Studies address given by Lawrence University history professor Mrs. Elizabeth Koffka at 9:20 a.m. Tuesday, in Stansbury Theatre. The lecture is open to the public.

Mrs. Koffka, a German born scholar, was educated in Marburg, Munich, Kiel and Giessen. She received her doctorate degree from the University of Frankfurt. Her present interests include modern, diplomatic and intellectual European history.

From 1930 to 1961, she taught at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., beginning as instructor, and earning an eventual full professorship. Between 1947 and 1957, she was six times director of the Smith junior year in Geneva. She came to Lawrence in 1961 as a New York Foundation visiting professor in history.

She has published articles in the Smith Alumnae Quarterly, the English periodical "The Spectator," and in German newspapers. Her present interests center on German political ideologies in comparison with those of Western Europe.

Mrs. Koffka's address is the last of the Lawrence Freshman Studies talks this term.

Gall Bladder Surgery Set for Eisenhower Late This Week

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 76, will enter Walter Reed Hospital this week for surgery to remove his gall bladder, Eisenhower's office announced today.

The five-star general will enter the hospital Thursday. The exact day or time of the operation was not given.

Eisenhower's office issued this statement: "The doctors have informed

Gen. Eisenhower that he must have his gall bladder removed soon.

"He plans to enter Walter Reed General Hospital Thursday, Dec. 8, and plans to leave for Palm Desert, Calif., right after the turn of the year."

Physical Exam

Eisenhower underwent surgery and also suffered a heart attack while he was president, and in the fall of 1965 he suffered a heart attack while vacationing in Augusta, Ga. He was hospitalized for several weeks then, first at an Army base in Georgia and later at Walter Reed.

Eisenhower checked in at Walter Reed for an overnight physical examination about 10 days ago. It is assumed that he received the advice of doctors for the gall bladder removal at that time.

Eisenhower's military aide, Brig. Gen. Robert Schulz, said his office would be busy today canceling appointments beyond Thursday.

No Sign of Discomfort

Eisenhower expects to keep appointments Tuesday evening and Wednesday in New York City for a football Hall of Fame dinner and a luncheon for a business group.

Eisenhower has been at his office on the Gettysburg College campus regularly each day since the last Walter Reed checkup.

Gen. Schulz said that if Eisenhower was suffering any physical discomfort during this period he had given no outward sign of it.

Eisenhower reported to his office at 8:25 a.m. today and expected to put in a full day of writing, looking over manuscripts, and answering mail.

Debate Begins On Merits of Draft in U. S.

Chicago University Group to Study Possible Alternatives

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Chicago draft conference, warned to deal only with facts, takes a hard look today at advantages and disadvantages of the present Selective Service system.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey,

Hershey Favors Draft for Women

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The nation's draft director says he favors drafting women for the U.S. armed forces, but adds there are no current plans to do so.

"Whenever we need women, I think we ought to draft them," said Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey in a copyright interview published Sunday in the University of Michigan student newspaper, the Michigan Daily.

"One area where I've heard a lot about drafting women is nursing. There's a real shortage in the armed forces," said Hershey.

director of the Selective Service, told the conferees in a prepared statement that "if a conference such as yours is to have even a remote chance of producing really new ideas, it must start its thinking from fact rather than faulty assumptions and misinterpretations which have deluged and warped discussions of Selective Service recently."

National concern over the draft — and its alleged inequities — has swollen since the United States stepped up its in-

Speeding on a Foggy Highway

The Life He Saves...

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's Texas driving habits are back in the news again.

The White House, using figures from an official log, said Johnson "drove at a moderate speed" on his way to church along a fog-bound highway Sunday.

But a newsman and two photographers driving separate cars said they couldn't keep up with the President despite traveling 80 to 85 miles an hour, and faster in some spurts.

Johnson's accelerator foot stirred stories of high-speed driving in March 1964 but Secret Service cars screened newsmen enough to keep them from clocking the President.

Johnson drove his white Continental from the LBJ Ranch to church at Fredericksburg Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Johnson and Bess

Abell, White House social secretary.

Within hours of reports from the three men who couldn't keep up with Johnson, the White House issued its speeding denial.

The fog limited visibility to about 100 yards and was heavy enough to necessitate some use of lights and windshield wipers, the newsmen said.

The front car hit 100 miles an hour several times but could get in sight only of the Secret Service car trailing Johnson and did not see the President's car. The second car, moving at speeds up to 90 never caught the first. The third car's driver said he never could catch up with the second car, and finally slowed down.

The speed limit on open Texas highways is 70. U.S. 290 in the area is a two-lane, gravel-shouldered road through ranch and farm country.

Nearing Breaking Point

Special to The Post-Crescent

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — State and local taxes are nearing the breaking point, creating a serious dilemma for cities having to meet increased public needs but finding themselves with a shrinking ability to do so.

Fiscal headaches — combined with the problem of getting people to accept community change — were given special attention by government experts and psychologists here today at the Congress of American Cities.

The more than 3,500 delegates

from 50 states heard from Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, Detroit; Ronald H. Bailey, Menlo Park, Calif.; U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and Gordon L. Lippitt, Washington, D. C., president of Leadership Resources, Inc. Their subjects were the heavy financial burden of the Viet Nam war, proposed cutbacks in Great Society programs and federal assistance for public works programs.

Cavanagh set the tone, opening that "great and ambitious federal programs aimed at curing the problems of the cities are short of money." Viet Nam spending also came in for criticism.

"Only Skeletons"

"Some programs are crumbling, others are only skeletons," he declared. "The rhetoric and money still are miles away." Cavanagh expressed concern for the war on poverty, charging it was "being driven over a cliff" by various forces.

"One of these forces is the Viet Nam war," he said. "Clearly it is getting the lion's share of the national budget." He said that while Congress formally declared war on poverty, the U.S. — without such a declaration — has become deeply involved in the war in southeast Asia.

"Our readiness to jump into wars when they are outside the three-mile limit seems much greater than our readiness to jump into wars within our

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jets flew through a sky full of challenging Communist MIGs Sunday to bomb targets near Hanoi, and pilots reported shooting down one of the Red jets and probably a second.

Retaliating for the heaviest U.S. air losses of the war two days earlier, the American fliers also claimed widespread destruction to one of North Viet Nam's major railroad marshaling yards six miles northeast of Hanoi.

While the air war swirled around the North Vietnamese capital, fresh fighting was reported on the edge of South Viet Nam's capital at the Tan Son Nhut Airport.

American guards led by sentry dogs reported killing 12 more Viet Cong in flushing out remnants of an enemy suicide force which penetrated the big air base Sunday.

30 Viet Cong Killed

In the last two days, U.S. spokesmen reported, 30 Viet Cong were killed inside the defensive perimeter of Saigon's air base. Three Americans were killed and five wounded in the first Viet Cong attack. U.S. casualties in later action were reported night. One U.S. jet fighter and a Vietnamese transport were damaged.

Off the coast of North Viet Nam, the U.S. destroyer Ingersoll fought a gun duel with North Vietnamese shore batteries this morning, U.S. headquarters reported.

A spokesman said the shore batteries opened fire on the Ingersoll while she patrolled six miles off the southern coast of North Viet Nam. The Ingersoll replied with her five-inch guns.

A U.S. spokesman said the destroyer suffered slight damage but no casualties. He had no assessment of damage to the shore guns. The engagement took place 11 miles northeast of Dong Hoi, the spokesman said.

Ground Action Slight

The stepped-up air war around Hanoi dominated the war picture as only small, scattered ground actions again were reported.

Freezing Rain, Snow

Treachery Lurks On Roads, Walks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sleet and freezing rain painted much of Wisconsin with ice Sunday making streets and sidewalks glisten with treachery.

icy pavement was blamed for at least one fatal traffic accident. There were countless other mishaps, and there were few pedestrians who were able to keep firm footing.

An Evanston, Ill., woman died Sunday when thrown from a car that spun out of control on a highway near Kenosha.

Hospitals in Milwaukee reported treating more than 115 persons for falls suffered on sidewalks and streets in a 12-hour period. There were numerous bone fractures from the falls, and Milwaukee police said they took about 80 persons to hospitals in a five-hour period.

Milwaukee police also reported about 200 car accidents. All major Wisconsin roads had scattered slippery stretches today following Sunday's snow and sleet, the State Highway Department reported.

Lesser traveled roads, the summary added, have more slippery conditions, particularly in areas of slow moving traffic. The department said driving lanes on the interstate system are mostly clear but do have some widely scattered slippery spots. The passing lanes have conditions ranging from frequent slippery spots to generally. The same condition exists on ramps.

The department said it expected there would be a substantial improvement by mid-day.

Mayor Buckley Sends a Gingko Bilboa Tree

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
NORTH LAS VEGAS, Nev. — A bit of Appleton, Wis. grows here.

It's a Gingko Bilboa tree, planted here in the Garden of Cities enhancing the surroundings of this community's new civic and cultural center.

Appleton Mayor George Buckley sent his regrets that he could not attend the annual Congress of American Cities but on behalf of Appleton made the goodwill gesture of shipping the tree here.

The planting ceremony took place Sunday afternoon at the dedication of the multi-million dollar civic center in this city of 36,000, which picks up across the street from where the Las Vegas corporate limits end.

The story of the Gingko Bilboa, also known as the "Maidenhair Tree," had its beginning in October when Mayor William L. Taylor of North Las Vegas wrote Buckley and mayors of other cities across the country.

A landscape plan had been completed and a $130,000 sprinkler system installed for the Garden of Cities, Taylor said, and urged U. S. cities to join in the beautification project.

Buckley was invited to bring or send a small shrub or tree. In turn, North Las Vegas would dedicate forever, a plot of the city's earth, marked by a plaque to identify it.

"We will carefully nurture and tend to whatever you send or bring as a lasting exchange of good will between us," Taylor said.

Buckley contacted Appleton Forester Roger Rindt last week and the latter said he had "just the thing" — a 14-foot high, two-inch diameter Gingko Bilboa, grown in Appleton at the Alicia Park nursery from whipstock.

"The leaf of the tree is shaped like a Japanese fan," Rindt explained. "It is a highly desirable tree for that part of the country and has a long age span."

Rindt said some Gingko Bilboas grow as tall as 60 feet, although they are slow growers. The tree shipped here took about four years to grow and is a hearty tree, he added.

But getting it here turned out to be the big problem. Rindt and Buckley had intended to ship it by Railway Express and went to the bus terminal in Appleton to have the tree weighed in and sent on its way.

However, the official certification from a state entomologist was needed to show the tree was disease-free. Outa-mie County Agent Russ Luckow was contacted and said a state official from Madison would pass through Appleton the next day and could inspect the tree then.

The tree was given a clean bill of health and was shipped

Oshkosh Man Pays $400 Fine On 3 Charges

Waupaca Invokes 60-Day Sentence on Driving Violation

WAUPACA — John L. Knutson, 23, 834 Grand St., Oshkosh, was fined $400 and costs and sentenced to the county jail for 60 days, Friday.

He appeared before Municipal Justice George Whalen and pleaded guilty to driving after his driver's license had been revoked, unlawful use of another person's driver's license and disorderly conduct.

Knutson was arrested by county police about 6 p.m. Thursday after he had created a disturbance at a bar, west of Waupaca. He left the bar and he was stopped by police in Waupaca. He was asked for his driver's license but gave the patrolman a license belonging to an Illinois man. Knutson's true identity was learned after he was taken to the county jail.

Justice Whalen fined Knutson $200 and costs for driving after revocation and ordered that he also serve a 60-day mandatory jail sentence. If the fine is not paid within the 60-day period he must serve another 60 days. It was his second conviction for driving after revocation.

On the unlawful use of driver's license he was fined $100 and costs and on the disorderly charge another $100 and costs.

Waupaca County Drivers Injured In Two Crashes

WAUPACA — Two drivers were injured in separate auto crashes Saturday in Waupaca County.

Reuben J. Peterson, 37, 400 Mill St., suffered a cut on his ear and head bruises at 12:50 p.m., when his car tire blew out and caused the car to overturn four miles north of Waupaca on County Trunk E. Peterson was traveling south at the time. The 1949 model car was listed as demolished.

Sandra M. Krause, 21, 93 W. 14th St., Clintonville, was taken to the Clintonville Hospital at 2:10 p.m. suffering from neck and leg injuries after her car was struck from behind near the intersection of State 22 and Meadow Lane Drive, north of Clintonville.

County police said the Krause car had been traveling north on State 22 and slowed down for a car that was about to make a right turn into a driveway. It was struck from behind by a car driven by Clayton E. Fritz, 52, Embarras. Damage to the two cars was estimated at over $450.

'Pioneer' Hunter Waits Return of Venison Thief

Charles Pottenger, Appleton, downed a six-point buck with musket and ball from his gun collection Nov. 19 but he may have to wait until authorities return a man from Mexico before he has his first taste of venison.

Pottenger put two musket balls into the buck and was dragging the animal out of the woods in the Town of Bovina when he was summoned to assist with a deer killed by a hunting companion.

When Pottenger returned to where he had left his deer, it was gone. The young Appleton man told wardens he found two persons dragging the animal a short distance up the path.

Tag Removed They had removed Pottenger's metal leg tag and clipped on their own tag, then, after Kenyon Giese, route 1, Loganville, won the state title from a field of 40 candidates.

"We think there is a future in dairy farming and hope to be an integral part of the community in the future in promoting the rural-urban relationship advocated by the Jaycees," Giese said in accepting the award.

National Contest He thanked the Baraboo chapter for sponsoring him. Giese operates a 404-acre dairy farm near Baraboo. He owns a herd of 62 registered Jerseys.

He will represent the state in the national contest next year at Harrisonburg, Va.

Suttle borrowed a quote from late Supreme Court Justice Learned Hand who said, "Liberty lies in the hearts and souls of men and women. When it dies there no court or constitution can revive it."

Not a Cloak He challenged that thoughts were "not to serve as a cloak around the conscience to avoid getting involved."

"Are we really active in the affairs of government?" he asked. "We don't have the right to vote or ask others to lay down their lives on the battlefield" until we find out why we are opposed to such things as totalitarian Communism.

"In Latin America 100,000 children under the age of 6 die each week from lack of nutrition. In parts of Brazil three of six children can not expect to live beyond 12 months" due to parasitic diseases.

"I wonder if we really believe in our fellow man?" he queried. The job is left to the dedicated who want to change, he said. "We can't be concerned with apathy of others. Do what you can to make things true that you believe in," he challenged.

Suttle saluted the Wisconsin Jaycees for their "enthusiasm, determination and dedication" as exhibited during his several days visiting state chapters.

Paper Companies Report

Planting Assures State Of Perpetual Forests

NEENAH — With a perpetual forest in Wisconsin assured, industrial conservationists are leveling off their lengthy tree planting programs, according to figures issued recently by paper companies for the year ended July 1.

They revealed that since organized planting began in the 1920s and early 1930s, a total of 89,277,000 trees have been set out on the lands of paper and other forest products firms in Wisconsin.

The number of trees planted on paper industry acreage during the year was 1,899,000. Last year the figure was more than 2½ million. Plantings had been righting well over two million in other years.

Plantings By County Douglas County had the most plantings during the year, with 454,000 seedlings set out by

Beloit Organist Plays His Own Compositions

Organist - c o m p o s e r Max Yount, a member of the music faculty at Beloit College, will feature his own compositions on a public recital at 8 p.m. today in Lawrence University's Memorial Chapel. The program opens the Lawrence Conservatory Special Events series.

Yount, an assistant professor and college organist at Beloit, has programed two of his own works, "Jesu, dulcis memoria" (1965), written in three connected movements, and the third of "Three Pieces for Organ" (1963).

Program Varies Also on his program are selections by Paul Hindemith, Eric Satie, J. S. Bach, Samuel Scheidt, Francois Couperin and Olivier Messiaen.

Yount, 28, studied at Oberlin Conservatory, the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, and at the Eastman School of Music. He joined the Beloit faculty in 1963.

Max Yount

was selected for performance by the Eastman Polyphonic Choir.

Good Reviews Yount's playing was commended at Principia College, Illinois, for its "vivacity, sparkle, balance and precise technical control." His compositions have been characterized as "unified by dissonant motives while still pleasing" to the ear.

Gresham to Consider Pack for Cub Scouts

GRESHAM — A meeting is planned for 7:30 p.m. today at the Gresham School for all interested parents and future Cub Scouts.

The proposed Cub Pack will be sponsored by the Gresham Parent - Teacher Organization. Les Osterloth and Charles Wolf, both of Clintonville, and Bruce Mull, Shawano, will attend.

Reverses Trend "This spectacular development has reversed a trend which at one time threatened eventual depletion of our woodlands, and has assured us of a perpetual forest — not only for industrial use but for recreation, game habitat, watershed protection and all other purposes."

"Most plantable lands have been planted and are supporting growing trees. We are reaching a plateau — if we haven't already done so — whereby only replacement plantings will be required to maintain normal growth or regenerate stricken areas."

Trio Injured in U. S. 41 Crash

Pair Hospitalized At St. Elizabeth, One to Neenah

Three Fox Cities men were injured, none believed seriously, in a three-car accident on U.S. 41, near the Northland Avenue overpass, about 5:55 a.m. today.

Taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance were Jerome Vanden Heuvel, 39, 544 State St., Combined Locks, driver of one car, and his passenger, Ronald Hammen, 32, 117 Jean St., Kimberly. Both men received back injuries.

Taken to Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah, by a second Lindy's Ambulance was Palmer J. Kjendalen, 56, 506 N. Division St., Appleton, driver of another car, who received facial lacerations.

Outagamie County police said the third car was driven by Thomas R. Kellogg, 19, 505 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah.

The Kjendalen car reportedly had just passed a truck and cut back in, striking the Vanden Heuvel car in the rear.

The Kellogg car came by a short time later and ran over a gasoline tank lying in the road, resulting in damage to the transmission.

New London Jaycettes Plan Christmas Party For Retarded Children

NEW LONDON — A Christmas party for pre-school mentally retarded is being planned by the Jaycettes.

A date and place will be decided at a special work session Tuesday. Mental retardation, a national program of the Jaycettes, was discussed at their meeting Thursday.

Canisters for collecting trading stamp donations will be made Tuesday and distributed through the city. The stamps will be sent to Dr. James Turpin for medical assistance in Viet. Nam for his "Project Concern."

Delegates to the state convention in Appleton were Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Mrs. Robert Freiburger and Mrs. Terrance McPeak.

Surplus Food Distribution Decreases During November

Edward Brouillard Pays $100, Permit Revoked for Year

Edward T. Brouillard, 21, 11 Willow Court, driver of a car involved in a fatal accident Nov. 20, was fined $100 and costs and his driver's license was revoked for a year Friday afternoon after he pleaded guilty of a traffic charge brought by Appleton police.

The man, who appeared in court with his forehead bandaged, was charged, following the 8:30 p.m. accident which resulted in the death early the next day of Stanley J. Alberts, 21, 1003 N. Morrison St., while driving at imprudent speed.

Brouillard's 1967 auto left a curve on Wisconsin Avenue near Ballard Road, went over a curb onto a terrace and snapped off a large utility pole.

High Employment Rate Explains Cutback in Need for UCD Help

NEW LONDON — Surplus food distribution by United Counties Distributors (UCD), distribution agent for nine Fox Valley county welfare boards, went into a tailspin in November after a small increase in participation and poundage the previous month.

The decline in distribution is indicative of the high employment rate being experienced across the nation. Many seasonal jobs have not ended and the workers have not become eligible for participation in the program.

The 6,074 persons participating in the program and 93,524 pounds of commodities distributed were the lowest totals recorded in 1966. September totals of 6,385 persons and 94,300 pounds were the previous lows.

Total Participation In October, 6,428 persons received 94,896 pounds of food. Total participation for the year reached 90,179 and poundage 1,304,375.

County totals for November were Outagamie, 787 people and 10,449 pounds of commodities; Winnebago, 688 and 10,424; Waupaca, 534 and 8,138; Fond du Lac, 602 and 9,010; Portage, 665 and 9,934; Shawano, 672 and 10,898; Waushara, 280 and 4,577; Oconto, 589 and 10,294, and Marathon, 1,257 and 19,700.

Distribution Area distribution dates are: Dec. 7 — New London, Waupaca County residents, 9 a.m. to noon; Northport, 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m.; Waupaca, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; Weyauwega, 1 to 2 p.m.; Fremont, 2:30 to 3 p.m.; and Readfield, 3:15 to 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 8 — Manawa, 8:30 to 10 a.m.; Ogdensburg, 10:30 to 11 a.m.; Scandinavia, 11:30 a.m. to noon, and Iola, 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

Dec. 9 — Marion, 9 to 9:30 a.m. and Clintonville, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Oshkosh Deliveries Dec. 12 — Oshkosh, northside delivery, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 13 — Oshkosh, southside delivery, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.; Omro, noon to 2 p.m., and Winneconne, 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 14 — Neenah, 8:30 a.m. to noon and Menasha, 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Dec. 19 — New London, Outagamie County residents, 9 to 11 a.m.; Appleton, Pierce Park, 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Hortonville, 3:30 to 4 p.m.

Dec. 20 — Appleton, airport delivery, 8:30 to 11 a.m.; Kaukauna, 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Freedom, 2:30 to 3 p.m.

Dec. 21 — Oneida, 8 to 10:30 a.m.; Seymour, 11 a.m. to noon; Black Creek, 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.; Shiocton, 2 to 2:30 p.m., and Bear Creek, 3 to 3:30 p.m.

Regional Water Boards Expect February Start

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Directors and staffs of the new regional waters boards that will operate in five districts of the state should be at work not later than Feb. 1, and probably before that time, Director Freeman Holmer, of the reconstituted state department of resource development says.

Regional officers will work under the direction of regional advisory boards, the members of which were named earlier this week by Gov. Warren P. Knowles. The regional district headquarters offices will be in Green Bay, Milwaukee, Eau Claire, Madison and Wisconsin Rapids. There will be a sub-district office at Rhinelander because of the distinctive nature of water quality protection problems in that lake district.

Affect Recruiting Holmer, explaining his budget request for the next two years, said the "tight" labor market may affect recruiting for the new positions, but he said he has been encouraged by signs of interest among prospective university graduates in water conservation work.

The regional water quality offices, functioning under the new state water pollution control laws, will have starting staffs of about five persons each, including engineers, biologists and sanitarians.

Meetings Planned Holmer said the regional boards will be asked to meet and to organize relatively soon, and that there will likely be a conference meeting of their members in Madison to acquaint them with their duties and responsibilities, and the scope of regulatory work contemplated in the rewritten water protection law.

The law provides that the regional boards must start functioning before next February. Their purpose is to provide a means for public participation in the state waters management program and to provide a forum for a continuous study and evaluation of water problems.

There will also be a state advisory board, chosen from among the regional board citizen members, to assist the state waters administration headed by Holmer.

Marion Boy Found Dead

Body Discovered in Front Seat of Car In Garage Sunday

MARION — Collen Salzman, 14, son of Mrs. Lucille Suehring, was found dead at approximately 10 p.m. Sunday in the front seat of the family car parked in the garage.

An autopsy was ordered by Dr. William Mc Ginnis, Marion, deputy county coroner.

His mother told police he had left the house at 2 p.m. to shovel snow. When he failed to return by 9 p.m. she called Police Chief Jack Betow.

Upon investigation they found the boy in the garage.

The body was released to the Huttermark Funeral Home. The autopsy will be performed by a Wausau pathologist.

Benefits at Age 60

Social Security Change Affects Many Widows

Widows in the Appleton Social Security district office area may not have heard of a change in the social security law made last year which enables them to get benefits as soon as they reach 60, Frank M. Donnick, social security district manager, said Friday.

Until the change, Donnick pointed out, benefits were not payable to a widow under 62 unless she had young child 60 or later, or a surviving dren to raise. The amount of the widow's payment is based on what her husband would have received as a retirement benefit at age 65.

If she decides to wait until divorced wife, regardless of her age, she is 62, her benefit will be 82.5 per cent of her husband's benefits, if at the time of the monthly benefit. If she decides worker's death, she is caring to start her benefit at 61, she for her child, under 18 or will receive about 77 per cent. disabled. The child is also entitled to monthly benefits.

If she chooses to start getting her benefit at 60, her payments will be 71.5 per cent of her husband's monthly benefit. For example, if the husband could have a $100 monthly benefit if he lived, the payment to her widow would be $82.50 at her 62nd birthday, $77 at her 61st birthday, or $71.50 at age 60.

Widows who take their benefits early will collect about the same total over the years, but over a longer period.

Prior to the 1965 amendments, Donnick noted, a widow receiving benefits who remarried, had her widow's benefit terminated. The new law, however, provides that if a widow past age 60 remarries, her benefits may continue at an adjusted rate.

New Law Another change in the law allows a wife who is divorced at 62 unless she had young child 60 or later, or a surviving dren to raise. The amount of the widow's payment is based on what her husband would have received as a retirement benefit at age 65.

If she decides to wait until divorced wife, regardless of her age, she is 62, her benefit will be 82.5 per cent of her husband's benefits, if at the time of the monthly benefit. If she decides worker's death, she is caring to start her benefit at 61, she for her child, under 18 or will receive about 77 per cent. disabled. The child is also entitled to monthly benefits.

If she chooses to start getting her benefit at 60, her payments will be 71.5 per cent of her husband's monthly benefit. For example, if the husband could have a $100 monthly benefit if he lived, the payment to her widow would be $82.50 at her 62nd birthday, $77 at her 61st birthday, or $71.50 at age 60.

Widows who take their benefits early will collect about the same total over the years, but over a longer period.

New London Center Makes Area Team

Area Coaches Select Bruce Krueger for WFRV-TV Honors

NEW LONDON — Bruce Krueger, a 6 foot-4, 235 pound, mainstay on the New London High School football team has been chosen a member of the WFRV-TV all area team.

The big center and defensive guard was one of 11 area football players named to the team. Area coaches nominated players from their team and then were issued ballots, with the stipulation he could vote for only the players he had seen play.

Krueger, his parents, coach, Lawrence Graves and Joseph P. Vander Zanden, high school principal, will be feted at a banquet this evening at the Green Bay Elks Club. Krueger and the remaining members of the team will be introduced on the 6:15 p.m. today sports show on Channel 5.

Krueger, a senior, was an all Mid-Eastern Conference center in 1965. In 1966, his outstanding work was done on defense where he was the hub of a team which posted a 4-4 record.

Police Raid Beer Party At Freedom

Hold 18 Youths, Charges Expected Today in Court

Eighteen persons, including 13 juveniles, were taken into custody following a raid by Outagamie County police on a beer party at a private home just outside Freedom on State 55, about 11:45 p.m. Sunday.

Charges are expected to be filed against some of the persons today. Five of the 18 present at the party were girls, police said.

Five adults and three juveniles were held at the county jail overnight. The remainder of the persons were released to the custody of their parents after they were questioned at the jail.

Police said a "lookout" tipped off persons inside the house when the squad cars arrived at the home. Two girls reportedly climbed out windows while several persons were found under beds and in closets. Police encountered no resistance.

Beer in Basement

Most of the persons at the house, owned by a 26-year-old man, reportedly were from the rural Kaukauna, Seymour, Freedom and Appleton areas. Two youths were from Suring and one was from Pound, Wis.

Taking part in the raid were six county traffic policemen, one sheriff's investigator, a county deputy and a state probation and parole agent.

Authorities said the youths and adults were drinking from a quarter barrel of beer found in the basement. Also confiscated were a case of 36 empty beer bottles, a six pack of beer and two empty wine bottles.

Authorities are attempting to determine if the youth from Pound and Suring are runaways.

William Steiger Schedules Talk To Young GOP

Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh's Young Republicans and Vet's Club will hear Congressman-elect William A. Steiger speak at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Clow Hall.

Steiger, who won the Sixth District Congressional seat from incumbent John Race, will comment on campaign practices and the election as a whole.

Steiger's speech was announced at the last Young Republican meeting by president Bill Wolke.

A formal resolution was passed at the meeting congratulating Mike Utech of Oshkosh Technical Institute for starting a Young Republican chapter there.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Fr. Brown Takes Post at All Saints As Assistant

The Rev. James M. Brown, now vicar of St. Mark Episcopal Church, Oconto, will begin his duties as assistant pastor of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Dec. 16.

He will work with the Rev. Carl E. Wilke, rector.

Father Brown is a native of Chicago and a 1958 graduate of Ripon College. He received his bachelor of divinity degree in 1963 from Nashotah House and was ordained deacon in January and priest in July, 1963.

He served as assistant at Holy Family Church, Park Forest, Ill., before going to St. Mark, Oconto.

Father Brown is married to the former Carolyn Posey of Fond du Lac, and they have a daughter.

Date Changed For 'Messiah' Performance

NEW LONDON — Date for presenting "The Messiah" has been changed to 3 p.m. Jan. 8 at the Washington School auditorium, M. G. Kaehr, director, announced.

Kaehr said the event, originally scheduled prior to Christmas, had to be changed because of conflicting programs. A community chorus will be featured in the program for the first time in the city's history, he said.

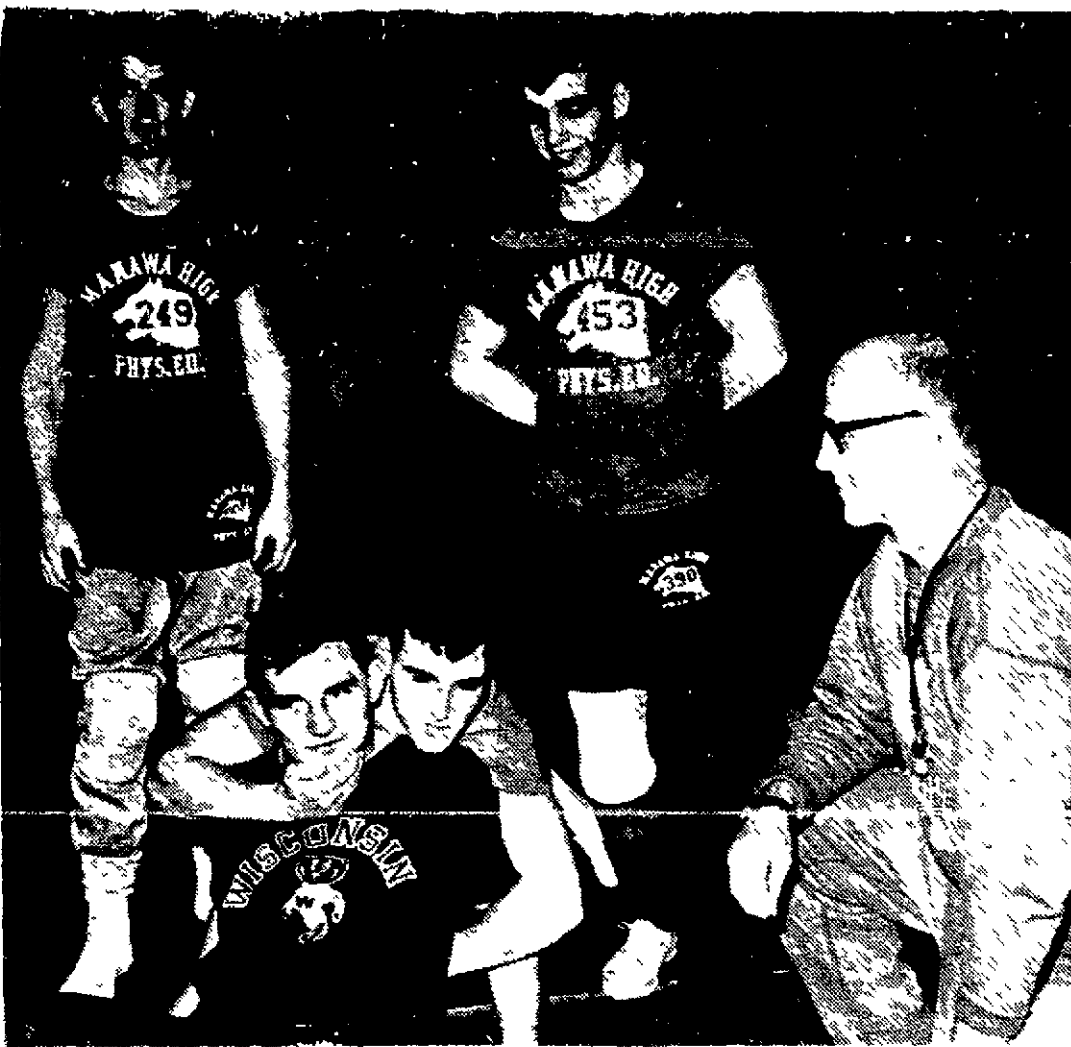

More than 100 persons reported for rehearsals Thursday. Anyone wishing to sing in the chorus can attend rehearsal at 7 p.m. Thursday in the vocal music room of the senior high school, Kaehr said.

5 From New London To Take Part In 'Messiah' Performance in Ohio

NEW LONDON — Five senior high school students will take part in the annual presentation of "The Messiah" Dec. 11 at Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio. M. G. Kaehr, an alumnus of the school, will accompany the students who will spend the weekend at his home in Decatur, Ind.

The students will be part of a 500 voice choir which will present the complete "Messiah" Kaehr said. While there, students will audition for possible scholarships in the school's music program.

Students leaving Friday afternoon will be Sally Polzin, Bonnie Drews, Christine Toltzman, Shirley Dey and Richard Norby.

Doctor Testifies at Hearing In Alleged Town Rape Case

OSHKOSH — A doctor last week testified in the preliminary hearing of two 19-year old Oshkosh youths charged with the alleged rape of a 19-year old Oshkosh girl.

Dr. James V. Meli, Oshkosh, testified that the 19-year old Oshkosh girl "definitely had sexual intercourse" sometime prior to his examination of her on Nov. 10, the day after the alleged offense.

Richard H. Guenther, special investigator for the Winnebago County district attorney, told the court that the 19-year old girl had located the scene of the offense on Pages Point Road in the Town of Menasha. The narrow gravel semi-circular town road is an extension north from Tayco Street Drive.

Guenther testified that the closest homes to the scene of the alleged offense were about 380 feet away.

The two suspects, Vernon L. Kellinhofer, 212A Oxford St., and Milton J. Viergutz, 1707 Jefferson St., were arrested Nov. 11 by Winnebago County sheriff's officers. Kellinhofer is charged with rape and Viergutz, with allegedly aiding, abetting and assisting in the rape offense.

Both have been in jail since failure to post bond.

The 19-year old girl told Oshkosh police that Kellinhofer and Viergutz offered to drive her home early on the morning of Nov. 10, then drove her to Pages Point.

Participate in National Program

Cadets in Fox Cities CAP Train as Pilots

Fox Cities Civil Air Patrol Cadets are participating in a special national program designed to produce more trained pilots for military and commercial service.

Glen Dell, an Appleton cadet, scored a first last summer when he won his wings as a private pilot at a special training session for the prospective pilots at Chester, S.C. Of the 60 students enrolled in the powered aircraft course, Dell was the first to pass his pilot's test while accompanied with an examiner from the Federal Aviation Agency.

The training session was one of three in the two-year-old program which teaches students to pilot both powered aircraft and sailplanes. All of the students in the powered airplane course won their pilot wings, and 82 of the 88 students in the sailplane course were successful in passing their examination.

The summer program is a part of flight training offered by the Fox Cities Squadron. A solo flight course also is available to cadets in the local squadron, and during the past summer Robert Massey and William Lundt, both of Appleton, won their solo wings in that program. Massey has continued his training and has since won the rating of private pilot.

Physical Fitness Talk for Wittenberg Students

WITTENBERG — "A New Approach to Physical Fitness" is the theme of a discussion by Dan Schneider, physical fitness trainer, when he appears before local high school students at 9 p.m. Friday.

Along with a color film, of highlights of canoe and kayak racing, the fundamentals of canoeing, types of equipment and for camping and cruising are to be explained. Historic Wisconsin water trails and a retracing of the routes of early explorers and furtraders also will be shown.

On stage demonstrations will be given

Sorry 'Bout That! Thorough Crew Takes Freezer Compartment

A refrigerator freezer compartment, apparently containing frozen food, was inadvertently taken to the Appleton dump Thursday morning by a thorough sanitation crew.

Reports said an Appleton housewife was defrosting her refrigerator and placed the compartment outside to prevent the frozen food from thawing. When she finished the chore, she discovered the compartment missing.

A check with city officials revealed that the crew had mistakenly placed the container in the garbage truck, thinking it was refuse.

Officials said there was slight possibility the container could be recovered.

Man Is Jailed, Fined; Drove Without License

Duane D. Mundt, 27, 1171 Presher Place, Friday was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $120 plus costs or another 58 days in jail, after he pleaded guilty in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 of driving after his license was revoked, and operating an unregistered vehicle.

Appleton police arrested Mundt Nov. 14 on E Wisconsin Avenue

Youths Reported Satisfactory After Hortonville Crash

Four persons were injured, none seriously, in weekend accidents on Outagamie County roads.

Two 18-year-old youths were taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by a Hortonville ambulance after their car left U.S. 45 near Hortonville about 2 a.m. today.

Reported in satisfactory condition this morning were Russell V. Schiebe, route 2, Black Creek, and Rollie Bessett, route 1, Hortonville. The nature of their injuries was not immediately determined.

Outagamie County police said the car, driven by Schiebe left the highway and went into a ditch, apparently while the youth was attempting to pass a car. Details of the accident were not included in the incomplete report filed by county police.

Struck Deer

Mrs. Roger R. Grode, 24, route 2, Black Creek, received cuts about the head and arms about 2:10 a.m. Saturday when a car driven by her husband, 25, struck a deer and ran into a ditch on Outagamie County Trunk PP near County Trunk S.

The woman was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance. Damage to the car was estimated at $250. The deer was killed.

David J. McMillin, 26, Fernandina Beach, Fla., received a bloody nose when his car ran into the ditch after skidding on slippery pavement on County Trunk Z, near ZZ, about 8 p.m. Friday.

The left front of his car was damaged. McMillin told county police he was rounding a curve when the car began sliding.

Water Utility Line To Lake Okayed for Green Bay by PSC

MADISON (AP)—The city of Green Bay was granted authority Thursday to construct a second lake intake line for its water utility at a cost of $401,773. The Public Service Commission noted it had given the city authority in January for water utility improvements, including a booster pump station and new main, estimated to cost $2 million, but said the actual expense fell well below the sum borrowed through bonds.

Including the intake line, which had not been planned for construction originally until 1970, in the current project will place the revised over-all cost at $3.1 million, the PSC said.

'Sky Hooks' Urged To End Bottlenecks

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (AP) — A sky hook to lift stalled autos from traffic bottlenecks has been proposed in a state legislative committee.

Sol Wachtler, supervisor of the town of North Hempstead on Long Island, told the Joint Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs helicopters could be driven by Robert L. Pahl, 18, New York City and adjacent areas.

According to his proposal, helicopter lifting lines could be attached to a disabled car and hoist it out of the way to let traffic flow past the spot crashing into the Beckman car.

Church Group at New London Plans Parleys Wednesday

NEW LONDON — "The Gifts of the Wise Men" will be read by Mrs. Edwin Weirhardt at the 2 p.m. Wednesday meeting of the Afternoon Circle of the First Congregational Church.

Hostesses for the afternoon are Mrs. Charles Dorsey and Mrs. Gilbert Fonstad.

The evening circle will meet at the Edgar Combs home, Northport Road, at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Mrs. Evan Smith, assistant hostess, will present the program titled "The Christian's Mission at Christmas in an Age of Dilemmas."

$100 in Damages In 2-Car Crash At New London

NEW LONDON — More than $100 in damage resulted in a break two-car accident at 10 p.m. Thursday on E. Beacon Avenue.

City police said a car driven by Martin P. Beckman, 56, 1007 Menasha St., was traveling east on Beacon Avenue when it was struck in the front by a car driven by Robert L. Pahl, 18, New York City and adjacent areas.

Police said the Pahl car was traveling west in a line of traffic and applied his brakes when he saw traffic stop. The attached to a disabled car and Pahl car skidded about 150 feet and made a complete turn crashing into the Beckman car.

The New German Government

Kurt-George Kiesinger, the new chancellor of West Germany, was a compromise candidate who managed to do exactly what his candidacy was intended — form a coalition between the Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats.

The two parties were once poles apart. But there have been several factors which have brought them together. The most important is probably the growing feeling in West Germany that any reunification will come through working with East Germans and perhaps even suggesting more concessions to the east in the search for agreement. Another has been at least some consideration that President de Gaulle may be right in trying to cut back on American influence in Europe. And a third may be the ominous signs of unhealthy nationalism in the gains made by the right wing National Democratic Party in two provincial elections.

There has been in the last few months increased relaxation between East and West in Europe. The United States has also been involved both in economic moves toward better relations and in diplomatic ones. Just last week we increased the prestige of our consulates in two Eastern European nations by making our envoys full-fledged ambassadors. There has not been a notable end to the Communist charges against capitalism but several of the satellites have preferred economic agreements with the West than any such ties to the Soviet Union. In some respects at least the professed ideology appears to be lagging behind the economic reforms.

Whether or not any more concessions from West Germany will break down the wall or open East Germany to the obvious contrast between conditions in East and West is questionable at this time. But the new German leaders apparently want to make up their minds without as much American guidance as they have had in the past. In part this reflects the concern over the possible withdrawal of American troops. While our government has several times insisted that there is no such prospect in view, the conflict over arms purchases has brought the matter up again. It is quite possible that the concern will drift away as West Germans see less danger of attack from the East. Certainly psychologically they do not care to have to rely upon the United States. De Gaulle's attitude has increased this dissatisfaction.

While Kiesinger is the chancellor, the expected strong men for the future are Willy Brandt, who resigned as mayor of Berlin to become vice chancellor, and Franz-Josef Strauss, former minister of defense who is the finance minister in the cabinet. Brandt, also the new foreign minister, heads the Social Democrats. Strauss is known to have respect for De Gaulle's point of view.

The United States is going to have to relinquish some of its overt influence in Europe, including in West Germany. It is doubtful that there is any real danger of a resurgence of Nazism particularly because West Germany is economically in extremely healthy circumstances. But Germany needs strong Democratic leaders in any case and they cannot be superimposed from outside. Whether we like it or not, Germany as well as France is going to be increasingly independent of the United States.

Bobby Baker Bugged

Bobby Baker is obviously not a man without resources. Unfortunately in his current charges against the government, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has given him ammunition.

Baker's lawyers have charged that evidence against Baker and his wonderful Washington deals was gained through the use of bugging devices. Such evidence is not admissible. But the Justice Department, while conceding that illegal devices were used, argues that the evidence to be used against Baker isn't on the tapes. The listening presumably only led to such evidence.

With the amazing development of bugging devices, there has been a growing concern over their use as an unwarranted invasion of privacy of American citizens. Way back in 1928, the United States Supreme Court ruled that wiretapping as such did not violate an individual's civil rights. Later decisions ruled that a device pressed against a room's outer wall was not unconstitutional but that a device that was pressed into the wall like a thumbtack was illegal as it was technically an act of trespass. Clearly this technicality is relatively easy to overcome with today's more advanced bugging and camera devices.

The argument for such devices is that police officials need them in their continual battle against organized crime. Even if the actual information picked up cannot be used directly as evidence, it can lead police officials to knowledge of proposed crimes or of tie-ins with rackets which can then be investigated in more orthodox ways.

The use of bugs has only put the government on the defensive in the case of Bobby Baker. It also may place the courts in the future in an extremely difficult position. On the one hand, they may have to decide that convictions can be upheld even when illegal devices are used and an accused's constitutional rights are violated. Or they may have to insist that all such cases be thrown out of court if the presence of any police bug is proved. Planting such a device would not be a difficult problem for a criminal to gain virtual immunity from prosecution.

Chief Justice Earl Warren indicated his position on the matter when he warned that "in the end, life and liberty can be as much endangered from illegal methods used to convict those thought to be criminals as from the actual criminals themselves." The suspected are not the convicted and the suspected must be presumed innocent until proven guilty.

After all if the use by officials of devices which violate constitutional rights are condoned, why not the thumb screw or the rack?

De Gaulle' Dream for France

Americans have in the last few years become increasingly annoyed at President Charles de Gaulle of France. He has scuttled plans for European unity in favor of power and prestige for France, has insisted that France develop its own nuclear bomb, has gone off both to West Germany and the Soviet Union and dickered for agreements, and he has criticized all sorts of American influences in Europe from soft drinks to slang.

But we must suspect that what annoys our Department of State the most has been De Gaulle's refusal to follow American directions and ideas in all French doings.

The American antagonism for De Gaulle is somewhat difficult to understand since certainly we knew of his personal and national arrogance long before he became President. Probably it is merely hard to concede that he has something to be arrogant about if anyone does. For without De Gaulle's leadership and domineering ways, the French constitution would never have been realistically rewritten. France would not have faced this century as far as its African colonies were concerned and might still be bogged down economically, and possibly even the American softening attitude toward Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union might not have developed.

Back in 1947 before De Gaulle won in the elections, he was interviewed for the New York Times. Nothing he has done since is dramatically different from the plans he outlined at that time. The aim of his party "is the reconstruction of France to attain its full productive capacity and power. . . . As far as foreign affairs go, I am convinced that it is necessary to re-create a Europe. If this is not done, the world will be divided into a rivalry between Russia and the United States. That would lead to war — a horrible war. To recreate Europe, the first condition is that France should be on her feet. France is a Western power and Europe is the symbol of Western civilization. Europe, to be restored, must be built upon occidental civilization. Such a Europe would be an element of strength and equilibrium. To rebuild such a Europe would be impossible without outside help, which, practically speaking, must come from the United States."

Whether or not De Gaulle's virtual withdrawal of France from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and his limitation of both the powers and the extent of the European Economic Community have been the best ways to rebuild Europe will probably be debated for decades. It is understandably difficult for Americans to be enthused about the willingness, now that it is once more healthy, of France to go it alone since we have bailed them out of their foolishness in two bloody wars.

But the independence of France — and the growing independence of West Germany — is now a fact, however much we helped them get back on their feet. It has been a failure of the United States — particularly those responsible for the conduct of our foreign affairs — not to realize that puppet regimes in Europe are neither wise nor possible.

Of course it could be that European nationalism could once more lead to war but certainly at this time there is no evidence that such a catastrophe is in sight. Most of Western Europe is too prosperous to be concerned about geopolitics, forms of government or even any need to promote the particular ambitions of one leader by military means. The increasing ties to the Communist states of Eastern Europe have been encouraging in that such governments are bound to evolve if economic health is the aim and there is no desperate prodding from Moscow.

In these days of ICBMs, Europe cannot really be an effective buffer between the United States and the Soviet Union. But its strength — and its independence — may after all serve to prevent a confrontation that could be disastrous.

Only Thing Wrong With Selective Service Is That It Is Selective

Editor, Post-Crescent:

There appears to be a growing protest against the Selective Service System. Protests can be a healthy thing against those inequities which might exist in some particular area. There certainly are many areas where protests are needed and could be useful in an intelligent manner for the good of our country.

The protest against the Selective Service System is not aimed in this direction, however; rather it is a public display of self-centered, selfish individuals who want to reap all the benefits of our great country without having to give of themselves to its needs.

Just watch the newscasts and read the papers. These people are not against someone else fighting for a free world. They are only concerned for themselves. They are not really against the war in Viet Nam — only the fear that their gay life and the start of their way up the financial ladder may be interrupted.

Take note of a leaflet circulated by employees of Viet Nam Day Committee at the University of California in Berkeley which suggested how to avoid military service by being: a conscientious objector, play the homosexual bit, be an epileptic, arrive high (on drugs), be an undesirable, troublemaker, etc. A local college student told me this leaflet with the foregoing and more is being distributed here in Wisconsin too.

These people don't wish to serve their country by an alternate method such as National Guard, Reserves, or Peace Corps. They want to avoid serving their country completely.

What are our students being taught today as they receive college loans and attend schools supported by taxes in one way or another? There certainly must not be anything covering history or loyalty to the commitments made by their elected representatives.

As a volunteer during the Korean conflict I have been called stupid and laughed at by those who used the Selective Service System regulations to their advantage to avoid having to serve their country. Instead they concentrated on getting themselves set up in life and for their own selfish desires.

Even my nine-year-old son is already talking about how he will try to play "dodge the draft" when his turn comes I pray that in growing up he will face his responsibilities like a man instead of a cry baby.

The Selective Service System does need bringing up to date. It is wrong. The real problem is that portion stating "selective." It should not be selective. Every young man can and should serve his country for a short period, not only a selected few.

How about it, veterans, is this a one sided protest? Or is freedom still worth fighting for?

If You Want to Watch Fire, Keep Roads Clear

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I know we all like to watch a big fire, but fires are a very serious thing especially to the people who are having the fire. On Thanksgiving evening we had such a big fire in the Town of Grand Chute. With all the traffic on the road to the fire, the big water truck had a difficult time getting through with the water. Now we all know that every minute counts getting to a fire so, good people who want to see the fire, ask the neighbors if you can park in their driveways and help keep the roads open.

If your home or barn was burning, I'm sure you would like the people to keep the roads clear for the fire trucks and helpers to get through. Thank you for taking time to read this article.

Maximilian Abdicates in Mexico

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 1, 1866.

The New York World's Nov. 26 special from New Orleans states: "Maximilian has taken the decisive step of abdication, the rupture between himself and the French Government being complete."

"He has left Mexico in the hands of Bazaine and Castelnau, the latter of whom is understood to have full authority from Napoleon to supersede Marshal himself, if necessary."

"The late Emperor (Maximilian) left Vera Cruz on Thursday last, and may be expected at Havana, on his way to Europe, on Monday or Tuesday next."

"The consternation of the Mexicans at finding the question of their future remitted absolutely to negotiations between France and the United States is general and confined to no party."

"On the best authority, all preparations for embarking the French troops have been summarily suspended."

Monday, Dec. 1, 1941.

Mrs. Elmer Zahrt, route 3, Seymour, was elected president of the new homemakers club in that area. Other officers included Mrs. Albert Krahn, route 3, vice president; Mrs. Frank Maas, route 3, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Arnold Ashman, Miss Eunice Sell and Mrs. Frank Bell, also of route 3, Seymour, project leaders.

Kay Rogers, Appleton, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity. Mr. Rogers, a senior at Harvard University, also had earned varsity letters in track and cross country.

Lyle M. Becker, Brillion, was named one of the five outstanding young men in Wisconsin by the Wisconsin Junior Chamber of Commerce at its banquet meeting in Stevens Point. The men were picked on the basis of initiative and progress in their professions, devotion to civic betterment and their interest in the welfare of others. Becker was cited for success in his vending business, based on his invention of a plastic vending machine. He also was honored for his work in the reorganization of the Brillion Chamber of Commerce, his work as a director of Calumet Memorial Hospital and his activities as a member of the city council.

Officers of the newly organized Waupaca County 4-H Junior Leaders Council included Cynthia Peterson, Scandinavia, president; Clarendon Zurbel, Town of Royalton, vice president; Carol Jawort, Manawa, secretary; Patricia Flanagan, Manawa, treasurer; Beverly Zurbel, Town of Royalton, reporter.

Col. Raymond Dohr, Appleton, executive officer since 1947 of the National Guard's 426th Infantry Regiment of the 32nd division, officially announced his retirement at a farewell dinner in his honor the previous Saturday at American Legion Hall.

State Has Wrought Major Revolution in Education in Decade

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A rising figure in the educational administration of Wisconsin is the young assistant director of the state university system. He is Robert DeZonia, lieutenant to E. R. McPhee of the system. He has written an essay in the Wisconsin Journal of Education on the Wisconsin performance in support of the public schools that provides an expert internal view of what may very well be the most lasting political achievement of the state in this period.

Wyngaard

DeZonia writes of the "war on ignorance," which is a rhetorical device for describing what he says are the "unbelievable" recent advances in this state in fulfilling the ideal of free and high quality educational opportunity from the kindergarten through college for every qualified young citizen of Wisconsin.

The story has been told in the rough often before in the unceasing flow of news about rising budgets and the educational pressures that cause them, in the breathtaking expansion of building budgets for new campuses and the endless enlargement of the old ones, in enrollments that have reached peaks that would have been dismissed as incredible only a short generation ago, and in many other ways.

STRONG WORDS USED

Often the professional educator tends to play down what has gone before, in his anxiety to improve his budget and win approval for expansion of his program in the next political term. A few months hence, for example, the Madison news bureaus will be choking with publicity releases about critical new budget needs from the public school system at all levels, and worried statements about the need for persuading the legislature anew for more funds.

But DeZonia is willing, even anxious, to point to the record realistically. He talks about "spectacular advances," and "amazing vitality in meeting educational needs" and about "earnest educational and enlightened political leadership."

A "dynamic partnership" between educator and citizen has wrought achievements and advances equivalent to some of the historic progressions in science and technology of the age and altogether represents a "distinctly unique story," he declares without hesitation or qualification.

Dr. DeZonia once tolled in the humble vineyard of journalism. Without doubt he has his eye on the good will of the governor and the legislature, not to mention the other leaders of the Wisconsin political community, in new budget contests yet to be faced and won.

Yet his commentary is a useful one, if only to set out clearly what is vaguely felt by the typical member of the observant citizen community, but not always clearly understood. More general tax dollars, by far, are being spent on the schools of Wisconsin than for any other public purpose. The ratio in favor of education is more likely to rise than to flatten or decline.

THE PROOF

DeZonia notes that the state university system, having doubled its enrollment in four years, expanded more rapidly during that brief period than during 96 earlier years. The University of Wisconsin campus is almost unrecognizable to students of the 1940s, so rapidly has it been transformed, so hugely has it grown. New campuses dot the map elsewhere and will increase in numbers. The local schools are at a higher level of quality, are more generously budgeted and more richly programmed, than ever before. At long last, moreover, there is being launched a full-scale effort to meet the manpower training needs of swiftly changing economic society in a series of major vocational training centers that will represent a bellwether for the country.

As DeZonia puts it, "vocational-technical education is assuming, and rightly so, the role of full partner in the educational enterprise." When the whole story of the educational revolution of the 1960's is written, that may well be the most significant chapter of all.

Here's Harris Analysis Of Recent Elections

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Herewith my analysis of the recent election returns, and my diagnosis of the reasons people voted as they did:

Harris

Because they want the war stepped up in Viet Nam.

Because they want the war de-escalated in Viet Nam.

Because the Republican Party got rid of the albatross of Goldwater conservatism.

Because many whites deserted the Democratic Party on the civil rights issue.

Because many Negroes deserted the Democratic Party on the civil rights issue.

Because the voters wanted experienced men in office, regardless of age.

Because the ethnic groups in the cities demonstrated a real "backlash."

Because the ethnic groups in the cities exploded the myth of "backlash" and voted against inflation and Federal spending.

Madison Attorney Is Mentioned as Possible County Board Advisor

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Among the leading candidates for appointment as the new executive manager of the Wisconsin County Boards Association is Robert Mortenson, a Madison attorney best known in public affairs for his long-time service as legal counsel for the Wisconsin Towns Association.

The association has screened the list of available men to succeed the veteran and widely known A. J. Thelen, but Mortenson is regarded as the most likely choice of the directors for the management of the group, served ably by Thelen since he founded it more than 30 years ago.

Several other contenders are best known for their active political service. Mortenson has not been active in party politics.

A three-year fight about the selection of a chief warden for the state Conservation Department will be climaxed this week when Director Lester P. Voigt makes his nomination to the Conservation Commission. He will choose from a list of three men certified by the State Department of Personnel.

The report from the State Department of Health that Wisconsin hospitals are increasingly crowded recalls the impressive record of this state in providing new hospital capacity during the last decade and a half. Officials note Wisconsin's record of participation in the Hill-Burton federal hospital construction aid program has been one of the most aggressive in the country.

There are 172 general hospitals in the state, with a bed capacity of about 22,000. There are more nursing homes with a total capacity of about 23,000.

Informed northern Wisconsin political observers are mentioning Bernard Gehrmann of Ashland as a prospective Republican candidate for congressman in the big northern Wisconsin district, upon the retirement of Rep. Alvin O'Konski, who has been ill.

Gehrmann was re-elected to the state assembly in the normally difficult Ashland, Bayfield and Iron County district, and is said by friends to be interested in following the career of his late father and namesake, who served many years in the legislature and then was elected repeatedly to the U.S. House of Representatives.

The decision of the newly elected Republican majority in the state assembly to reject the candidacy of Norris Kellman for sergeant-at-arms for the 1967 session surprised many legislative sideliners, including lobbyists, who had become accustomed to Kellman as a fixture of the legislature's housekeeping arrangements when under Republican control.

But the choice of Louis Romell, who lost his Adams County Assembly seat in the fall election, follows an age-old pattern for recruitment of house sergeants. Almost always the Assembly picks a former member. Kellman had served in the house in the 1940's for a brief period.

Perhaps no recent governor has been more careful to keep local party leaders and legislators informed about pending appointments to state office affecting their areas than Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The governor typically asks for advice of local leaders, and although he doesn't always follow their counsel, he is careful to keep them informed. Usually they get the word before the official announcements reach the newspaper. It is one of the rules insisted upon by GOP Chairman Ody Fish, one of the most efficient and methodical political managers the Republican party organization has had in modern times.

To what degree did the offended insurance community of Wisconsin affect the margin of defeat of retiring Lt. Gov. Lucey in his unsuccessful campaign for the governorship last month?

Guesses range widely, but there is a significant agreement among observers that the numerically strong insurance business was deeply antagonized by the candidate's repeated charge that auto insurance rates represented "highway robbery." Evidence is now turning up that insurance men were telling friends, customers and others that the present state insurance department administration was at work on some of the problems in auto insurance, including policy cancellations.

Some local insurance groups were strongly tempted, according to reliable accounts, to respond with anti-Lucey statements, but were dissuaded.

Insurance is one of the biggest industries of the state.

There are perhaps 25,000 persons, at a minimum, directly involved, and they constitute a voting bloc of respectable size.

Whatever he may show during the next legislative session about parliamentary skills and other qualities related to his assignment, new Republican Majority Floor-leader Curtis McKay, Wisconsin Assembly, already has convinced most of his acquaintances that he is the most skillful and resourceful raconteur who has ever held that place.

McKay's story-telling ability is considerable, and his stock of materials virtually inexhaustible.

Gov. Knowles, who set new records for energetic speech-making and other ceremonial duties during his first term, will lean on Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, also a Republican, for many such chores during his second. Knowles has let it be known that he intends to remain closer to his desk this winter, and to keep in closer touch with legislators on behalf of his new legislative program.

Some legislative insiders are predicting Assemblyman Byron Wackett, Watertown, is the most likely choice of Speaker-Elect Harold Froehlich for the key committee chairmanship appointment in the lower house — on the legislative joint finance committee. Wackett, like Froehlich, would like to keep a stricter rein on state spending trends.

A footnote in a current bulletin of the State Department of Public Instruction tells a dramatic story of at least one successful governmental reorganization effort in Wisconsin. There are only 20 operating one-room rural schools according to a Nov. 1 count.

In 1949 there were more than 4,000, and a decade earlier, twice that number.

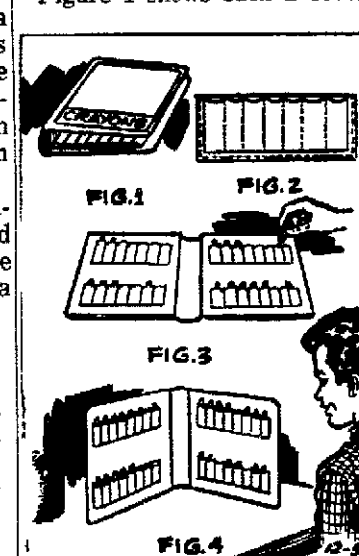

Philip Sellinger, one time executive secretary to Vernon W. Thomson in the governor's office, is the author of the bulletins of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce on public affairs, which are increasingly quoted in the state capital news services.

Handmade Crayon Holder! Use an Old Book Cover with the printed pages removed, the original title obliterated and a new title — simply the word "Crayons" — lettered on a strip of paper and glued in place.

Figures 3 and 4 show the holder spread open, revealing the special pockets attached inside to hold the crayons. The pockets are formed of two strips of sturdy fabric sewed together (Figure 2) on a sewing machine, then glued to the inside of the covers.

Slip the crayons into the compartments and they will be in safe storage until you want to use them. They will always be in neat order and the colors will be visible the instant the covers are opened.

U.S. Pilots Continue Attacks Near Hanoi of aerial combat over the North. U.S. fliers are now credited with 26 MIGs downed in the war and two probably destroyed. Five American planes have been reported shot down by MIGs.

U.S. headquarters said no American planes were lost in raids Sunday.

The MIG kills came while about 15 Air Force fighter-bombers pummeled the Ha Gia oil storage depot 14 1/2 miles north of Hanoi. It was the second raid on the big complex in three days.

U.S. spokesmen said the depot contained 45 buildings and could store nearly 3 million gallons of petroleum. U.S. pilots reported heavy damage to buildings, a large secondary explosion and numerous oil fires.

The aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk has returned from San Diego, Calif., to the Tonkin Gulf for a second combat cruise off North Viet Nam, the Navy announced. The carrier's pilots flew missions against a cave storage area south of Thanh Hoa Sunday.

In terrorist attacks on U. S. installations around Saigon Sunday, a 30-man guerrilla suicide squad struck at Tan Son Nhut Air Base under mortar-fire cover. German shepherd sentry dogs detected the Viet Cong, and allied forces counterattacked on the ground and from the air.

Eighteen Viet Cong were killed and eight were captured. Besides the U.S. jet fighter and Vietnamese transport, several other planes and vehicles were slightly damaged.

and living quarters in downtown Saigon.

A terrorist threw a grenade on the porch of a Saigon residence leased by the U.S. Air Force, wounding three U.S. airmen and a Vietnamese man. One person was wounded by a plastic bomb that blasted the villa of six U.S. Defense Department civilians in Can Tho, south of Saigon.

Hanoi's Viet Nam news agency said the terrorist activities were reprisals for heavy U.S. air raids on North Viet Nam. It said that for every U.S. air strike at the North, there will be five or 10 reprisals in the South.

U.S. officials said the attacks were too well planned to have been carried out as reprisals so soon after U.S. raids around Hanoi Friday.

white minority declared the colony independent 13 months ago rather than accept British demands for eventual African rule.

Under the agreement, qualified sources said, constitutional power in Rhodesia would within days revert from Smith's regime to the British governor, Sir Humphrey Gibbs, who would guide the formation of a transitional government.

Smith would stay on as prime minister and would make room for some moderate white Rhodesians in the government. Some Africans might be invited, also.

The new government would negotiate a constitution leading to statehood for Rhodesia, with guarantees for Africans of advancement toward majority rule and racial equality. Africans would immediately receive more seats in Parliament.

The British government would reopen trade, commercial and financial connections with Rhodesia and would move to end the present voluntary U.N. sanctions.

involvement in Viet Nam In the past two years, about 600,000 youths have been drafted into the armed services.

Debate Merits

Hershey was unable to attend the four-day Chicago conference.

After debating the merits of the present system, the more than 100 conference delegates will discuss some of the proposed alternatives to the draft — including national service, lotteries and an all-volunteer standing army.

By its conclusion Wednesday night the conferees are expected to have reached an agreement on a compromise series of recommendations to the National Commission on Selective Service, a 20-member panel set up by President Johnson last summer in the aftermath of a wave of student draft protests.

The commission is to report to the President next month. That report is expected to influence Johnson's recommendations to Congress, which must vote on extending the draft law before part of it expires next June 30.

Four Questions

The conference was officially convened Sunday night, when the delegates heard Prof. Geoffrey C. Hazard Jr. of the University of Chicago Law School outline four major questions it should pursue:

Does the United States need a larger army? If so, why?

If the United States must have a medium-sized army, can it do it with volunteers?

If volunteers are not exclusively used to fill the army, who should be?

Should the United States set up a national service to supplement the draft?

Aftermath of Flood

Youth Rushes to Aid Of Florence Galleries

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Young people from all over Italy and from foreign lands are helping this historic city of books and art re-emerge as it once was.

The rush of volunteers in their teens and early 20s has overwhelmed Italy almost more than Rome to fly home but decided any other single aspect of the flood disaster and its aftermath. Italian papers see it as a contradiction of adult criticism of the beatnik rock 'n' roll generation.

Italians work side by side with students from Germany, England, the United States and many other lands.

They are mainly occupied at the museums and libraries, moving the millions of books and archives that remain in mud-matted masses awaiting movement to drying sheds outside the city.

Terrible Odor

The stench of water-soaked paper and glue bindings is sickening. The youngsters sing as they lift, carry, and pass the precious cargoes into trucks.

The adult world may see their work as an example of sacrifice. But the young don't see it that way at all. For them it is obviously fun — the fun of working in a multilingual group their own age, of putting up with discomforts and hardships that challenge their bodies and spirit, and of taking part in something that is undeniably important and historic.

Judith Rosner and Joanne

Betty, 32, were reported in good condition today at Mt. Carmel Hospital here.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, the parents of six children, had been the object of a wide search in Canada and northeastern Washington since their single engine plane vanished Nov. 24.

They were flying to Vancouver, B.C., to join relatives at the Grey Cup Canadian championship professional football game Nov. 26.

There was no sign of them until late Sunday afternoon when Ron Ruble of Colville heard a cry for help as he was trying to dig his car out of the snow.

Husband Followed

A few minutes later her husband, who had been following her down a logging road, reached the highway Ruble, who had got stuck while taking his wife and 18-month-old son on a sightseeing ride, drove the Browns to Colville.

Brown said he had headed south across the Washington border after running into a heavy fog bank over Canada. He crashed about 200 feet from the top of 7,132-foot Copper Butte, about 30 miles northwest of here.

Four-Day Trip

He said he banged up his forehead in the crash and his eyes were swollen shut for three days. He and his wife stayed in the cockpit of their Cessna 175 until last Thursday. Then they which allows electronic eavesdropping under court order violates the federal Constitution.

The court said it will grant review limited to two questions: 1. Whether the eavesdropping in the Berger case was based upon "an adequate showing of probable cause."

2. Whether the legislation itself is constitutional.

In this regard, the court said it will decide whether the law sets up "a system which intrinsically involves trespassory intrusion into private premises, 'general' searches for 'mere evidence' and invasion of the 'privilege' against self-incrimination."

Accepting Change

Greater acceptance to change was advocated by Lippitt, who said, "Let's admit that our communities are expanding social units which are becoming even more complex. But remember people still are people and human nature still is human nature."

He said the need for change sometimes overtakes communities before they are aware of it, despite best efforts in planning and budgets.

"We know that participation in planning programs promotes interest in problem-solving," Bailey said. "The concerned objector is disarmed when asked how he would do it. The honest obstructionist is moved when plunged into the factual nuts and bolts of the situation."

Bailey said the time was overdue for installing psychological foundations for change.

During the seven days they stayed at the crash scene, they built fires to attract planes flying overhead, but none saw them.

"We had a thermos of coffee and we heated that over and over," Mrs. Brown said. "We had beans and more beans. Also sardines, peanuts and caramels. We also had tea baks and made tea by melting snow in a cookie pan and boiling water in a bean tin."

national boundaries," Cavanagh said. He claimed spending in Viet Nam is at a rate of $2 billion a month — 16 times greater than the poverty war at home.

Cavanagh said the National League of Cities should make it known to the Congress and President — in no uncertain terms — that the war on poverty must be continued and properly financed.

Smoother Machinery

Bailey stressed the need for streamlining local and state government machinery to solve urban problems — some stemming from uncontrollable forces. The chamber spokesman said movement from farm to city and the population explosion have added to city pressures. He alluded to the unfavorable impact of so-called "tax islands" on central cities.

Bailey said the technical revolution has caused disruption in the labor forces, creating both unemployment and thousands of unfilled jobs at the same time. "Thus at a time when cities must meet increasing public needs," Bailey declared, "they are finding themselves with a shrinking ability to do so."

To cope with the ills, Bailey suggested action programs to get businessmen and government and civic leaders more involved in meeting community problems. He said citizen groups should insist constitutions and statutes binding state and local governments be updated.

Program Asked to Aid Indigent Defendants In Criminal Actions

MADISON (AP) — The Dane County Board of Judges was urged last week to set up a three-year pilot program for obtaining lawyers for indigent criminal defendants.

The proposal came from State Public Defender Robert Friebert and University of Wisconsin Law School Prof. Frank Remington. They were asked by the board to review the present system of obtaining county-paid attorneys to represent defendants unable to hire counsel.

Friebert said that if the county provided $10,000 it stands a good chance of getting $70,000 in Ford Foundation funds under the National Defenders Project.

Martin Supports Idea of Merged Health, Welfare

MADISON (AP)—The merger of the state's health and welfare departments received support Thursday from a subcommittee of the task force studying re-alignment of Wisconsin governmental agencies.

Assemblyman David O. Martin, R-Neenah, head of the subcommittee, said there was no formal vote taken but he expected to offer the ideas to the full meeting of the Kellett Task Force on Dec. 7.

The combined department under discussion would handle health, mental health, welfare, prisons and vocational rehabilitation.

Martin also said, "We are leaning toward a department of military and veterans affairs." It would combine areas of the adjutant general's office, civil defense and veterans affairs, he said.

The Kellett group is studying ways of slimming the structure of state government to reduce the number of agencies.

New Hope Seen For Retardates, Conclave Told

Jaycees, Jaycettes Hear Director of Kennedy Foundation

New hope for the mentally retarded, both children and adults, in the state of Wisconsin and the United States lies in the responsibility and hard work which the Jaycees and Jaycettes will continue to do in the months ahead they were told at Appleton Saturday afternoon by Fred McDonald, director of the Kennedy Foundation for Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Washington, D. C.

"I am talking about the 6 million mentally retarded adults and children with us now, not those to come in the years which lie ahead," said the principal speaker of the mental health forum at the mid-winter convention of the Wisconsin Jaycees and Jaycettes at St. Joseph Catholic School auditorium.

Concentrating his remarks on how local chapters and individuals could inform the public and involve themselves in the prevention of mental retardation and rehabilitating its victims he told them that the six million afflicted affected approximately 30 million other lives with fear, frustration and despair.

Capabilities Denied

"Five per cent of the mentally retarded are in institutions and 50 per cent of these do not belong there," McDonald said. "Eighty-five per cent of this six million are capable of sustaining themselves, holding jobs, going to school, going to church, even raising a family, if we help them."

He described the mentally retarded as those whose learning ability is below a level we call "normal." Brain damage was sighted as one cause, and a minor one, of mental retardation.

"The vast majority become retarded after birth," he added, giving surprise to his listeners. "They become retarded because of our neglect and I am not talking about the kind of parental neglect that we find only in the slums of our cities — the kind to be found through all strata of society. These children need stimulation, training, education and special consideration."

Primary Reasons

The Jaycees and Jaycettes were asked to concentrate on two primary preventative medical reasons for mental retardation, complications from common measles and the failure to test for PKU in infants.

"Can you believe that there were 2,000 cases of mental retardation attributable to the failure to immunize children from one to 12 years of age against the common measles?" he asked. Complications such as encephalitis, with its resulting high temperatures, can and does cause mental retardation, he said. "You can eliminate this possibility by a one-day statewide program of immunization for these children."

An estimated 1,000 infants are born mentally retarded each year because of birth defects and through no fault of their parents. The speaker said that research is continuing to find a medical solution to this problem.

"The late John F. Kennedy told us when he initiated the mental health and retardation program, 'Children may be the victims of fate but they will not be the victims of our neglect,'" McDonald concluded, "I am asking you to carry out that charge."

Planned Saturday, Sunday Lawrence Sets Second Messiah Performance

Handel's oratorio, "Messiah," will become a "doubleheader" presentation this weekend at Lawrence University by virtue of an extra performance announced today.

Dean LaVahn Maesch, head of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, and conductor of the school's 180-voice choral society, set the added performance at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Memorial Chapel. A performance scheduled for Sunday, was sold out earlier.

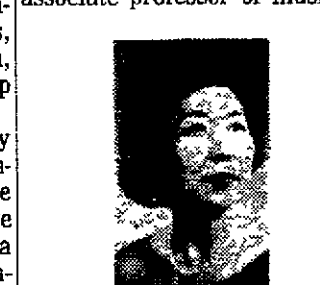

Brock

Maesch said the two "Messiahs" will be identical, except that Sunday soloists Ruth Slater, contralto, and Richard Knoll, tenor, will be replaced Saturday by Nancy Marsh Stowe, a 1961 Lawrence graduate, and Karl Brock, instructor in voice at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

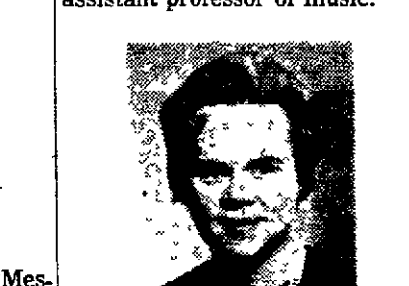

Production Principals

Principals appearing in both performances will be Mari Taniguchi, soprano, a Lawrence associate professor of music; Dale Duesing, baritone, a conservatory senior from Milwaukee; John Hall, organist, a senior from Eagle River; and Miriam Clapp Duncan, harpsichordist, an assistant professor of music. The Lawrence Symphony Orchestra will also play on both occasions. Its regular conductor is Kenneth Byler, associate professor of music.

Mrs. Stowe

Brock attended the University of Kansas and was a voice student of Metropolitan Opera tenor Paul Althouse. During several years' residency in Europe, Brock sang with German city and state opera companies, and in 1964 and 1965 had the title role in European touring productions of "The Inspector General" by Werner Egk. He has sung "Messiah" in Oshkosh, and in recent months has had solo roles in Handel's "Judas Macabaeus" and Beethoven's "Missa Solemnis" in Madison. On Dec. 1, he sang the Janacek song-cycle, "The Diary of One Who Vanished," at Lawrence.

Tickets for Saturday's performance went on sale today at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center, 115 N. Park Ave. Box office hours are noon to 6 p.m. daily throughout the week. No exchanges of tickets previously purchased for the Sunday performance will be made by the box office.

Stalin Gets Credit For Battle Victory

MOSCOW (AP) — Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky Friday fully credited Joseph Stalin with directing the Battle of Moscow which turned back the German armies.

The 69-year-old marshal told a news conference "Stalin stayed in Moscow throughout the battle, while much of the government and the diplomatic corps left for Kazan, a city to the east. He daily directed the great battle. He directed all the organs of state in rebuffing the enemy."

Lombardi, Christiansen Heap Praise on Green Bay's Starr

49er Head Coach Says Bart Is 'Probably Best QB in Football'

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service
MILWAUKEE — Shedding layers of outer garments, prudent protection against the piercing cold and drizzle of the season's most arctic afternoon, an unusually ruddy-cheeked Vince Lombardi surprisingly departed from custom at dusk Sunday afternoon.

He ordinarily confines himself to economically specific replies when posed a question during any postgame interview.

But, stirred by a performance of rare virtuosity, he made an exception in the wake of the Packers' 20-7 decision of the 49ers on the glassy turf of Milwaukee County Stadium.

"The game, gentlemen, was Starr," Vince announced. "He played a tremendous game... there is no other story to the game."

Minutes later, the 49ers' Jack Christiansen stood tight-lipped in his inner sanctum some distance away and issued a full blown eulogy on the same subject.

"Bart Starr is probably the best quarterback in football today," the 1-time Detroit Lion larcenist declared. "And when he retires, which I hope is soon, I expect he'll be recognized as the greatest of all time."

Has Better Timing

"He has better timing on calling his plays and taking advantage of defenses," Christiansen said grimly, perhaps because this last had just painfully refreshed his memory of the Starr "bombs" that loomed large in the final accounting, "than anybody I've ever seen. And he looked better today than I've ever seen him."

Earlier, Lombardi had been asked if he had "called" that first 83-yard collaboration with Carroll Dale. Rejoining without the slightest hesitation, Vince said, "I never call any plays. That's why we have an intelligent quarterback — he calls them."

Asked to assess the 49er defense as he returned to the matter at hand, Vince said, "It's tough to say because of the weather... its tough to get anything started on a field like that. They do have a real big defensive line — they must outweigh us by 25 pounds per man... I'll have to get us some big offensive linemen."

His own defense, he felt, "played real well. We gave up a little yardage now and then, but it was real tough out there for everybody... it was a real tough day to play."

Starr had had better passing success in the second half than in the first, it was noted. "Yes, he did," Vince agreed, "because he got a little bit more time to throw, that's all... they got to him a couple of times on play passes, but there is no way to take care of them when they blitz you on a play pass."

Asked about the condition of guard Fuzzy Thurston, who injured a leg in the third quarter, Lombardi said, "I don't know. We'll have x-rays taken

Packers Clinch Title Tie as Starr, Dale Pace 20-7 Win

Bart, Carroll Combine for 83-Yard TD

Bays Turn Back Stubborn 49ers On Icy Field

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
MILWAUKEE — The Packers' victory over the 49ers in County Stadium Sunday bordered on the spectacular as they inched one step closer to the 1966 Western Division championship.

The Bays didn't crush the 49ers... nothing like that... they merely beat the gold diggers by the respectable score of 20-7, with the wisdom and audacity of Bart Starr and a hard-nosed and alert defense.

The big victory — Green Bay's 10th-clinched a tie for the Western crown and set the stage for the crucial battle against the Colts in Baltimore Saturday.

The Packers have a 10-2 record, the Colts 8-4... and they each have two games left. After Saturday, the Packers visit Los Angeles while the Colts invade San Francisco.

Green Bay can win the title by beating or tying the Colts. The Colts can finish in a tie — and force a division playoff by winning their last two, while the Packers lose their final two.

The Packers missed the title by 39 seconds. That's how much time was left when the Colts nipped the Bears, 21-16, on a 16-yard touchdown pass from John Unitas to Raymond Berry.

Green Bay's win Sunday eliminated both the Rams and 49ers from title contention.

Sunday's epic was played in a freezing rain, 27-degree weather and a 16-mile wind before a record crowd of 48,725, breaking the attendance mark of 48,650 at the Colt game last Sept. 10.

It was a mean day, but no meaner than the 49ers who went after Green Bay like the league title was at stake.

When the huge throng slid out of the stadium (parking lots were slick with ice), old ice water himself, Mr. Starr, emerged as the 49ers' personal back breaker.

Fakes to Pitts

Bart came up with one of those magic third-and-one situations on the third play of the game and calmly faked to Elijah Pitts for what everybody in the park thought would be a smash into the line. He snapped the ball away from Pitts at the last second and then hurried a pass up the middle to Carroll Dale and the swift end flew into the end zone with two 49ers giving chase 10 yards behind.

This 83-yard bomb gave the Packers a 7-0 lead and it held up until the fifth play of the fourth quarter when Starr clicked.

Colts Breathe Fire Into Dying Embers, Nip Chicago, 21-16

'We Took Young Pills,' Sandusky Quips After Veterans Come Alive

BY GORDON BEARD
BALTIMORE (AP) — Alex Sandusky of the Baltimore Colts, who makes his living blocking football opponents, likes to block metaphors, too.

The offensive guard took exception last week to published stories which said some of the Colts were old enough to be retired to a life of ease in the Baltimore football corral.

Sandusky wasn't the only player smarting from the analogy, but he let his feelings be known after Baltimore whipped the Chicago Bears 21-16 in a National Football League game Sunday.

"We took 'young' pills before the game," Sandusky said, trying to get a rise out of newsmen in the locker room. "I took two pills, Gino Marchetti took six and John Unitas took one."

In other words, Sandusky was trying to say that age didn't make a difference. Experience, he indicated, would be a better word than old.

Sandusky has played 13 years in the NFL and is a member of the offensive line which has been blamed for the recent slump of the Colts.

Big Change Over Week Ago

A week ago, in a game against the Los Angeles Rams, Baltimore failed to pick up a first down rushing while gaining only 33 yards on the ground. In addition, Baltimore passers were thrown six times for losses of 57 yards.

Against the Bears Sunday, the Colts picked up nine of their 16 first downs on the ground and outgained Chicago 112 to 51 yards rushing. Not once was the Baltimore passer dumped for a loss.

Then, with less than two minutes to play, quarterback John Unitas directed a 68-yard touchdown drive in five plays with a 24-yard toss to end Raymond Berry providing the winning margin. Unitas has played 11 years in the NFL and Berry is in his 12th season.

Unitas, still bothered with a word than old.

Cowboys Now Have Full Game Lead Over Cardinals

Dallas Defense Sparkles in 31-17 Win

DALLAS (AP) — Good thing about having the team that leads the league in both offense and defense — if one fails the other comes through.

It was the defense's time Sunday as the Dallas Cowboys faced the St. Louis Cardinals in a battle for the lead in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

And it came through in such a way that it put a big glow on the usually stolid visage of Coach Tom Landry, as his Cowboys whipped the Cardinals 31-17 and shot into a commanding position in the NFL race.

Now Dallas leads St. Louis by a game and has just two left to play — against Washington here next Sunday and at New York Dec. 18.

Made Big Play

"We took advantage of our chances and we made the big play when we had to," observed Landry. "The offense didn't do very well, although it carried through when the defense set it up."

But back to the fears of the Dallas defense, which, for the day, turned into the killer breed. The Cowboys blitzed more than ever before when a four-man rush had given Terry Nofsinger, the St. Louis quarterback, too much time.

It was about 40 per cent and that was more than St. Louis, noted for its blitzing tactics, came up with although it harried Don Meredith, the Dallas quarterback, into one of his worst passing days.

Roy Shivers signalled for a fair catch but the ball didn't come close enough to him and John Roland tried to take it.

Roland fumbled and J. D. Smith recovered on the St. Louis 45. Dan Reeves promptly ran through the line for a touchdown and Dallas led after only 1:29 of play.

But Nofsinger passed the Cardinals on a drive that carried to the Dallas 18 and Jim Bakken kicked a 25-yard field goal.

Shortly afterward Nofsinger, Roland and Prentice Gautt led a 57-yard drive that wound up with Roland, smashing over from the one and St. Louis led 10-7.

It was midway of the second period before Dallas could take the lead back.

The Cowboys used a pass interference penalty and a 15-yard penalty for Pat Fischer hitting Bob Hayes out of bounds after he caught a pass to shove along a 58-yard drive. Meredith passed to Hayes for 25 yards and the score.

The defense was back in the picture on the next Dallas touchdown. Chuck Howley deflected a Nofsinger pass into the hands of Mel Renfro, who raced 33 yards to the St. Louis three. Don Perkins scored from the two.

Penalty for Roughing

A 15-yard penalty for roughing Meredith helped Dallas to a field goal. It came on third down with Dallas needing 20 yards to the Dallas 40. Meredith then flung a 51-yarder to Hayes that put the ball on the St. Louis nine. Danny Villanueva kicked a field goal from the Cardinal 10.

Villanueva's only short kick of the day set up the final St. Louis touchdown made on a 16-yard pass from Nofsinger to Billy Gambrell.

Cornell Green intercepted a pass and a roughing penalty set the ball on the St. Louis 11 to put on the finishing defensive touches for victory. Perkins raced to the touchdown.

A crowd of 76,965 sat in a dense fog to watch the game and bring Dallas attendance for the year to 409,175 for six games — the all-time high for the Cowboys in seven years of NFL membership.

FVL Quintet Wins Double-Overtime Duel From Zephyrs

Foxes Erase 15-Point Deficit In the Final Regulation Period

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
Fox Valley Lutheran's remarkable fourth-period comeback coupled with Menasha St. Mary's complete collapse in the same frame paved the way for the Foxes' 58-37, double-overtime victory at the FVL gym Sunday night.

St. Mary was sporting a 13-point lead at the close of three stanzas and extended it two more with the first goal of the last quarter. Then things started to happen and most of them were bad for the Zephyrs.

Fox Lutheran came up with successive strings of seven and 12 points sandwiched around the second of three Zephyr fielders in the frame, giving the hosts a 50-48 lead.

The visitors, who were guilty of eight turnovers in the quarter, had to score late in the period to send the game into the first overtime and also had to come from behind in the first extra session.

Foxes Take Lead

The Foxes again raced to the lead in the next overtime but this time refused to be caught, although the Menashans weren't without their chances.

Big gunners for the winners in the furious fourth were Dave Tiedt and Howie Korth with six points apiece. Gary Depner added four. Depner's rebound tied the score and Tiedt's fielder produced the 50-48 lead with 1:49 left.

A free throw, which was missed, could have just about iced the victory with 46 seconds left in the fourth stanza, but St. Mary took the rebound and Greg Gill tied the score on a jump shot with 25 seconds remaining.

The Zephyrs again gained possession with seven seconds to play but couldn't tally.

Exchange Goals

Fox Lutheran's Paul Mueller and Tom Wroblewski of St. Mary exchanged baskets to open the first overtime. Marc Haberman gave the visitors the lead with a free throw with 27 seconds left but Tiedt hit a pair, giving a 54-53 advantage to the hosts.

Haberman again converted on a gifter with nine seconds left to create another tie, but he missed the second attempt leading to another 3-minute frame.

Depner's fielder from the side sent the Foxes off to a good start in the second overtime. Wroblewski hit a free throw but Tim Petermann and Mueller each made one for the winners, giving them a 58-55 edge. Both missed second tries.

With 18 seconds remaining on the clock, St. Mary got within a point on Haberman's jump shot. FVL traveled and St. Mary took

Victory Practically Sews Up 'Eastern' Title for Patriots

Nance Stars in 14-3 Boston Win; San Diego Tips Houston

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
For Jim Nance 26 pounds was the difference between the bench and the record book
Nance's running highlighted Boston's 14-3 American Football League victory over Buffalo Sunday, a victory that all but gave the Patriots the Eastern Division title. Nance scored once and gained 109 yards, raising his record rushing total to 1,234 yards for the season.
All in all, it's a big change from the former Syracuse star's 1955 season in the AFL, his first, during which he spent most of the time gaining weight instead of yards.
"I wasn't concentrating on what I was doing," he said in the Boston locker room after the game. "The weight kept going up and I didn't even notice it."
When the scale hit 262, Nance hit the bench, but this year there have been some changes made.
"I got my weight down to 236," he said. I can make better, sharper cuts now. And I set my goal as being the best back in the league."

Zephyrs Lose Ball

Another in a series of Zephyr mistakes, like those experienced in the nightmarish fourth period, this time an errant pass, gave the ball back to the Foxes. St. Mary pilfered the ball back with two seconds left but there wasn't enough time to do anything with it.

The Menashans lost high-scoring Mike Gage on fouls halfway through the fourth period while Gill picked up his fifth in the first overtime. Depner committed FVL's first four fouls but didn't get another until the second overtime.

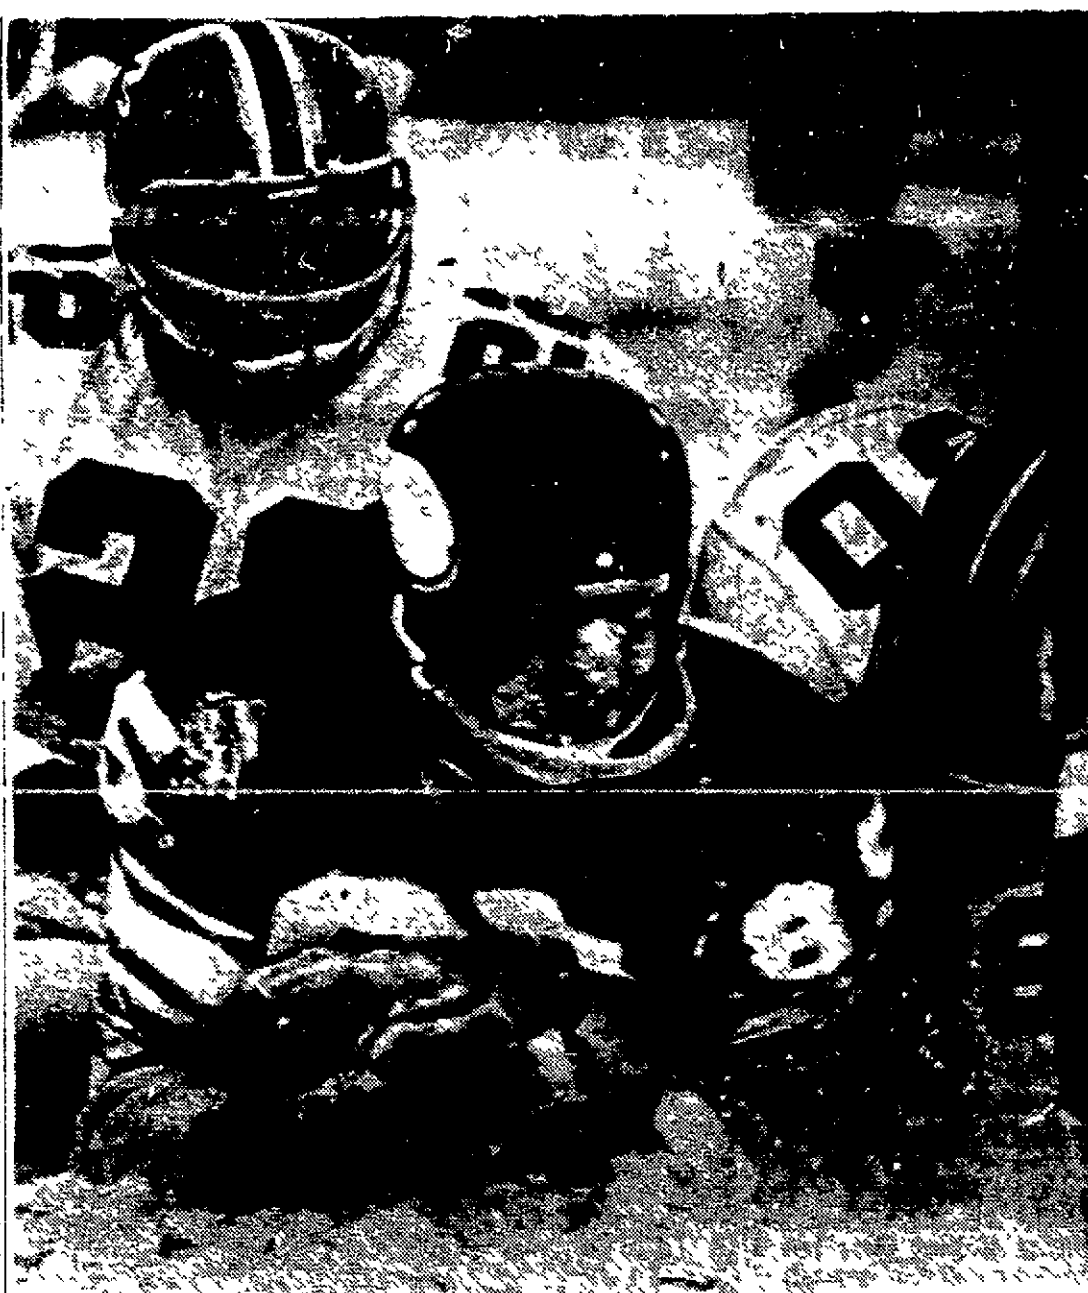

The Foxes overcame St. Mary's 23 to 19, field goal edge with a 20 in 14 advantage from the charity line. Fox Lutheran hit an unofficial 32.2 per cent, St. Mary 29.9.

Tiedt paced the winners with 18 points, and Korth added 12. Gill's 15 led St. Mary, followed by Gage's 13.

Concannon in Starring Role As Eagles Win

Philadelphia Tips Rival Steelers By 27-23 Margin

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—

Jack Concannon, who had been sitting on the bench almost three seasons counting his big bonus, and Tom Woodeschick, another perennial second-stringer, led the Philadelphia Eagles to a 27-23 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday in a National Football League game.

Concannon, who had played 18½ minutes this season mostly as a flanker, made his first start in almost two years at quarterback. He completed 13 of 25 passes for 131 yards and scrambled for 129 more on the ground.

Woodeschick gained 46 on 19 carries and scored two touchdowns.

$50,000 Bonus

Concannon, who received a reported $50,000 bonus three years ago after starring at Boston College, scored the winning touchdown from the one yard line early in the final period. His score made it 27-16 and was enough to offset a Pittsburgh touchdown two minutes later.

The Pennsylvania pro rivals battled to a 13-13 first half tie with the Eagles scoring on two field goals by Sam Baker and Woodeschick's first touchdown.

The Steelers came back on a seven-yard scoring effort by Bill Asbury and two field goals by Mike Clark.

The Steelers, now 3-8-1 for the season, took a 16-13 lead after 8:56 of the third quarter on Clark's third field goal, on a 35-yarder.

Runs For 21 More

Concannon, throwing three times for a total of 40 yards and running for 21 more, led the Eagles 70 yards on 11 plays for a touchdown scored from the one yard line by Woodeschick.

Moments later, the Steelers fumbled and the Eagles recovered at the Pittsburgh 39. Con-

2 Inches of Snow on Field

Falcons Intercept 5 Passes During 20-13 Upset of Minnesota

By LEW FERGUSON

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL

(AP)—Norm Van Brocklin was so disturbed over the play of his Minnesota Vikings a year ago that he quit as coach of the National Football League team for 24 hours.

Yet it is doubtful that Van Brocklin was any more upset in 1965 than he was Sunday after the Vikings lost 20-13 to the new Atlanta Falcons, who were 17-point underdogs to Minnesota before the slipping and sliding started on the two inches of snow in Metropolitan Stadium.

The once-volatile Dutchman won't quit now, even though his team's 3-8-1 Western Conference record is bitterly disappointing to him.

Van Brocklin still seethes when he feels his team plays badly, but it doesn't eat his inside as much as it once did. He can talk about it and get it out of his system better.

Hope for Best

"I found that the trick is not to play the game for the players," Van Brocklin said. "I can't get out there and throw the ball any more. Mentally, I guess that's what I was doing. I found that going in the dumps didn't help anybody. Now, I get them ready, and hope for the best."

Still, Van Brocklin must speak his piece.

"Nobody played," he said Sunday after the Vikings had five passes intercepted and lost a fumble. "I've seen high school kids scrap harder than our offensive team did today. They had no fight, no scrap, no desire to play."

"They should have those things. They're supposed to be pro athletes. Fumbles and interceptions made the difference on the scoreboard, but they don't tell the real reason why we lost."

40-Yard Field Goal

Minnesota's only scoring answer after that were Fred Cox's 40-yard field goal on a free kick after a free catch of an Atlanta punt on the last play of the first half, and Cox' 24-yard field goal after the Vikings drove 40 yards in the third quarter.

"Our defense won it," Atlanta

Coach Norb Hecker said.

"We've made tremendous progress in the last three or four weeks. We started playing very well in our 19-6 loss to Baltimore."
